JOBLESS RELIEF BILL REPORTED

Roosevelt's New Monetary Policy Proving Success

VICTORY IS CLAIMED ON FIRST DAY

Price of Gold in London is Raised Today in Order to Compete With U. S.

FRENCH LOSS HEAVY

Secretary Morgenthau Says He is Satisfied With World Market Moves

BULLETIN

PARIS, Feb. 2. — (UP)—Banking circles reported that, in the last 48 hours, the Bank of France lost 400,000,000 francs in gold ($25,528,000 at today's rate of exchange).

Most of the gold is being exported to the United States as part of the European rush of bullion to take a profit under President Roosevelt's gold-buying scheme.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Administration officials today believed President Roosevelt's bold monetary policy already had shown signs of success in enabling the United States to raise world prices of various vital commodities.

Officials claimed an American victory in the first skirmish in international financial markets following Mr. Roosevelt's devaluation of the dollar.

Cotton and rubber were up yesterday. These staples and others such as wheat, corn and copper figure in administration plans. Rising prices for these international staples are expected gradually to attract others to the upward movement, thus promoting world recovery.

The victory claimed in the international market was based on a rise in the London, or world, price of gold.

By forcing the world price upward, the United States hopes to promote a corresponding increase in commodity prices. The $35 American bid is designed to protect the American price raising program against international bear movements.

Secretary Morgenthau was described in responsible circles as "satisfied" with the movement of the world market.

The sharp rise in the London price of gold was cited as evidence that the United States would dictate the world prices of

LONG DISAPPOINTS SELECT GATHERING

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Senator Huey Long disappointed a select gathering in the Mayflower hotel main dining room last night.

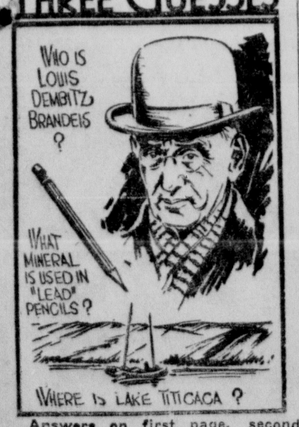

In glittering array and anticipation, the great and near-great gathered in the dining room after Mayor T. Semmes Walmsley of New Orleans announced he would dine there at 8 p. m., and that if the Kingfish appeared he would "thrash the daylights out of him." The men are political enemies.

Senator Hastings, Republican, Delaware, obtained a seat of vantage in the dining room early.

The setting was perfect. The orchestra played. Mayor Walmsley entered on schedule.

But Huey didn't appear.

RULES AGAINST CAFES SERVING HARD LIQUORS

Ukiah Jurist Decides Test Case Against Equalization Board Today

UKIAH, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Superior Judge W. D. L. Held today ruled that hard liquor cannot be served or consumed in public dining rooms.

The ruling was handed down in an opinion growing out of the test suit brought against the state board of equalization by F. W. Sandelin, Ukiah hotel operator.

The opinion covered the general administration of California's liquor control law and included the following major interpretations:

1—A patron may bring liquor into a dining room in original packages, but the liquor may not be consumed there.

2—Wines and beer and no other intoxicating liquors may be consumed in dining rooms and the wines and beer may be consumed only at tables with meals.

3—Dining room employes may not procure from any source intoxicating liquor other than wines and beer, or deliver or serve the same to patrons.

4—A sandwich may be considered a "meal" in the serving of beer and wine, whether or not the sandwich is consumed by the patron.

5—A space partitioned in a dining room with the service door or window opening into said dining room renders the dining room a portion of the premises of the space so petitioned off. Said space, if liquors are sold there, constitute a retail liquor store and liquor sold therefrom and consumed in the dining room would be consumed on the premises where sold.

6—The state board of equalization has the right to police the liquor store and also the dining room and restaurant of plaintiff.

In defining the word "premises," Judge Held said:

OGDEN MILLS BACK IN SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—"Political control" of the U. S. treasury is a "dangerous experiment," Ogden L. Miles, former secretary of the treasury, reiterated here as he established his family in their San Mateo county home today for a month's stay.

Mills referred most questioners to his Topeka speech in which he charged that the Roosevelt administration monetary plans threatened to impair the Federal Reserve bank system. The former cabinet member planned to call "within a few days" on former President Hoover at Palo Alto. He served in the Hoover cabinet.

KILLS SELF RATHER THAN FACE ARREST

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—A young man who shot himself yesterday rather than submit to capture after robbing an express office, was identified by police today as John M. Barnes, 24, son of an official of the Mountain States Telephone company at Boulder, Colo.

The youth robbed the office of the Railway Express company of $350 in express money orders, according to police, and fled in a borrowed automobile. Police pursued him for 15 miles and finally stopped his automobile by riddling its tires with bullets. Facing capture, they said, the youth draw a revolver and shot himself through the brain.

He died later in an emergency hospital.

Coroner Finds Services Not Yet Needed

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Members of a home for aged Chinese in Isleton were sad. Eng Sing, he of 72 summers and winters, was no more.

So the county coroner was called and deputies were sent to Isleton. There they threw a sheet over Sing and placed him on a stretcher.

The proceeding evidently interested the aged Oriental. He opened his eyes, grunted something that sounded like "vellee sleepee" and turned over to a more comfortable position.

The deputies went back empty-handed.

FOG CONDENSER MAY BE TRIED OUT IN HARBOR

Invention Claimed to Create Low Pressure Area Which Dispels Haze

LOS ANGELES Feb. 2.—Experiments designed to revolutionize harbor weather conditions in Los Angeles may soon be undertaken by local authorities, it was revealed here yesterday.

Officials of the marine exchange were negotiating with William Taight, inventor of a fog condenser now located atop Turnbull canyon Whittier, to move his apparatus to the municipal building roof alongside the main channel in the harbor.

Capt. Paul Chandler, manager of the marine exchange, revealed that he had under consideration moving the Haight electrodrome which has been in operation about six years in the Whittier district. Patents on the invention are now pending in the Federal Patent bureau in Washington, Haight said.

Haight's present electrodrome is set on top of a 100-foot tower. It consists of a 12-foot coil that operates from a 25 kilowatt plant which sends into the coil a current of 13,000 volts which is stepped up to 500,000 volts.

ADMINISTRATION IN MOVE TO AID LOANS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The administration is considering formation of a banking corporation to establish endorsement of certain loans to Soviet Russia, it was learned authoritatively today.

The amount necessary to create such a corporation has not been decided upon, although it is believed that it will be the type of bank in which the R. F. C. can take stock.

Details of such an organization were worked out in a conference yesterday between the President; Jesse Jones, chairman of the R. F. C., and William C. Bullitt, ambassador to the Soviet Union.

MRS. ROOSEVELT IS STRICKEN AT PARTY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The indefatigable Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt was absent from a state reception at the White House last night because of a slight indisposition.

After standing with the president for a while greeting the guests, Mrs. Roosevelt had to return to her room for a few minutes to recover from a threatened faintness.

In about five minutes she was again at the president's side, smiling graciously as she shook hands with the hundreds gathered there.

VERNE SANKEY AIDE CAPTURED IN WINDY CITY

Gordon Alcorn and Wife Arrested by Federal Agents in Night

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Gordon Alcorn, confederate of Verne Sankey, South Dakota kidnaper, was captured here with his wife and will be taken immediatelty to face trial at Pierre, S. D., on a charge of abducting Charles Boettcher, II, wealthy Danver man, federal authorities revealed.

Sankey and his wife are now in jail there awaiting trial.

The Alcorn arrest was made secretly in the same manner as that of Sankey.

Both Sankey and Alcorn had been objects of one of the most widespread federal searches in several years. They had been named months ago by confederates in the kidnapings and since that time had been in hiding, often just one jump ahead of the operatives close on their trails.

Justice department agents planned to question Alcorn in connection with the Lindbergh kidnaping. Little hope was held that he was implicated in this case since Sankey has been able to show the federal authorities he had no part in it.

Agents were hopeful of obtaining a clue to the kidnapers of William Hamm jr., and Edward Bremer, both St. Paul abduction victims, through these two men.

They suspected that the "finger man" in the Bohn, Hamm and Bremer cases was the same individual. They did not believe Alcorn or Sankey played any part in the Hamm and Bremer abductions, however.

The trials of Alcorn and the Sankeys will be in South Dakota on charges of transporting the kidnaped Boettcher there from Denver for ransom.

NEW YORK COVERED WITH SNOW BLANKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—New York City, with an eight-inch blanket of snow, today faced more cold weather.

A warm, flaky snow that fell all day yesterday turned into slush on the city streets, but at night all the temperature and the snow remained. More than 2600 unemployed were put to work at snow removal, with more joining their ranks today.

The snow ceased at 1 a. m. and today dawned clear, giving the groundhog ample chance to see his shadow.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The heaviest snowfall of the season today blanketed the Philadelphia area to a depth of five and one-half inches, slowed traffic and caused dozens of minor accidents.

Sen. Johnson Bill Passes Again Today

Measure Now Goes to House Where Passage Assured Administration

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The senate today reconsidered and passed the Johnson bill in an amended form closing American money markets to nations in default on debts due the United States government.

The measure now goes to the house, where strong support for legislation of this type was developed.

The bill would prohibit any further public or private loans to defaulting nations or the purchase of any more of their bonds or securities.

The bill with its new amendments was accepted by the administration.

Senator Hiram Johnson said the "first desideratum" was that something should be done about war debts and that "certain events recently have accentuated this necessity."

"I am very glad to consent to the amendments," he said. "Whether I am in whole-hearted support of them is immaterial."

The nations affected by the bill are virtually all in Europe. As originally passed, it would have applied also to Latin-American and other countries in default on securities floated privately in this country.

One amendment was designed to protect American purchases of foreign bonds now in default. The amendment would make it possible for American citizens to receive any dividends or participate in refunding operations of such bonds. The bill as originally drawn would have prevented this.

SACRAMENTO BACKS KENNETT DAM PLAN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Sacramento's city council today was on record in favor of a resolution committing the city to purchase electric power from the proposed Kennett dam, major unit of the central valley water program.

The resolution also called for distribution of 80,000,000 kilowatt hours through a municipally-owned system.

The resolution was asked by the central valley water authority. The commitment will be used by the authority in obtaining federal loans and grants for the project.

JURY HAS KIDNAPING CASE

CHICAGO, Feb. 2. — (UP)—A jury today deliberated the John Factor kidnaping case, in which the prosecution asked the death penalty for Roger Touhy, ranking gang leader, and two companions.

The jury's failure to bring in an immediate verdict led to the usual conjectures of a favorable verdict for the defendants, Touhy, Albert Kator and Gustav Schaeffer.

After seven and a half hours of discussion, the jury was sent to bed at 12:50 a. m. with instructions to resume its efforts at 9 a. m.

REVEALS FILES OF SECRETARY ARE TAKEN OUT

Senate Committee Threatens to Impound Letters in McCracken Office

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The senate late today ordered its sergeant-at-arms to place former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken under arrest and bring him before the bar of the senate. The action was unanimous.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Chairman Black of the special senate committee investigating air mail subsidies sent a staff of investigators to the law offices of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken today to impound all confidential files and correspondence which McCracken refused to produce for the committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Chairman Black of the special senate committee investigating air mail contracts threatened today to impound all files in the law office of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken, after McCracken testified he permitted removal of some of the files after receipt of a subpoena from the committee.

The former commerce department official, whose efforts during the Hoover administration were directed at building up an efficient airways system throughout the country, told the committee frankly that he had given his permission to L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways, to remove some correspondence from his office here.

"Serious Offense"

Senator McCarran, Dem., Nev., charged that the action constituted "a serious offense" and said McCracken had "directly violated the summons of the subpoena."

Black said that unless McCracken agreed to submit all his remaining files to committee investigators for examination, legal steps would be taken to obtain the correspondence.

McCracken appeared before the committee today to discuss further the question of whether the relation of a lawyer to his client enabled him to claim privilege in refusing to submit confidential information regarding negotiations between airplane companies and the government for mail subsidies.

McCracken said the files removed from his office after receipt of the subpoena contained personal correspondence which was the sole property of some of his clients. Brittin, he said, had requested permission from a partner in the McCracken law firm to remove some of the correspondence.

Scores Witness

"I consider that a direct violation of the summons of the subpoena," McCarran said. "We could have impounded those files, but did not, believing that they would remain in your office.

"Now it has been disclosed—I might say with propriety—that they have been tampered with. I will say to the witness that he had no right to permit them to be removed."

McCarran told McCracken that the former official's negotiations in Washington in behalf of the air companies he represented were those "of a lobbyist and not an attorney." "Under those conditions" the Nevadan senator said, "I do not believe that the question of privilge raised by the witness is applicable."

SECOND THREAT IN TRIAL DISCLOSED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A new "threat" was added today to an earlier warning reported at the trial of a $240,000 suit, charging Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, with breach of contract.

The latest threat was reported by Willedd Andrews, attorney for Mrs. Hutton, who said an anonymous telephone caller told him:

"You will pass out of the picture when Judge Yankwich passes out."

Two days ago Trial Judge Leon R. Yankwich received a letter, containing vague warnings in connection with the suit.

Prince of Wales Now Does Embroidery

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and his brother, the Duke of York, are doing embroidery in their spare time, it was revealed today.

The royal family, inspired by Queen Mary, who has been particularly busy of late embroidering sets for the chairs in Buckingham palace, has turned its attention to the art of stitchery, an ancient hobby and a truly royal art.

The fad, or hobby, has attracted the interest of not only of the heir to the throne, but of the princess royal and her husband, Lord Harewood. They are particularly engaged in "petit point," which is one of the most difficult forms of the art.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP) — A Japanese-American understanding for peace in the Pacific was urged today by Hiroshi Saito newly-appointed Japanese ambassador to Washington.

In a frank, non-political discussion of problems of the Pacific, Saito revealed in an exclusive interview with the United Press the trend which he hopes future relations will take. He emphasized the following major points:

1—A non-aggression understanding could be reached, perhaps with Russia included.

2—There is no danger of a war between Japan and Russia.

JAMES MURPHY TO SEEK NOMINATION

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Planning to base his campaign on the argument for a "more just distribution of the taxation burden," James M. Murphy, Sacramento insurance man, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as a member of the state board of equalization from the second district.

The present second district member is Fred E. Stewart, leading member of the board, who is expected to announce his candidacy for re-election in a few days.

Murphy, former chief deputy labor commissioner and an inspector for the state railroad commission, acted as legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen some years ago.

RUSS BALLOON SETS NEW ALTITUDE MARK

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(UP) — A barograph ribbon, rescued from the wreckage of the gondola from the stratostat Syrius, in which three valiant soviet aeronauts plunged to their deaths, showed today that they had reached the unprecedented height of 13 2-3 miles before they crashed.

The ribbon, registering pressure within the gondola, was intact and undamaged. It showed that Commander Paul Fedossenko and his two companions reached their greatest altitude at 12:30 p. m Tuesday.

In addition to the barograph ribbon, the investigating commission also recovered the joint diary of the three men, Fedoseenko, Ilia Ususkin and Andrew Vasenko, who constructed the balloon.

950 MILLION FUND SOUGHT IN MEASURE

President Given Power to Distribute Huge Fund According to Desires

CARRIES CWA TO MAY

Half Billion to Be Used Mainly to Continue Relief Aid in All States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A $950,000,000 unemployment relief bill, designed to continue the Federal wing of protection over the nation's jobless, was reported to the House today by the appropriations committee.

Despite angry undercurrents of protests against the administration's intention to use the bulk of the new fund for relief aid other than that approved by the Civil Works administration, House leaders hoped to pass the bill by nightfall.

Approximately $450,000,000 of the appropriation, according to Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, will be used to extent the CWA until May, when the work projects which have put 4,000,000 men to work will be dropped. Hopkins informed the appropriations committee that the remaining $500,000,000 would be used mainly to continue relief aid to states.

Hopkins asserted that the CWA was set up as an "emergency measure for the winter only," and that he expected that by May a pick-up in PWA work and industrial and farm conditions would make possible "complete demobilization."

Minimize Graft

A graphic picture of the unemployment situation was presented the committee by Hopkins, it was revealed by publication of his testimony at secret hearings. He minimized "graft" conditions in the CWA, warned that millions of jobless will present a Federal problem when "normal" times return, and estimated that 3,000,000 persons would be on relief rolls throughout 1934.

As a permanent solution to the unemployment problem he said a "scheme of unemployment insurance is going to be necessary."

Present CWA funds will be exhausted by February 10, he testified, with the government having put a total of $500,000,000 into the projects and states and cities donating from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The $950,000,000 bill emanating from the administration should provide sufficient funds to carry on Federal relief work until next January, "possibly two or three months longer," Hopkins said.

Hopkins indicated that if necessary the CWA would be continued a "few weeks longer" than May 1, if there was a delay in seasonal business pick-up and PWA work. He also said that it was possible that recent hour reductions in CWA work might be adjusted.

The bill would prohibit any further public or private loans to defaulting nations or the purchase of any more of their bonds or securities.

The bill with its new amendments was accepted by the administration.

Senator Hiram Johnson said the "first desideratum" was that something should be done about war debts and that "certain events recently have accentuated this necessity."

"I am very glad to consent to the amendments," he said. "Whether I am in whole-hearted support of them is immaterial."

The nations affected by the bill are virtually all in Europe. As originally passed, it would have applied also to Latin-American and other countries in default on securities floated privately in this country.

One amendment was designed to protect American purchases of foreign bonds now in default. The amendment would make it possible for American citizens to receive any dividends or participate in refunding operations of such bonds. The bill as originally drawn would have prevented this.

SACRAMENTO BACKS KENNETT DAM PLAN

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Sacramento's city council today was on record in favor of a resolution committing the city to purchase electric power from the proposed Kennett dam, major unit of the central valley water program.

The resolution also called for distribution of 80,000,000 kilowatt hours through a municipally-owned system.

The resolution was asked by the central valley water authority. The commitment will be used by the authority in obtaining federal loans and grants for the project.

JURY HAS KIDNAPING CASE

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A jury today deliberated the John Factor kidnaping case, in which the prosecution asked the death penalty for Roger Touhy, ranking gang leader, and two companions.

The jury's failure to bring in an immediate verdict led to the usual conjectures of a favorable verdict for the defendants, Touhy, Albert Kator and Gustav Schaeffer.

After seven and a half hours of discussion, the jury was sent to bed at 12:50 a. m. with instructions to resume its efforts at 9 a. m.

REVEALS FILES OF SECRETARY ARE TAKEN OUT

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The senate late today ordered its sergeant-at-arms to place former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken under arrest and bring him before the bar of the senate. The action was unanimous.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Chairman Black of the special senate committee investigating air mail subsidies sent a staff of investigators to the law offices of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken today to impound all confidential files and correspondence which McCracken refused to produce for the committee.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Chairman Black of the special senate committee investigating air mail contracts threatened today to impound all files in the law office of former Assistant Secretary of Commerce W. P. McCracken, after McCracken testified he permitted removal of some of the files after receipt of a subpoena from the committee.

The former commerce department official, whose efforts during the Hoover administration were directed at building up an efficient airways system throughout the country, told the committee frankly that he had given his permission to L. H. Brittin, vice president of Northwest Airways, to remove some correspondence from his office here.

"Serious Offense"

Senator McCarran, Dem., Nev., charged that the action constituted "a serious offense" and said McCracken had "directly violated the summons of the subpoena."

Black said that unless McCracken agreed to submit all his remaining files to committee investigators for examination, legal steps would be taken to obtain the correspondence.

McCracken appeared before the committee today to discuss further the question of whether the relation of a lawyer to his client enabled him to claim privilege in refusing to submit confidential information regarding negotiations between airplane companies and the government for mail subsidies.

McCracken said the files removed from his office after receipt of the subpoena contained personal correspondence which was the sole property of some of his clients. Brittin, he said, had requested permission from a partner in the McCracken law firm to remove some of the correspondence.

Scores Witness

"I consider that a direct violation of the summons of the subpoena," McCarran said. "We could have impounded those files, but did not, believing that they would remain in your office.

"Now it has been disclosed—I might say with propriety—that they have been tampered with. I will say to the witness that he had no right to permit them to be removed."

McCarran told McCracken that the former official's negotiations in Washington in behalf of the air companies he represented were those "of a lobbyist and not an attorney." "Under those conditions" the Nevadan senator said, "I do not believe that the question of privilge raised by the witness is applicable."

SECOND THREAT IN TRIAL DISCLOSED

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A new "threat" was added today to an earlier warning reported at the trial of a $240,000 suit, charging Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, the evangelist, with breach of contract.

The latest threat was reported by Willedd Andrews, attorney for Mrs. Hutton, who said an anonymous telephone caller told him:

"You will pass out of the picture when Judge Yankwich passes out."

Two days ago Trial Judge Leon R. Yankwich received a letter, containing vague warnings in connection with the suit.

Prince of Wales Now Does Embroidery

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, and his brother, the Duke of York, are doing embroidery in their spare time, it was revealed today.

The royal family, inspired by Queen Mary, who has been particularly busy of late embroidering sets for the chairs in Buckingham palace, has turned its attention to the art of stitchery, an ancient hobby and a truly royal art.

The fad, or hobby, has attracted the interest of not only of the heir to the throne, but of the princess royal and her husband, Lord Harewood. They are particularly engaged in "petit point," which is one of the most difficult forms of the art.

NEW JAPANESE MINISTER TO U. S. FOR PEACE

Hiroshi Saito Declares No Danger of War Between Japan and Russia

(Editor's Note: The vital question of relations between the United States and Japan, and the possible trend they may take in the future, are discussed in the following interview with Hiroshi Saito, ambassador-designate to Washington, who sails for the United States tomorrow to take up his post.)

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A Japanese-American understanding for peace in the Pacific was urged today by Hiroshi Saito newly-appointed Japanese ambassador to Washington.

In a frank, non-political discussion of problems of the Pacific, Saito revealed in an exclusive interview with the United Press the trend which he hopes future relations will take. He emphasized the following major points:

1—A non-aggression understanding could be reached, perhaps with Russia included.

2—There is no danger of a war between Japan and Russia.

3—Japan would like to see the immigration barrier removed and to be placed on the same basis as

JAMES MURPHY TO SEEK NOMINATION

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Planning to base his campaign on the argument for a "more just distribution of the taxation burden," James M. Murphy, Sacramento insurance man, today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination as a member of the state board of equalization from the second district.

The present second district member is Fred E. Stewart, leading member of the board, who is expected to announce his candidacy for re-election in a few days.

Murphy, former chief deputy labor commissioner and an inspector for the state railroad commission, acted as legislative representative of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen some years ago.

RUSS BALLOON SETS NEW ALTITUDE MARK

MOSCOW, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A barograph ribbon, rescued from the wreckage of the gondola from the stratostat Syrius, in which three valiant soviet aeronauts plunged to their deaths, showed today that they had reached the unprecedented height of 13 2-3 miles before they crashed.

The ribbon, registering pressure within the gondola, was intact and undamaged. It showed that Commander Paul Fedossenko and his two companions reached their greatest altitude at 12:30 p. m. Tuesday.

In addition to the barograph ribbon, the investigating commission also recovered the joint diary of the three men, Fedoseenko, Ilia Ususkin and Andrew Vasenko, who constructed the balloon.

950 MILLION FUND SOUGHT IN MEASURE

CARRIES CWA TO MAY

Half Billion to Be Used Mainly to Continue Relief Aid in All States

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A $950,000,000 unemployment relief bill, designed to continue the Federal wing of protection over the nation's jobless, was reported to the House today by the appropriations committee.

Despite angry undercurrents of protests against the administration's intention to use the bulk of the new fund for relief aid other than that approved by the Civil Works administration, House leaders hoped to pass the bill by nightfall.

Approximately $450,000,000 of the appropriation, according to Emergency Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins, will be used to extent the CWA until May, when the work projects which have put 4,000,000 men to work will be dropped. Hopkins informed the appropriations committee that the remaining $500,000,000 would be used mainly to continue relief aid to states.

Hopkins asserted that the CWA was set up as an "emergency measure for the winter only," and that he expected that by May a pick-up in PWA work and industrial and farm conditions would make possible "complete demobilization."

Minimize Graft

A graphic picture of the unemployment situation was presented the committee by Hopkins, it was revealed by publication of his testimony at secret hearings. He minimized "graft" conditions in the CWA, warned that millions of jobless will present a Federal problem when "normal" times return, and estimated that 3,000,000 persons would be on relief rolls throughout 1934.

As a permanent solution to the unemployment problem he said a "scheme of unemployment insurance is going to be necessary."

Present CWA funds will be exhausted by February 10, he testified, with the government having put a total of $500,000,000 into the projects and states and cities donating from $175,000,000 to $200,000,000.

The $950,000,000 bill emanating from the administration should provide sufficient funds to carry on Federal relief work until next January, "possibly two or three months longer," Hopkins said.

Hopkins indicated that if necessary the CWA would be continued a "few weeks longer" than May 1, if there was a delay in seasonal business pick-up and PWA work. He also said that it was possible that recent hour reductions in CWA work might be adjusted.

CITY OPERATION OF GAS SERVICE WINS APPROVAL

With few exceptions, merchants and civic leaders of Santa Ana joined today in wholehearted approval of the proposed plan to have the city of Santa Ana set up a municipal gas system and draw from the enormous wastage of natural gas from the Huntington Beach oil field, as announced yesterday in The Register.

A representative cross section of merchants, ministers, bankers, realtors and citizens was questioned by The Register today regarding the investigation being made by the city council. The plan as tentatively outlined is for the council to sign a temporary contract with a leading oil company and then call a bond election in the next few months to permit the voters to express approval or disapproval of the plan.

From estimates made by city officials and others, it is believed that gas rates could be cut drastically and still return a profit to the city. The distributing plant and mains of the Southern Counties Gas company would be purchased by the city or a new system installed, according to plans under discussion. The plan works successfully in Long Beach, where large profits are made each year with lower rates.

One leading grocer expressed great satisfaction over the move and said that the electric utilities should be taken over also. A prominent banker said the plan was well worth looking into and was in accord with the trend of the times toward government regulation.

Many of the men were not sufficiently informed on the proposition to endorse the Santa Ana proposal but declared they were fundamentally in favor of municipal ownership and would favor the municipal gas proposition if a thorough investigation revealed that the idea was sound and feasible. They agreed that economies were in order and could best be brought about by a city owned concern.

A prominent insurance man expressed disfavor to the proposition and municipal ownership as a whole. Several declined to comment on the question.

WILL ROGERS says:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Say, the snow is knee deep tonight and still a-falling. California, here I come. The aeroplanes are awful fine, but the old trains come in mighty handy, and they are getting their rates down now where lots of folks are riding on the trains. In the Senate this afternoon was the St. Lawrence River Canal Bill. It will be the first Presidential measure that may meet defeat. It will be mighty close. Was in the Vice-President's office when he was visited by the Russian Ambassador. He and his wife. He seemed an awful nice fellow. I asked him about war with Japan; said it had been delayed indefinitely on account of bad weather.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

ATTORNEY WINS ON CROSS COMPLAINT

Sued for $808.75 allegedly due Mrs. Daisy Thompson for wages William Waters, Anaheim attorney received a judgment for $71 against Mrs. Thompson from a jury in department three, superior court late yesterday.

Mrs. Thompson had sued Waters alleging that the amount requested was the balance due her on $880 for services as nurse, housekeeper and assistant in Waters business affairs, rendered from September 1, 1931 to May 23, 1932.

Testifying on his own behalf yesterday Waters said that he had paid out on Mrs. Thompson's behalf and loaned her amounts totalling $611 and identified a memorandum receipts from Mrs. Thompson dated May 26, 1932, and acknowledging payment in full of the entire amount due her. He sued on a cross complaint for $71 allegedly paid for Mrs. Thompson after the termination of her services.

FOG CONDENSER MAY BE TRIED OUT IN HARBOR

Electric Theory

It operates on the theory that the earth contains negative electrical energy while the stratosphere holds positive natural magnetic currents.

Haight claims his electrodrome throws up a vertical rise of electrical circulations—an electrical flow of energy—which meets the stratosphere static area forming a low pressure area familiar where condensation occurs.

In other words, the Haight electrodrome is like a wire from the ground to the stratosphere which connects the two potentials, which each hold 500,000,000 volts of electricity.

He maintains in tests at Turnbull canyon that he has started the machine when the fog in the area was heavy and that within 15 or 20 minutes he and his assistants were able to see the lights of Whittier three miles away. He claims that the area affected by his present machine is three miles in each direction.

Barometer Affected

He maintains that experiments with his machine have shown that a barometer located within this three-mile area has been affected by the electric currents of his machine.

His machine he claims, sends up electrical energies which cause a mist to be agitated and that the particles of mist join to form raindrops which fall and clear away what just previously had been fog vapor.

Captain Chandler, yesterday, in discussing the possibilities of the machine, admitted that if successful it would prove to be one of the most important inventions of the decade saving millions of dollars in the harbors of the world yearly.

ployed in the conduct of the business there carried on."

Explaining his ruling on the controversial question of what constitutes a meal and his ruling that a sandwich might be so construed, the judge added:

"It is to be noticed that the constitution and the statutes make good faith an element in the transaction wherein wine or beer is served with meals.

"If in any case bad faith appears, and it is evident that the meal provided is such as to merely be a substitute, the law will have been violated. In other words, a sandwich may or may not be a meal, depending entirely upon good or bad faith of the dining room operator."

Withdrawals Of Funds Stopped By Pacific States

Action of the Pacific States Savings and Loan company in stopping withdrawals of principal by certificate holders is not in conflict with the law or rulings of the offices of the state building and loan commissioner, according to a statement made today by Milton O. Holders of certificates of the association were advised in letters received yesterday and today that until further notice principal withdrawals will be discontinued

European nations in the United States.

4—The United States probably will recognize Manchoukuo eventually.

Not Trade Menace

5—Japan does not menace United States trade, and does not intend to monopolize the Manchoukuo market.

Setting in the glow of a crackling fire in the living room of the Japanese embassy, Saito discussed the broad outlines of Japanese-American relations, although he explained that as ambassador-designate he would be unable to deal with political problems.

He will sail tomorrow on the Berengaria and intends, a month or two after presenting his credentials to President Roosevelt, to return to Tokio for conferences with his government.

He mentioned that any conversations regarding naval issues will have to be postponed until after his visit to Tokio. He has been absent from his country for three years on diplomatic missions.

With regard to a Japanese-American understanding, Saito emphasized the necessity of friendly relations.

(It will be recalled that Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in Tokio repeatedly has announced that an effort to develop the most friendly relations with the United States is a key-stone of his policy and that United Press dispatches from Tokio have pointed out that Hirota some months ago sounded out Washington on the possibility of a "Japanese-American treaty of amity" which would recognize in concrete fashion the reciprocal nature of the very important commerce between the two nations. Washington, however, so far has not evinced an immediate desire for such an agreement.)

Favors Pact

Asked whether he favors a Japanese-American non-aggression pact Saito said, "I realize that the American people dislike commitments which suggest foreign entanglements, so perhaps it might not be feasible to put such an accord in writing, but it would be desirable to have an understanding of some sort, in that spirit."

"The existing 1922 four-power treaty between Japan, the United States, Great Britain and France," he continued "for maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific was also framed so as to avoid any suggestion of an alliance.

"Even a three-power non-aggression treaty might be effectuated among the United States, Japan and Russia, if Japan's position and motives in the Far East were recognized and appreciated."

Answers Question

Replying to a question regarding the immigration issue, Saito said:

"Naturally, we would like to see the Japanese placed on the same basis as any European country. We have been glad to notice a strong movement in the United States, notably in California itself, in that direction. I am well aware, of course, that this problem rests in the hands of congress rather than the administration."

The ambassador declared his belief that when America understands the "healthy development" of the new state of Manchoukuo, and Japan's purposes in Manchuria, the United States eventually will recognize the new state.

"Manchoukuo is undergoing a healthy development," he said. "The American people in time will realize that Manchoukuo is contributing to peace and security in the far east. I believe that recognition will come naturally when this development is appreciated in the United States."

He scorned press reports of an imminent Japanese-Russian war and said decidedly:

No War Danger

"There is no such danger. We do not want to fight the Russians and I don't think they want to fight us. The political situation does not warrant a conflict. Moreover, the latest news from Tokio, foreshadowing resumption of negotiations for Manchoukuo's purchase of the Chinese Eastern railway from Russia, indicates a tendency to adjust amicably all questions pending between Japan, Manchoukuo and Russia."

He emphasized Japan's desire to maintain the "open door" in the new state.

"We understand that Manchoukuo meticulously will observe the open door policy," he said. "Japan is entirely in agreement with that and has no intention of monopolizing the Manchoukuo market. We want that part of the world stable, orderly and peaceful."

He dismissed suggestions that Japanese trade competition, which created serious tension with Great Britain, is or will become an acute question between Japan and the United States.

"It is true," he said, "that at one time there was some talk in America about Japan's competition in minor fields such as rubber goods, electric bulbs and bric-a-brac, but our trade relations are complementary, centering largely on our purchases of American raw cotton and our sales of silk to the United States. Nor is there sharp commercial competition between us in third countries where we normally sell different commodities."

OILING COMPLETED

Oiled surfacing of the state highway between Camp Waterman and Arrowhead Springs on the Waterman Canyon route in San Bernardino county has been completed at an approximate cost of $3000, according to a report reaching the Automobile club of Southern California.

MARRIAGE LICENSES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Marriage licenses issued last month set a new high record for any January since 1927 when the "three-day" law became effective, according to County Clerk J. M. Backs. According to his records there were 302 licenses issued during the first month of this year. The only January with a greater total was in January 1927 when 432 were issued.

The number of licenses issued in January 1933 totalled 262 with a total of 4786 being issued during the entire year.

the metal and indirectly the world price level of various commodities.

According to wholly unconfirmed reports, it was said that the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund set up by the Federal government, with a part of the dollar devaluation profits, would "go slowly" in its international dealings until the present effects of the $35 an ounce gold buying of the government could be gauged.

Administration officials refused to predict the possible results of the dollar depreciation program over the near future, but were obviously pleased with the upturn in stocks, bonds and some of the major commodities.

It was emphasized in important quarters that, while the monetary program is being carried out independent of the rest of the world, there was no intent to injure the economy of other nations.

SIX APPEAR AT CRIMINAL COURT SESSION TODAY

Howard Sullivan, who recently pleaded guilty to two counts charging him with issuing fictitious checks in Fullerton, was denied probation this morning by Superior Judge Arthur Munda of San Diego, who is sitting in juvenile court here, and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail on each count. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Sullivan admitted having issued two worthless checks for $25 each on December 29, last. One check was cashed by Lynn Snyder and the other by D. C. Hayden.

Jud Hobson and Paul Rapier, who recently pleaded guilty to grand theft of an automobile and asked for probation, had their probation hearing continued this morning until March 9, pending the outcome of their trial on a charge of burglary.

The burglary charge accusing them of robbing a service station at Costa Mesa is scheduled for hearing late this month.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schenck, wife of a Los Angeles policeman, who was recently found guilty by a jury on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, appeared before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel this morning and was fined $300. The jury that found her guilty also recommended the fine. Unable to pay the fine, Mrs. Schenck was remanded to the county jail to serve it at the rate of one day for each $2. Her husband was in court and said that he would be able to pay $200 of the fine immediately, but at noon had not made the payment.

Guy Floyd Overstreet, found guilty several days ago by a jury on a charge of assault with intent to do bodily injury and mayhem, appeared before Presiding Judge H. G. Ames this morning and applied for probation. Hearing on the application was set for next Friday.

Overstreet was convicted of biting off a portion of the ear of William Brooks Reynolds during a fight that started in an Anaheim beer garden and dance hall.

APPROVE SALE OF BEACH BUS LINE

Proposed sale of the Santa Ana-Newport Beach-Laguna Beach line of the Motor Transit company to Robert P. Kellogg of 2038 Cedar street, Santa Ana, has been approved by the state railroad commission, it was revealed in an announcement today from the commission.

According to information from the Motor Transit office in Los Angeles, the deal has not been completed as yet. It was indicated that the transfer of the franchise will take place in about two weeks.

The Motor Transit is operating four schedules daily to Newport Beach and Laguna Beach. This line, along with others operated by the old Crown State system, was acquired in 1926.

Kellogg is listed as the operator of Phil's transfer in Santa Ana.

POLICE, FIRE EMPLOYES URGE CIVIL SERVICE

The value of placing police and fire departments on a civil service basis in sixth class cities was further discussed last night by members and guests of the Municipal Co-operative Defense association at a meeting in the Elk's clubhouse in Anaheim. More than 100 representatives from each of the Orange county cities and several cities in Los Angeles county were present.

The civil service would be more economical and more efficient because it would take these two departments out of politics, was pointed out by the various speakers from the floor who were called upon by the chairman of the association, Chief of Police Harold Atkinson of Huntington Park.

To institute such a movement it would be necessary to secure a petition signed by 15 percent of the entire voters in each city, and then be put on the ballot for a municipal election, it was explained. The proposed ordinance also could be voted upon by the city council.

Mayor Richard Schulz of Huntington Park pointed out that this plan has been successfully tried in Huntington Park, resulting in economy and higher efficiency.

Policemen who do not have to play politics are better policemen, Chief of Police J. Norman of Gardena declared.

Others who spoke in favor of the adoption of civil service were Councilman U. S. Henton of Huntington Park; Councilman M. W. Martenet jr., and Leo Sheridan of Anaheim; Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea; Dr. H. A. Johnston of Anaheim; Councilman E. G. Warner of Santa Ana; Mayor William Hale of Fullerton; Attorney Arthur McLay of Los Angeles; LeRoy Brittengham of the executive office of the Los Angeles fire department, and Harvey Webber, chief civil service examiner of the Los Angeles fire department.

Chairman Atkinson appointed a committee to draft rules and by-laws to make a permanent association with view to having a state wide civil service program consisting of H. J. McC mack of the Santa Ana fire department; Robert Dunlap, chief of the fire department at Lynwood, and E. J. Graham, chief of the fire d partment at Huntington Park. A report is to be made at the next meeting in Huntington Park on February 21.

A welcome was extended the association by Mayor Charles H. Mann of Anaheim following an introduction by Chief of Police James S. Bouldin of Anaheim, who with Fire Chief R. Nyboe had charge of last night's meeting.

Protests Hour Cut

"I think 15 hours a week is too small," he said, adding, however, that it was planned to gradually cut the number of men on the payrolls until the CWA is terminated.

Hopkins estimated that grants to relatives of CWA workers who have died or been injured would cost $14,000,000. The tentative draft of the bill, however, provides that CWA workers hereafter will not be entitled to such compensation.

Discussing "graft" and favoritism, he said that "political interference has been a difficulty, but I would not say it has been serious."

"It has nothing to do with any one party," he testified. "I have had a lot of experience in New York. Upstate the Democrats charge that the Republicans are playing politics, and the Republicans in the cities say that the Democrats are playing politics."

Hopkins said that "far worse" than politics is the fact that "a number of people are hounding our people to death trying to horn in on making a little money.

"The number who have been implicated in graft is very small, although it looms very large in the public's mind," he said.

With few exceptions, merchants and civic leaders of Santa Ana joined today in wholehearted approval of the proposed plan to have the city of Santa Ana set up a municipal gas system and draw from the enormous wastage of natural gas from the Huntington Beach oil field, as announced yesterday in The Register.

A representative cross section of merchants, ministers, bankers, realtors and citizens was questioned by The Register today regarding the investigation being made by the city council. The plan as tentatively outlined is for the council to sign a temporary contract with a leading oil company and then call a bond election in the next few months to permit the voters to express approval or disapproval of the plan.

From estimates made by city officials and others, it is believed that gas rates could be cut drastically and still return a profit to the city. The distributing plant and mains of the Southern Counties Gas company would be purchased by the city or a new system installed, according to plans under discussion. The plan works successfully in Long Beach, where large profits are made each year with lower rates.

One leading grocer expressed great satisfaction over the move and said that the electric utilities should be taken over also. A prominent banker said the plan was well worth looking into and was in accord with the trend of the times toward government regulation.

Many of the men were not sufficiently informed on the proposition to endorse the Santa Ana proposal but declared they were fundamentally in favor of municipal ownership and would favor the municipal gas proposition if a thorough investigation revealed that the idea was sound and feasible. They agreed that economies were in order and could best be brought about by a city owned concern.

A prominent insurance man expressed disfavor to the proposition and municipal ownership as a whole. Several declined to comment on the question.

WILL ROGERS says:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2.—(To the Editor of The Register:) Say, the snow is knee deep tonight and still a-falling. California, here I come. The aeroplanes are awful fine, but the old trains come in mighty handy, and they are getting their rates down now where lots of folks are riding on the trains. In the Senate this afternoon was the St. Lawrence River Canal Bill. It will be the first Presidential measure that may meet defeat. It will be mighty close. Was in the Vice-President's office when he was visited by the Russian Ambassador. He and his wife. He seemed an awful nice fellow. I asked him about war with Japan; said it had been delayed indefinitely on account of bad weather.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

ATTORNEY WINS ON CROSS COMPLAINT

Sued for $808.75 allegedly due Mrs. Daisy Thompson for wages William Waters, Anaheim attorney received a judgment for $71 against Mrs. Thompson from a jury in department three, superior court late yesterday.

Mrs. Thompson had sued Waters alleging that the amount requested was the balance due her on $880 for services as nurse, housekeeper and assistant in Waters business affairs, rendered from September 1, 1931 to May 23, 1932.

Testifying on his own behalf yesterday Waters said that he had paid out on Mrs. Thompson's behalf and loaned her amounts totalling $611 and identified a memorandum receipts from Mrs. Thompson dated May 26, 1932, and acknowledging payment in full of the entire amount due her. He sued on a cross complaint for $71 allegedly paid for Mrs. Thompson after the termination of her services.

FOG CONDENSER MAY BE TRIED OUT IN HARBOR

Electric Theory

It operates on the theory that the earth contains negative electrical energy while the stratosphere holds positive natural magnetic currents.

Haight claims his electrodrome throws up a vertical rise of electrical circulations—an electrical flow of energy—which meets the stratosphere static area forming a low pressure area familiar where condensation occurs.

In other words, the Haight electrodrome is like a wire from the ground to the stratosphere which connects the two potentials, which each hold 500,000,000 volts of electricity.

He maintains in tests at Turnbull canyon that he has started the machine when the fog in the area was heavy and that within 15 or 20 minutes he and his assistants were able to see the lights of Whittier three miles away. He claims that the area affected by his present machine is three miles in each direction.

Barometer Affected

He maintains that experiments with his machine have shown that a barometer located within this three-mile area has been affected by the electric currents of his machine.

His machine he claims, sends up electrical energies which cause a mist to be agitated and that the particles of mist join to form raindrops which fall and clear away what just previously had been fog vapor.

Captain Chandler, yesterday, in discussing the possibilities of the machine, admitted that if successful it would prove to be one of the most important inventions of the decade saving millions of dollars in the harbors of the world yearly.

ployed in the conduct of the business there carried on."

Explaining his ruling on the controversial question of what constitutes a meal and his ruling that a sandwich might be so construed, the judge added:

"It is to be noticed that the constitution and the statutes make good faith an element in the transaction wherein wine or beer is served with meals.

"If in any case bad faith appears, and it is evident that the meal provided is such as to merely be a substitute, the law will have been violated. In other words, a sandwich may or may not be a meal, depending entirely upon good or bad faith of the dining room operator."

Withdrawals Of Funds Stopped By Pacific States

Action of the Pacific States Savings and Loan company in stopping withdrawals of principal by certificate holders is not in conflict with the law or rulings of the offices of the state building and loan commissioner, according to a statement made today by Milton O. Shaw, chief examiner in the Los Angeles office.

Holders of certificates of the association were advised in letters received yesterday and today that until further notice principal withdrawals will be discontinued

European nations in the United States.

4—The United States probably will recognize Manchoukuo eventually.

Not Trade Menace

5—Japan does not menace United States trade, and does not intend to monopolize the Manchoukuo market.

Setting in the glow of a crackling fire in the living room of the Japanese embassy, Saito discussed the broad outlines of Japanese-American relations, although he explained that as ambassador-designate he would be unable to deal with political problems.

He will sail tomorrow on the Berengaria and intends, a month or two after presenting his credentials to President Roosevelt, to return to Tokio for conferences with his government.

He mentioned that any conversations regarding naval issues will have to be postponed until after his visit to Tokio. He has been absent from his country for three years on diplomatic missions.

With regard to a Japanese-American understanding, Saito emphasized the necessity of friendly relations.

(It will be recalled that Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in Tokio repeatedly has announced that an effort to develop the most friendly relations with the United States is a key-stone of his policy and that United Press dispatches from Tokio have pointed out that Hirota some months ago sounded out Washington on the possibility of a "Japanese-American treaty of amity" which would recognize in concrete fashion the reciprocal nature of the very important commerce between the two nations. Washington, however, so far has not evinced an immediate desire for such an agreement.)

Favors Pact

Asked whether he favors a Japanese-American non-aggression pact Saito said, "I realize that the American people dislike commitments which suggest foreign entanglements, so perhaps it might not be feasible to put such an accord in writing, but it would be desirable to have an understanding of some sort, in that spirit."

"The existing 1922 four-power treaty between Japan, the United States, Great Britain and France," he continued "for maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific was also framed so as to avoid any suggestion of an alliance.

"Even a three-power non-aggression treaty might be effectuated among the United States, Japan and Russia, if Japan's position and motives in the Far East were recognized and appreciated."

Answers Question

Replying to a question regarding the immigration issue, Saito said:

"Naturally, we would like to see the Japanese placed on the same basis as any European country. We have been glad to notice a strong movement in the United States, notably in California itself, in that direction. I am well aware, of course, that this problem rests in the hands of congress rather than the administration."

The ambassador declared his belief that when America understands the "healthy development" of the new state of Manchoukuo, and Japan's purposes in Manchuria, the United States eventually will recognize the new state.

"Manchoukuo is undergoing a healthy development," he said. "The American people in time will realize that Manchoukuo is contributing to peace and security in the far east. I believe that recognition will come naturally when this development is appreciated in the United States."

He scorned press reports of an imminent Japanese-Russian war and said decidedly:

No War Danger

"There is no such danger. We do not want to fight the Russians and I don't think they want to fight us. The political situation does not warrant a conflict. Moreover, the latest news from Tokio, foreshadowing resumption of negotiations for Manchoukuo's purchase of the Chinese Eastern railway from Russia, indicates a tendency to adjust amicably all questions pending between Japan, Manchoukuo and Russia."

He emphasized Japan's desire to maintain the "open door" in the new state.

"We understand that Manchoukuo meticulously will observe the open door policy," he said. "Japan is entirely in agreement with that and has no intention of monopolizing the Manchoukuo market. We want that part of the world stable, orderly and peaceful."

He dismissed suggestions that Japanese trade competition, which created serious tension with Great Britain, is or will become an acute question between Japan and the United States.

"It is true," he said, "that at one time there was some talk in America about Japan's competition in minor fields such as rubber goods, electric bulbs and bric-a-brac, but our trade relations are complementary, centering largely on our purchases of American raw cotton and our sales of silk to the United States. Nor is there sharp commercial competition between us in third countries where we normally sell different commodities."

OILING COMPLETED

Oiled surfacing of the state highway between Camp Waterman and Arrowhead Springs on the Waterman Canyon route in San Bernardino county has been completed at an approximate cost of $3000, according to a report reaching the Automobile club of Southern California.

MARRIAGE LICENSES SHOW BIG INCREASE

Marriage licenses issued last month set a new high record for any January since 1927 when the "three-day" law became effective, according to County Clerk J. M. Backs. According to his records there were 302 licenses issued during the first month of this year. The only January with a greater total was in January 1927 when 432 were issued.

The number of licenses issued in January 1933 totalled 262 with a total of 4786 being issued during the entire year.

the metal and indirectly the world price level of various commodities.

According to wholly unconfirmed reports, it was said that the $2,000,000,000 stabilization fund set up by the Federal government, with a part of the dollar devaluation profits, would "go slowly" in its international dealings until the present effects of the $35 an ounce gold buying of the government could be gauged.

Administration officials refused to predict the possible results of the dollar depreciation program over the near future, but were obviously pleased with the upturn in stocks, bonds and some of the major commodities.

It was emphasized in important quarters that, while the monetary program is being carried out independent of the rest of the world, there was no intent to injure the economy of other nations.

SIX APPEAR AT CRIMINAL COURT SESSION TODAY

Howard Sullivan, who recently pleaded guilty to two counts charging him with issuing fictitious checks in Fullerton, was denied probation this morning by Superior Judge Arthur Munda of San Diego, who is sitting in juvenile court here, and sentenced to serve six months in the county jail on each count. The sentences are to run consecutively.

Sullivan admitted having issued two worthless checks for $25 each on December 29, last. One check was cashed by Lynn Snyder and the other by D. C. Hayden.

Jud Hobson and Paul Rapier, who recently pleaded guilty to grand theft of an automobile and asked for probation, had their probation hearing continued this morning until March 9, pending the outcome of their trial on a charge of burglary.

The burglary charge accusing them of robbing a service station at Costa Mesa is scheduled for hearing late this month.

Mrs. Elizabeth Schenck, wife of a Los Angeles policeman, who was recently found guilty by a jury on a charge of driving an automobile while under the influence of liquor, appeared before Superior Judge G. K. Scovel this morning and was fined $300. The jury that found her guilty also recommended the fine. Unable to pay the fine, Mrs. Schenck was remanded to the county jail to serve it at the rate of one day for each $2. Her husband was in court and said that he would be able to pay $200 of the fine immediately, but at noon had not made the payment.

Guy Floyd Overstreet, found guilty several days ago by a jury on a charge of assault with intent to do bodily injury and mayhem, appeared before Presiding Judge H. G. Ames this morning and applied for probation. Hearing on the application was set for next Friday.

Overstreet was convicted of biting off a portion of the ear of William Brooks Reynolds during a fight that started in an Anaheim beer garden and dance hall.

APPROVE SALE OF BEACH BUS LINE

Proposed sale of the Santa Ana-Newport Beach-Laguna Beach line of the Motor Transit company to Robert P. Kellogg of 2038 Cedar street, Santa Ana, has been approved by the state railroad commission, it was revealed in an announcement today from the commission.

According to information from the Motor Transit office in Los Angeles, the deal has not been completed as yet. It was indicated that the transfer of the franchise will take place in about two weeks.

The Motor Transit is operating four schedules daily to Newport Beach and Laguna Beach. This line, along with others operated by the old Crown State system, was acquired in 1926.

Kellogg is listed as the operator of Phil's transfer in Santa Ana.

POLICE, FIRE EMPLOYES URGE CIVIL SERVICE

The value of placing police and fire departments on a civil service basis in sixth class cities was further discussed last night by members and guests of the Municipal Co-operative Defense association at a meeting in the Elk's clubhouse in Anaheim. More than 100 representatives from each of the Orange county cities and several cities in Los Angeles county were present.

The civil service would be more economical and more efficient because it would take these two departments out of politics, was pointed out by the various speakers from the floor who were called upon by the chairman of the association, Chief of Police Harold Atkinson of Huntington Park.

To institute such a movement it would be necessary to secure a petition signed by 15 percent of the entire voters in each city, and then be put on the ballot for a municipal election, it was explained. The proposed ordinance also could be voted upon by the city council.

Mayor Richard Schulz of Huntington Park pointed out that this plan has been successfully tried in Huntington Park, resulting in economy and higher efficiency.

Policemen who do not have to play politics are better policemen, Chief of Police J. Norman of Gardena declared.

Others who spoke in favor of the adoption of civil service were Councilman U. S. Henton of Huntington Park; Councilman M. W. Martenet jr., and Leo Sheridan of Anaheim; Assemblyman Ted Craig of Brea; Dr. H. A. Johnston of Anaheim; Councilman E. G. Warner of Santa Ana; Mayor William Hale of Fullerton; Attorney Arthur McLay of Los Angeles; LeRoy Brittengham of the executive office of the Los Angeles fire department, and Harvey Webber, chief civil service examiner of the Los Angeles fire department.

Chairman Atkinson appointed a committee to draft rules and by-laws to make a permanent association with view to having a state wide civil service program consisting of H. J. McCormack of the Santa Ana fire department; Robert Dunlap, chief of the fire department at Lynwood, and E. J. Graham, chief of the fire department at Huntington Park. A report is to be made at the next meeting in Huntington Park on February 21.

A welcome was extended the association by Mayor Charles H. Mann of Anaheim following an introduction by Chief of Police James S. Bouidin of Anaheim, who with Fire Chief R. Nyboe had charge of last night's meeting.

950 MILLION FUND SOUGHT BY PRESIDENT

Protests Hour Cut

"I think 15 hours a week is too small," he said, adding, however, that it was planned to gradually cut the number of men on the payrolls until the CWA is terminated.

Hopkins estimated that grants to relatives of CWA workers who have died or been injured would cost $14,000,000. The tentative draft of the bill, however, provides that CWA workers hereafter will not be entitled to such compensation.

Discussing "graft" and favoritism, he said that "political interference has been a difficulty, but I would not say it has been serious."

"It has nothing to do with any one party," he testified. "I have had a lot of experience in New York. Upstate the Democrats charge that the Republicans are playing politics, and the Republicans in the cities say that the Democrats are playing politics."

Hopkins said that "far worse" than politics is the fact that "a number of people are hounding our people to death trying to horn in on making a little money.

"The number who have been implicated in graft is very small although it looms very large in the public's mind," he said.

$150,000 ASKED IN OIL SUITS FILED BY STATE

Three more suits were filed this morning by the state against oil operators in the Huntington Beach oil fields who have refused to enter into any agreement for settlement of the "whipstock" drilling controversy in that field.

The suits filed this morning involve three wells that, according to the complaints penetrated the state tidelands oil pool prior to January 30, this year. Estimated production is not given in any case, the complaints asking $50,000 damages in each case, a permanent injunction halting further penetration of the tidelands and an order to permanently seal the wells.

At the same time the new suits were filed the state filed stipulations agreeing to continue the time for trial on similar actions filed against the Wilshire Oil company, Inc., and the Ambassador Petroleum company from February 5 to February 26. The stipulation filed in connection with the Wilshire Oil company litigation also agreed to consolidation of the five suits now filed against the company.

GROUP STARTS MOVE FOR FEDERAL AID ON COUNTY FLOOD CONTROL PROGRAM

A movement designed to promote immediate action in launching a flood control program in Orange county and an attempt to gain federal assistance on the project was started at a mass meeting of independent pumpers, water officials, representatives of water companies and others last night in the Fullerton Wilshire avenue grammar school.

On recommendation of Dr. H. D. Newkirk, chairman of a nominating committee, a committee of seven members was elected to perform three functions: sound out sentiment in the northern part of the county on flood control, determine the size of the district the organization will operate in, and to nominate officers at another meeting. Members of the committee are Walter Humphreys, Dr. Charles Tiffany, W. H. Kennedy, Dr. Walter Bigham, H. G. Meiser, L. Lewis and L. L. Bruns.

Arthur B. Hillabold, president of Fullerton Chamber of Commerce, introduced by Chairman George Griffith, outlined the purposes of the meeting, which he said was to unite efforts to work for flood control. He urged those present to forget any differences and to work for a common goal.

Need Support

Dr. Newkirk declared that he is convinced that the board of supervisors would "do the job" but that they need the support of their constituency. He urged that the county not be divided on flood control, pointing out that some parts of the county would be aided by flood control while the others would be aided by the conservation.

Supervisor LeRoy Lyon placed himself on record as strongly in favor of a flood control program. He pointed out that under Orange county flood control district, it would be necessary to obtain a two-thirds vote on a bond issue. He pointed out that the supervisors could not aid the Orange County Water District because the district attorney's office had ruled against it.

Harry M. May, secretary of the Fullerton chamber, briefly reviewed the plan announced yesterday to exchange land for unpaid taxes on the Bastanchury ranch.

Roy Browning, Irvine engineer and director in the Orange County Water District, declared he was opposed to using the flood control district to build flood control dams, declaring that local districts should be formed under the general district act to construct dams.

Need Adjudication

"I am opposed to a dam in the Santa Ana canyon until water rights in the Santa Ana river are adjudicated," he declared. "We have asked the supervisors to employ engineers to investigate rights up the river. Until we know how much water belongs to Orange county I am opposed to a dam. Many large properties would not benefit by flood control dams, so why should they pay taxes for them? Irvine is ready to aid as soon as water rights are adjudicated."

Replying to Browning's statement, William Schumacher, water board director, declared "If we adopt that policy we might just as well go home and forget about flood control. The litigation involved in adjudicating water rights would take years. It is only a matter of time until the county will build the dam and we had better take advantage of government aid while it can be obtained. I would be willing to leave out the Irvine and Moulton ranches if the district boundary lines are changed. We must get together. We need a plan that will serve all the people, not a few."

William Wallop, of the Anaheim Union Water company and director in the water district, pointed out that the water board favors flood control, but that the water companies do not favor canalizing the Santa Ana river, declaring that this would be a poor policy for all pumpers.

Outride Source

"We are overpumping," he said, "and eventually must go in the Metropolitan Water District or find other means to get water. The Mojave project was brought up as a feasible plan, and not as a 'smoke screen' as was charged. The plan to bring water here from the Mojave river is feasible, though costly. Tie canalization with the Mojave river project and then you'd have something."

Wallop predicted that next Tuesday the board of supervisors will grant the request of the water board to set aside funds for completing an engineering survey of the upper Santa Ana river. He said the Water Conservation association has lived up to its agreements, and that it has filed on water rights for the benefit of Orange county as well as Riverside and San Bernardino.

"The supervisors have been derelict in their duties," he asserted, "and we should have had this information on the upper river two months ago. The water companies have never objected to flood control, but we have rights which must be protected. The Prado dam site is the poorest of the two suggested, because we would put our water in an alien county."

Supervisor Lyon was applauded when he stated that his objective is flood control because that "is the only thing we can cooperate on." "I am ready, he said, "any minute to vote for Elliott and his assistants to do the whole job. I favor a plan to weave the flood control features of the Elliott plan into one plan and to get government assistance."

MORE FLOWER SEEDS GIVEN CITY ENGINEER

At the present rate of donations, streets which enter Santa Ana will be well decorated with flowers by summer time.

Following an appeal in The Register by the city council for poppy seed with which to plant Santa Ana boulevard, two large donations of poppy seed were received by City Engineer J. L. McBride, quite sufficient to plant the entire length of the main highway.

Among other donations made this week were a generous amount of four kinds of seed from Mrs. W. T. Battey, 110 South Birch street and six sacks of canna lilies from W. S. Anderson, North Euclid avenue, Garden Grove.

Forester Dale Griggs has announced that the seed and bulbs will be planted on North Flower street and Santa Ana boulevard, with the overflow supply going to Fairmont, Oakmont and various other avenues.

GRAND OPENING OF MARKET TO ATTRACT MANY

Department managers and employes of the Empire Market, Second and Broadway, worked diligently today to complete final preparations for the grand opening tomorrow of the grocery department, managed by Mr. and Mrs. Bob deBritton.

In honor of the occasion, which is expected to attract crowds of shoppers, a special program of entertainment will be presented throughout the day, featuring Paul Kaufman and his guitar and banjo trio. The program will start at 1 p. m. and last until 9 p. m.

Thousands of dollars worth of merchandise has been received by de Britton for the opening event. "The entire stock of the grocery store will be on special prices during the opening, and perhaps during next week, not only a few items," de Britton said today. "Prices will be lower than they ever have been. We wish to extend a personal invitation to all our friends and patrons to look over our prices. We believe this is the first time in Orange county that the entire grocery store has been placed on sale for an opening. Come in and see us."

The grocery department will employe 22 local persons in the opening tomorrow, and in addition, 15 demonstrators will be on hand to serve the visitors and patrons, de Britton said.

At the same time, Ray McIntosh, of McIntosh's Meat Market in the Empire Market, announced that he has received an entire carload of prime steer beef as a special for the grand opening. The shipment represents thousands of pounds of choice roasts and steaks, he said.

"This special shipment of choice steer meat," McIntosh said, "will be sold at the usual low prices and has been ordered and received especially in celebration of the grand opening and in appreciation for the patronage of our customers who have made is possible for us to maintain such low prices through the volume of business given us. In addition to the steer beef, we have received thousands of the finest grain-fed pork, lamb, mutton and veal."

The meat sale will include five tons of smoked meats and nationally advertised hams. Packing house representatives will conduct demonstrations during the entire day tomorrow.

The past week has been the biggest in volume of business of the market, according to McIntosh. He attributed the entire success of the increase to a big advertising campaign launched exclusively in The Register.

With the establishment of the grocery department, the Empire Market now comprises a meat department, fish and poultry department, a new bakery department managed by George Viebrick, two vegetable stands, a complete delicatessen service, a new lunch counter operated in conjunction with the delicatessen and managed by Mrs. Lenore Walker, and a new florist stand, which will handle all kinds of cut flowers, funeral sprays, etc., managed by L. W. Farwell.

ARRANGE MASS MEETING TO CONSIDER NEW SINGLE TAX PLAN ON GROSS TRANSACTIONS

Following a general discussion of the principles of the syncro-tax, a term designating a proposed single tax on gross transactions and money turnover, county and city civic leaders meeting at Ketner's cafe yesterday unanimously endorsed a mass meeting to be held Wednesday, February 7, in the Willard junior high school, to enable voters and citizens to hear of the new proposition.

Four representatives of the National Syncro-Tax association explained details of their campaign to have the initiative measure put on the November ballot. They were W. M. Patch, president of the association, C. E. Meigs, secretary and political advisor Adj. General A. H. Alderson, former secretary of state of Montana, and Francis Marshall, tax expert.

Patch opened his discussion by saying that the syncro-tax was a percentage of the gross money turnover of every person, corporation and other commercial unit. This would eliminate all the many individual taxing agencies and combine the entire collection for city, county, state and schools.

Two Per Cent Tax

Estimates and surveys show that a sufficient tax would be collected from 1 1/2 to 2 per cent of gross money turnover, Patch said. This would pay the combined cost of all types of government and if successful, would bring a direct saving in California government expense of $100,000,000 each year. Assessors would be eliminated, there would not be the high cost of maintaining all types of collecting agencies the board of equalization would be displaced and the net result would be great simplication of effort and institution of economies.

Using the working man getting $100 per month as an example, Patch said that the average taxes on this man's home, property, gasoline and other items was about $100 per year, or eight per cent of his total income. Under the syncro-tax, he would pay only 2 per cent, a saving of 60 or 70 per cent of taxes now paid. He said that every family now pays taxes, whether renting or owning a home, and would be affected equally under the new plan.

Regarding public utilities, Patch quoted one of the leading utility executives to the effect that they could make a 15 per cent saving on rates because of the coordination of taxes. The major oil companies are said to be in favor of the proposition because it would eliminate the state gas tax and permit fuel to be sold cheaper.

Spots Opposition

The opposition of bond and stock brokers can be expected, the speaker said, because stocks could not be sold so easily for speculative purposes and stock gambling would be eliminated because of the tax on each turnover or selling transaction. Investments would still be permitted, however.

Patch said that if the plan was accepted and proved successful here, it could be expanded nationally and greatly reduce taxes. He cited the fact that it often costs 70 per cent of the income to operate an agency to collect taxes and small fees were levied by so many departments that the total tax was very high.

"There is no field that is seriously hurt by our proposal," Patch declared. "Labor is helped out, real estate is greatly benefitted, outside capital will be attracted here to stimulate business and finance, and the cost of government operation will be reduced."

The point was brought up that under the present tax system, it was difficult and often impossible for a person to pay a large sum only twice each year, while it would be a simple and easier task to collect from day to day when purchases are made.

Questioned as to the method of collection, Patch explained that one of the chief units to be taxed would be large corporations, which would pay to the state directly. On purchases, there would have to be some system of stamps or means of spreading the tax judiciously, he said.

No Exemptions

Answering the query that someone would have to suffer heavier if the tax burden was made lighter for others, Patch pointed out that there would be no exemptions under syncro-tax and that new fields of revenue would be tapped. He said there would be no theater admission exemption, tax-free securities or other ways to evade paying to the state. A state commission would regulate the percentage of payment to meet the current demand for revenue.

A. B. Rousselle of Balboa emphasized the fact that such a plan would put labor back to work and allow workers to go back to the land and support themselves without excessive taxation. James Irvine, Jr., observed that delinquent taxes would largely be cleaned up and the workers given a chance to make a living.

Patch and his colleagues said that they required 111,000 names on iniatitive petition to have the proposition put on the ballot and wished to have an opportunity to explain the proposal to citizens of Santa Ana and Orange county. J. C. Metzgar, who arranged the meeting yesterday, secured the Willard school for the meeting next week.

Included among those who attended the meeting from Orange county were Senator Nels Edwards and Justus Craemer of Orange, T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach, Supervisor William Jerome, John Harvey, J. F. Burke W. A. Zimmerman, Ed McFadden Frank Was, A. C. Hasenjaeger W. H. Spurgeon, M. G. Lassiter, R. D. Fuller, J. C. Metzgar and Ben Tarver of Santa Ana A. B. Rousselle of Balboa and James Irvine jr. of the Irvine ranch.

LIFE IN AFRICA OUTLINED FOR CHURCH GROUP

ORANGE, Feb. 2.—Life in the Bolenge district of Africa was outlined in an interesting way at the meeting of the Missionary society of the First Christian church Thursday by Mrs. Ross Atherton, who lived for many years in that district when she and her husband were engaged in missionary work.

Mrs. Atherton told of a young African chief who learned to read so rapidly that in nine months he was able to read a translation of the Bible in his own language. She gave an outline of his life and of his struggles to remain true to the Christian faith he had adopted after the death of his father when he became chief of the tribe and the heir to great wealth and 70 wives.

Parents who have four living children are exempt from government tax, Mrs. Atherton said, as the death rate among children is very high owing to lack of sanitation. Natives are taught French and English in the schools. A number of articles, including beautiful examples of raffia drawn work and 15 pound brass collars worn by women who are favorite wives were shown.

Mrs. Irvin Hagar sang "Carry Across With a Smile." She was accompanied by Mrs. Franklin H. Minck. Mrs. D. C. Pixley conducted the devotional service. Mrs. Rebecca Pope presided.

Mrs. Pixley and her committee served delicious Russian tea with cookies. Mrs. V. D. Johnson was program chairman.

STRONG MAN CELEBRATES

STRENGTH OF S. A. MAN TOLD IN MAGAZINE

Stephen A. Clark, Santa Ana's famous strong man, will be host at a party and demonstration of his feats of strength at his home, 519 North Artesia street, at 7:30 next Monday night, it was announced today. The occasion is a celebration of the appearance in the March issue of Physical Culture magazine of a feature story, profusely illustrated, of his unusual strength.

The magazine article is entitled "A Mighty Man is He—at 71," and is accompanied by eight pictures showing him at work in his blacksmith shop and performing his unusual stunts, which would put many a younger man to shame.

The program for the evening's entertainment will include many of Clark's demonstrations and showing of motion pictures.

The host for the evening is a former Terre Haute, Indiana, policeman. He has always abstained from alcohol, tobacco and bad habits, and in announcing the event for next Monday night, said:

"I have been trying all my manhood days to show how to be strong and healthy, how to eat and sleep. I have sure done my best and I give credit to having Christian parents and a Heavenly Father. I will spent the rest of my life trying to show the boys how to live a clean life and be strong."

Clark said it was through a story in The Register about his unusual strength some time ago, and with the help of his friend Fred Vance, whom he characterized as the giant of Santa Ana, and the advice of Dr. J. M. Burlew in sending his pictures East, that he finally has won national recognition.

He invites the public to the celebration Monday night.

DR. COOK IN FINAL ADDRESS OF SERIES

ORANGE, Feb. 2. — Declaring that the international phase of life is going to bulk largely in the future of America and quoting an international authority, Dr. Harry Ward, to the effect that another World war will be staged possibly within the next six months and at the most within the coming three years, Dr. O. W. E. Cook, of the University of California delivered the final talk of a series at the First Methodist church Wednesday night.

All the events and all of the elements are present today which were present at the time of the World war, the speaker said as he pointed out the underlying causes of war. Newspapers were named as factors in the stimulation of war, the speaker declaring that there are but comparatively few newspapers in the United States not influenced by those who desire war in order to reap profits from it.

The Christian Science Monitor leads the newspapers of the nation in impartial views of international news, the speaker declared. The 18th amendment was lost, the speaker said, "because it got into the hands of rotten politicians in Washington."

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CITY DEMANDS $1350

Alleging that he was shot in the hand by James F. McWilliams, Santa Ana police officer whom he charges in his complaint is "inefficient and incompetent to perform or render services for which he was hired," Rogers McCarthy, negro bootblack, has filed suit against the City of Santa Ana, Mayor Paul B. Witmer, E. G. Warner, William Penn, A. C. Hasenjaeger and A. F. LeGaye as councilmen and individuals for damages totalling $1350.

McCarthy in his suit alleges that he was crossing Bush street at Third street on the evening of December 21 last, when McWilliams, who was on duty as a police officer at the time "negligently, recklessly and carelessly fired a .38 caliber revolver" at him. The bullet, he alleged, pierced his right hand.

The complaint alleges that McCarthy was not being pursued by the patrolman and the patrolman was not attempting to arrest him. On the other hand, according to the complaint, McWilliams was in pursuit of Roma Foy Owings, who had committed a misdemeanor, shoplifting.

The complaint asks $1000 for injuries to McCarthy's right hand which resulted in a permanent scar, $300 for his inability to work for three months and $50 for X-ray, medical service and supplies.

Previously the council had refused a claim for damages. McWilliams declares he was in an alley and fired a shot in the air which he says could not possibly have hit McCarthy. Officers say the shot which struck the bootblack was fired by an unknown motorist. Statement by a physician who attended McCarthy said that the wound was not caused by a police bullet.

Trick Used To Get Five Quarts Oil

A clever ruse was used by a well dressed man yesterday in stealing five quarts of oil from the Reid Motor company, it was reported to police.

J. L. Heath of the motor firm was approached by a man, who said he was an employe of the Dickey Furniture company and wanted to purchase 50 quarts of oil. He took five quarts with him to fill one of the company trucks and ordered the remainder to be delivered the next day. On investigation, it was found the man was not connected with the furniture firm.

He was described as being 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds and being from 40 to 45 years of age.

Parents In Court On Complaint Of Health Official

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Reucker, 2014 Oak street, charged in the justice court with removing a quarantine sign from their home and then failing to keep within the quarantined area, had charges dismissed yesterday on the motion of Deputy District Attorney James Davis.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health superintendent, filed the complaint charging that the Reuckers tore down the quarantine sign on December 29. The prosecution dropped the case in furtherance of justice on the assumption that sufficient punishment had been given through court appearances and publicity.

STATE LEADER OF DAUGHTERS VISITS PARLOR

PLACENTIA, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Irma Laird, grand president of the Native Daughters of the Golden West, was guest of honor at a number of events yesterday. She attended the valencia orange ceremony at the Placentia Fruit company's ranch, a tea at the home of Mrs. T. L. McFadden and a dinner at the Legion hall and later a meeting of Grace parlor in the Round Table clubhouse, when a number of new members were initiated.

Eighty attended the dinner, where at head table were seated guests of honor, was decorated in beautiful red and white bouquests and candles and with a valentine at each plate, and the surrounding tables with red and white bouquets and valentine motifs. A Spanish trio played during the dinner.

The dinner was served at 6:30 o'clock and Mrs. Erna Watts, president of Grace parlor, introduced guests of honor at the head table, including Grand President Laird, Hazel Hansen, grand inside sentinel; Marvel Thomas, supervising deputy grand president of Los Angeles county; Nellie Cline, supervising deputy president of San Diego county; Bertha Hitt, organizer of Grace parlor; Mattie Edwards, deputy grand president of Ontario parlor; Florence Dodson Shoneman, of Rucinda parlor, San Pedro; Mary Norenburg, California parlor; Rebekah Hasson, first vice president of Grace parlor, and Helen Anderson, of Grace parlor.

During the tour of the county that occupied the morning for Mrs. Laird and her escorts, in stopping at San Juan Capistrano mission, the Rev. Father Arthur Hutchison presented the grand president with a piece of pottery. Following the placing of the monument marker in the orange grove, Mrs. T. L. McFadden was assisted by Mrs. Watts in serving tea to the members and guests of the parlor at the McFadden home, which was decorated in early peach blossoms.

AWARD PRIZES FOR QUILTS AT PENNEY STORE

One hundred and thirty-three quilts, representing the patience, ingenuity, artistic ability and needlecraft of as many women of Santa Ana and vicinity, today were attracting down town shoppers to the J. C. Penney store, where a two days' exhibit was in progress.

Announced earlier in the week as a quilt exhibit open to all women of the community for the display of their workmanship, the affair met with an enthusiastic response. While Thursday was designated as the day when entries would be closed there were many disappointed women at the store today, hoping to have their contributions accepted for display and as entrants for the generous prizes offered by the store management. But judging was accomplished at an early hour this forenoon, and after awards were made it was impossible to accept other quilts.

To Mrs. Charles F. Mitchell, 409 South Main street, went first prize of a $5 merchandise order. Her quilt was a striking design in delphinium blue background with white figures whose form was aptly described by the name of the pattern, the Snowflake.

Mrs. A. Lindley, 2802 North Main street, won second place and a $4 merchandise order, with her tulip design whose flowers were shaded tones of orchid, rose and yellow, and whose intricate quilting repeated the tulip pattern. To Mrs. J. G. Whitmore, 620 Acacia street, Garden Grove, went third prize of a $3 merchandise order for a Lone Star quilt in tones ranging from soft ivory to vivid orange.

Awards were made on the points of general workmanship, amount of quilting, finish, color harmony, quality of material, originality of design and neatness. The exhibit was under the general direction of F. A. Jones, manager of the J. C. Penney company, who had the assistance of Mrs. Ella Merrick, 2807 North Main street, an authority on quilting and art needlework. Judges were Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. Frank Cannon and J. K. Evans.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married on the same day as Lila Hotaling and Derek Bliss, but Lila expects to live in luxury while Gypsy keeps hre job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy Marko Broughton, a former admirer of Gypsy's, whom they meet at the Blisses' home.

When Gypsy learns she is to have a baby she gives up her job. The baby is born in September and is christened David.

Derek Bliss, weary of the social whirl in which he and Lila live, begs off from a party one night and Lila goes with Marko. Marko tells her he is mad about her.

On a morning following a lonely evening at home Gypsy finds a woman's handkerchief in Tom's coat pocket.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Her heart plunged sickenly; there was the taste of salt water in her mouth. Her first sensation was of mortal sickness, not anger. The thought that Tom would deliberately deceive her rocked her world. Blindly she went on with her tasks. The day had cleared, was cold, bracing, blue. Blindly she dressed the baby in his warm suit of woolies, got herself ready for the street.

In the market she stood aside, trying to remember what she had come for. David's luncheon; there must be fresh spinach for it. The thought of food made her definitely ill but she conquered that. As in a dream she bought bread, carrots, potatoes, sugar. Elsa would wonder if she did not buy supplies for dinner. But how did one eat chopped steak when one's heart was breaking?

In the street she saw no one she know. It was a dismal block she had to traverse, between their apartment building and the wide cobblestoned highway where most of the shops were. An elevated train crashed by. Chaff blew in the gutter. Everyone looked cold, brisk, purposeful. She thought she must be the only woman so miserable in all New York that day. A young, dark-eyed woman in an unfashionable cloth coat, pushing a rosy baby in a big blue carriage. What was she to do now?

Her first impulse was to fly back to the safe shelter of Blue Hills, to cry her heart out in that familiar and beloved setting. But pride held her back. No one should know how she had been hurt. She would work her trouble out alone.

Maybe it all meant nothing, her eager thoughts cried out. Maybe the handkerchief was a trifle Tom had picked up in the street....at the office. But she knew it was not true. No, this evidence explained Tom's frequent absences from home lately; his silence, his abstraction. Fool she had been not to see before!

Was it that pretty girl in the office? Was it someone he had met before his marriage? Who.... who could it be? Not that it mattered. The fact remained that he had lied to her about last night. Well then, he had probably lied about other things, too.

She fed the baby, tucked him away for his nap. Elsa came.

"I fix you some lunch, now huh?"

"Just some tea and toast."

"You don't feel so good, huh?" Elsa's wide, pink, humorless face took on an expression of concern.

"I—I have a headache.' It was always easy to say that. You never told anyone you had a pain in your heart.

Tom was late that night, even as he had said, and Gypsy ate a solitary dinner with a book propped up before her, not even seeing the pages but thinking her own thoughts. Elsa washed up, moving stolidly about. Early darkness closed in and lights flashed on all over the city.

"You feel sick, Mrs. Weaver?"

"No—I'm all right. Just a little tired."

"The mister, he got to work—makes it kinda lonesome for you."

Gypsy said steadily, "Yes, it does. But he'll be home soon. Nine or 10, I expect. Good-night, Elsa."

The apartment was very lonely with Elsa gone and David asleep. There could be years of this sort of thing, Gypsy thought with a clutch of pain at her heart. Years and years and years of days filled with dull tasks and lonely evenings.

When Tom came in at 9:30, she was playing patience. She had on her old brown velveteen with its broad lace collar. She was pale but her eyes were feverish and she had painted her small mouth with bright, raspberry colored salve.

"'Lo, dear. Sorry I couldn't get away."

She read guilt in every line of him. She lifted a cool cheek for his kiss.

"What's the matter? Anything go wrong?"

"N-no. Everything's fine."

He tried to take her in his arms but she evaded him.

"Boy all right?"

She tried to make her voice sound natural, to put all her usual enthusiasm into her tone. "He's splendid." She might tell him how cunning David had been in his bath; how he had laughed aloud, waving his fat starfish hands. She might tell him these things....and bore him. So she kept silent.

When Tom said, in a sympathetic tone, "Rotten for you today, kitten. I thought of you so much," her throat ached and tears of self-pity sprang to her eyes. She winked them back, bending with pretended concentration over her cards.

"That red queen....what did you say, Tommy?"

He was puzzled—he was frankly puzzled. Gypsy said to herself, "Let him be." She felt herself all tight and sore within, aching, bruised. Where did you get that monogrammed handkerchief? She might fling that at him, watch him squirm, fib, wriggle out of it. Ah, but she wasn't going to ask—not now, at least.

She was miserable in the days that followed. The shadow of black jealousy hovered over all her waking hours. On the surface things were as before. Tom had no more late nights at the office and when he was at home Gypsy was quiet, sweet, interested, apathetic. "I think you ought to see the doctor, honey," he told her more than once. "I think you need a tonic."

She shook her head. She was all right, she told him. How explain that what she needed was the elixir of trust, the old, benignant medicine of perfect love and understanding?

In April, one warm, delicious Saturday they drove over to Blue Hills. The baby was adorable in a pink sweater and silky cap. Gypsy had the new gray suit which Tom's commission had made possible. Her mother said gravely, "Seems you've been doing too much, child. You look so thin and big eyed. Tom thinks...."

"What does he think?" Gypsy's voice, in spite of herself, was sharp with suspicion.

"Don't be so touchy," soothed Mrs. Morell. "He thought a rest would do you good. A change....after the long winter. You could stay here for a week or two. Clytie and I would take David off your hands. He's no trouble anyhow. Such a good baby."

So Tom wanted to get rid of her for a week, did he? Oh, no, she musn't allow herself to think such thoughts. Her mind was sick, that was all; she was overtired and foolish. Maybe this brief separation would be the best thing in the world for them both.

When it came time for Tom to leave Sunday evening Gypsy clung to him feverishly "I think I'd better go back with you, after all," she said faintly. She was desperately afraid she was going to cry.

"Nonsense," Tom said roistly. "You need a change. I'll worry along. I'll telephone you every day."

She watched him go with a dull pain at her heart.

But later, as she picked up the threads of the old life again, she began to wonder what had bothered her back in the city. Color flowed back into her cheeks and hope into her soul. She began to persuade herself that all of her tortures had ben self-inflicted. "It's just that I was so much alone and had so much to do," she assured herself. The rich, jumbled casual family life amused and busied her. She worked a little in the garden. She lunched and dined with old friends, answering questions about her husband with that serious young-matronly manner which well became her. At the end of seven days she was missing Tom terribly. Over the telephone each morning he assured her that a solitary state was not one to be desired, no mater what smug bachelors told to the contrary.

But on Saturday morning, four or five hours before Lis expected arrival, Sue Canavan's young sister, Katherine, tossed a bombshell into Gypsy's house of contentment.

"Saw that handsome husband of yours lunching yesterday," she said gayly. It seemed to Gypsy that the glance Sue threw her was a warning one.

"Oh, did you?" asked Gypsy with animation. "Did you stop and speak to him?"

Katherine shrugged thin shoulders. "He was much too busy to notice poor little me," she mocked. "He was all wrapped up in the girl with him—stunning looking creature in black. Looked like Paris."

"He—he has all sorts of women clients for the various accounts," Gypsy said coldly and proudly. The old, desperate sickness was returning. Yesterday—why, Tom had telephoned her just at 11 o'clock yesterday to say he was "up to his ears in work. And she had believed him.

"Of course he has," Sue said quickly—too quickly. She changed the subject with her usual tact and they spoke of other things. But Gypsy felt the knife turning in her heart. This could not go on! It was a situation beyond her control. It wounded her pride and dignity. When Tom came she would have to have it out with him.

After the girls had gone she glanced over the morning newspaper, seeking an escape from her troubled thoughts. A name stood out from all the others in the column of personal notes on the society page.

"Miss Vera Gray of Boston is at the Weylin."

Something clicked in her brain. Was this what she had been fearing all the time? That girl—how she hated her! Gypsy stood up, her little hands clenched. David sat in his carriage in an angle of the house. Sun poured down on him, a smiling, rosy scrap of babyhood. She started at him, almost without seeing.

She had been letting things drift. Well, now there must be a showdown! Tom would have to make his choice.

DAMAGE SUIT AGAINST CITY DEMANDS $1350

Alleging that he was shot in the hand by James F. McWilliams, Santa Ana police officer whom he charges in his complaint is "inefficient and incompetent to perform or render services for which he was hired," Rogers McCarthy, negro bootblack, has filed suit against the City of Santa Ana, Mayor Paul B. Witmer, E. G. Warner, William Penn, A. C. Hasenjaeger and A. F. LeGaye as councilmen and individuals for damages totalling $1350.

McCarthy in his suit alleges that he was crossing Bush street at Third street on the evening of December 21 last, when McWilliams, who was on duty as a police officer at the time "negligently, recklessly and carelessly fired a .38 caliber revolver" at him. The bullet, he alleged, pierced his right hand.

The complaint alleges that McCarthy was not being pursued by the patrolman and the patrolman was not attempting to arrest him. On the other hand, according to the complaint, McWilliams was in pursuit of Roma Foy Owings, who had committed a misdemeanor, shoplifting.

The complaint asks $1000 for injuries to McCarthy's right hand which resulted in a permanent scar, $300 for his inability to work for three months and $50 for X-ray, medical service and supplies.

Previously the council had refused a claim for damages. McWilliams declares he was in an alley and fired a shot in the air which he says could not possibly have hit McCarthy. Officers say the shot which struck the bootblack was fired by an unknown motorist. Statement by a physician who attended McCarthy said that the wound was not caused by a police bullet.

He was described as being 5 feet 9 inches tall, weighing 190 pounds and being from 40 to 45 years of age.

AWARD PRIZES FOR QUILTS AT PENNEY STORE

One hundred and thirty-three quilts, representing the patience, ingenuity, artistic ability and needlecraft of as many women of Santa Ana and vicinity, today were attracting down town shoppers to the J. C. Penney store, where a two days' exhibit was in progress.

Announced earlier in the week as a quilt exhibit open to all women of the community for the display of their workmanship, the affair met with an enthusiastic response. While Thursday was designated as the day when entries would be closed there were many disappointed women at the store today, hoping to have their contributions accepted for display and as entrants for the generous prizes offered by the store management. But judging was accomplished at an early hour this forenoon, and after awards were made it was impossible to accept other quilts.

To Mrs. Charles F. Mitchell, 409 South Main street, went first prize of a $5 merchandise order. Her quilt was a striking design in delphinium blue background with white figures whose form was aptly described by the name of the pattern, the Snowflake.

Mrs. A. Lindley, 2802 North Main street, won second place and a $4 merchandise order, with her tulip design whose flowers were shaded tones of orchid, rose and yellow, and whose intricate quilting repeated the tulip pattern. To Mrs. J. G. Whitmore, 620 Acacia street, Garden Grove, went third prize of a $3 merchandise order for a Lone Star quilt in tones ranging from soft ivory to vivid orange.

Awards were made on the points of general workmanship, amount of quilting, finish, color harmony, quality of material, originality of design and neatness. The exhibit was under the general direction of F. A. Jones, manager of the J. C. Penney company, who had the assistance of Mrs. Ella Merrick, 2807 North Main street, an authority on quilting and art needlework. Judges were Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. Frank Cannon and J. K. Evans.

Quilts are so arranged as to be easily viewed, as they are suspended from the mezzanine floor and draped above the shelves of merchandise, while several fine examples are used in a window display. The exhibit will end when the store closes tomorrow night.

Married Flirts

by MABEL McELLIOTT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Gypsy Morell and Tom Weaver are married on the same day as Lila Hotaling and Derek Bliss, but Lila expects to live in luxury while Gypsy keeps her job teaching in a settlement school.

Gypsy has to struggle to keep expenses within Tom's income. Another problem is Tom's jealousy of wealthy Marko Broughton, a former admirer of Gypsy's, whom they meet at the Blisses' home.

When Gypsy learns she is to have a baby she gives up her job. The baby is born in September and is christened David.

Derek Bliss, weary of the social whirl in which he and Lila live, begs off from a party one night and Lila goes with Marko. Marko tells her he is mad about her.

On a morning following a lonely evening at home Gypsy finds a woman's handkerchief in Tom's coat pocket.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Her heart plunged sickenly; there was the taste of salt water in her mouth. Her first sensation was of mortal sickness, not anger. The thought that Tom would deliberately deceive her rocked her world. Blindly she went on with her tasks. The day had cleared, was cold, bracing, blue. Blindly she dressed the baby in his warm suit of woolies, got herself ready for the street.

In the market she stood aside, trying to remember what she had come for. David's luncheon; there must be fresh spinach for it. The thought of food made her definitely ill but she conquered that. As in a dream she bought bread, carrots, potatoes, sugar. Elsa would wonder if she did not buy supplies for dinner. But how did one eat chopped steak when one's heart was breaking?

In the street she saw no one she know. It was a dismal block she had to traverse, between their apartment building and the wide cobblestoned highway where most of the shops were. An elevated train crashed by. Chaff blew in the gutter. Everyone looked cold, brisk, purposeful. She thought she must be the only woman so miserable in all New York that day. A young, dark-eyed woman in an unfashionable cloth coat, pushing a rosy baby in a big blue carriage. What was she to do now?

Her first impulse was to fly back to the safe shelter of Blue Hills, to cry her heart out in that familiar and beloved setting. But pride held her back. No one should know how she had been hurt. She would work her trouble out alone.

Maybe it all meant nothing, her eager thoughts cried out. Maybe the handkerchief was a trifle. Tom had picked up in the street....at the office. But she knew it was not true. No, this evidence explained Tom's frequent absences from home lately; his silence, his abstraction. Fool she had been not to see before!

Was it that pretty girl in the office? Was it someone he had met before his marriage? Who.... who could it be? Not that it mattered. The fact remained that he had lied to her about last night. Well then, he had probably lied about other things, too.

She fed the baby, tucked him away for his nap. Elsa came.

"I fix you some lunch, now huh?"

"Just some tea and toast."

"You don't feel so good, huh?" Elsa's wide, pink, humorless face took on an expression of concern.

"I—I have a headache." It was always easy to say that. You never told anyone you had a pain in your heart.

Tom was late that night, even as he had said, and Gypsy ate a solitary dinner with a book propped up before her, not even seeing the pages but thinking her own thoughts. Elsa washed up, moving stolidly about. Early darkness closed in and lights flashed on all over the city.

"You feel sick, Mrs. Weaver?"

"No—I'm all right. Just a little tired."

"The mister, he got to work—makes it kinda lonesome for you."

Gypsy said steadily "Yes, it does. But he'll be home soon. Nine or 10, I expect. Good-night, Elsa."

The apartment was very lonely with Elsa gone and David asleep. There could be years of this sort of thing, Gypsy thought with a clutch of pain at her heart. Years and years and years of days filled with dull tasks and lonely evenings.

When Tom came in at 9:30, she was playing patience. She had on her old brown velveteen with its broad lace collar. She was pale but her eyes were feverish and she had painted her small mouth with bright, raspberry colored salve.

"Lo, dear. Sorry I couldn't get away."

She read guilt in every line of him. She lifted a cool cheek for his kiss.

"What's the matter? Anything go wrong?"

"N-no. Everything's fine."

He tried to take her in his arms but she evaded him.

"Boy all right?"

She tried to make her voice sound natural, to put all her usual enthusiasm into her tone. "He's splendid." She might tell him how cunning David had been in his bath; how he had laughed aloud, waving his fat starfish hands. She might tell him these things....and bore him. So she kept silent.

When Tom said, in a sympathetic tone, "Rotten for you today, kitten. I thought of you so much," her throat ached and tears of self-pity sprang to her eyes. She winked them back, bending with pretended concentration over her cards.

"That red queen....what did you say, Tommy?"

He was puzzled—he was frankly puzzled. Gypsy said to herself, "Let him be." She felt herself all tight and sore within, aching, bruised. Where did you get that monogrammed handkerchief? She might fling that at him, watch him squirm, lib, wriggle out of it. Ah, but she wasn't going to ask—not now, at least.

She was miserable in the days that followed. The shadow of black jealousy hovered over all her waking hours. On the surface things were as before. Tom had no more late nights at the office and when he was at home Gypsy was quiet, sweet, interested, apathetic. "I think you ought to see the doctor, honey," he told her more than once. "I think you need a tonic."

She shook her head. She was all right, she told him. How explain that what she needed was the elixir of trust, the old, benignant medicine of perfect love and understanding?

In April, one warm, delicious Saturday they drove over to Blue Hills. The baby was adorable in a pink sweater and silky cap. Gypsy had the new gray suit which Tom's commission had made possible. Her mother said gravely, "Seems you've been doing too much, child. You look so thin and big eyed. Tom thinks...."

"What does he think?" Gypsy's voice, in spite of herself, was sharp with suspicion.

"Don't be so touchy," soothed Mrs. Morell. "He thought a rest would do you good. A change.... after the long winter. You could stay here for a week or two. Clytie and I would take David off your hands. He's no trouble any how. Such a good baby."

So Tom wanted to get rid of her for a week, did he? Oh, no, she musn't allow herself to think such thoughts. Her mind was sick, that was all; she was overtired and foolish. Maybe this brief separation would be the best thing in the world for them both.

When it came time for Tom to leave Sunday evening Gypsy clung to him feverishly "I think I'd better go back with you, after all," she said faintly. She was desperately afraid she was going to cry.

"Nonsense," Tom said roistly. "You need a change. I'll worry along. I'll telephone you every day."

She watched him go with a dull pain at her heart.

But later, as she picked up the threads of the old life again, she began to wonder what had bothered her back in the city. Color flowed back into her cheeks and hope into her soul. She began to persuade herself that all of her tortures had been self-inflicted. "It's just that I was so much alone and had so much to do," she assured herself. The rich, jumbled casual family life amused and busied her. She worked a little in the garden. She lunched and dined with old friends, answering questions about her husband with that serious young-matronly manner which well became her. At the end of seven days she was missing Tom terribly. Over the telephone each morning he assured her that a solitary state was not one to be desired, no mater what smug bachelors told to the contrary.

But on Saturday morning, four or five hours before Lis expected arrival, Sue Canavan's young sister, Katherine, tossed a bombshell into Gypsy's house of contentment.

"Saw that handsome husband of yours lunching yesterday," she said gayly. It seemed to Gypsy that the glance Sue threw her was a warning one.

"Oh, did you?" asked Gypsy with animation. "Did you stop and speak to him?"

Katherine shrugged thin shoulders. "He was much too busy to notice poor little me," she mocked. "He was all wrapped up in the girl with him—stunning looking creature in black. Looked like Paris."

"He—he has all sorts of women clients for the various accounts," Gypsy said coldly and proudly. The old, desperate sickness was returning. Yesterday—why, Tom had telephoned her just at 11 o'clock yesterday to say he was "up to his ears in work. And she had believed him.

"Of course he has," Sue said quickly—too quickly. She changed the subject with her usual tact and they spoke of other things. But Gypsy felt the knife turning in her heart. This could not go on! It was a situation beyond her control. It wounded her pride and dignity. When Tom came she would have to have it out with him.

After the girls had gone she glanced over the morning newspaper, seeking an escape from her troubled thoughts. A name stood out from all the others in the column of personal notes on the society page.

"Miss Vera Gray of Boston is at the Weylin."

Something clicked in her brain. Was this what she had been fearing all the time? That girl—how she hated her! Gypsy stood up, her little hands clenched. David sat in his carriage in an angle of the house. Sun poured down on him, a smiling, rosy scrap of babyhood. She started at him, almost without seeing.

She had been letting things drift. Well, now there must be a showdown! Tom would have to make his choice.

AFFAIRS IN EUROPE TOPIC OF S. A. CLUB

Harold Yost's discussion of the "Failure of Nationalism" was voted the best of a group of informative talks on Europe given by members of Smedley Chapter No. 1 of Toastmasters at their meeting at the Doris-Kathryn Tea Shoppe Wednesday night.

Yost gave a concise picture of the effects of nationalism and contrasted the goals of Fascism and similar movements with the possibilities of a European-American union of those nations whose culture and ideals are similar. An example of similarity in tastes cited was that of American appreciation of Continental cinema stars.

Orville Northrup, whose speech was judged second best, gave a brilliant summary of the favorable and unfavorable points of Fascism in his talk on "Italy."

The peace terms dictated at the close of the Franco-Prussian War, Germany's preparations for war prior to 1914, her halt on her march to Paris and her leaving the League of Nations were cited by R. C. Smedley, founder of the Toastmaster's organization, as four outstanding actions of Germany which have changed the history of the world.

Dean Campbell, in discussing "European Ambitions" called attention to five ambitious men of Europe, whose ambitions will likely prevent any one from becoming supreme ruler of Europe. The men pointed out were Mussolini, Balbo, Hitler, Goering and Dolfuss.

The history of Monaco and its principal city, Monte Carlo, was told by G. F. McKelvey, who spoke of its ancient history and important changes in its economic career down to the present time.

A. G. Green, one of the senior members of the club, acted as toastmaster of the evening.

FATHER'S COUNCIL TO MEET FEB. 12

That men of the community who have children in Santa Ana High school and Junior college may understand more fully the rebuilding project for Santa Ana schools now being planned, it will be discussed at 7:30 Monday night, February 12 at the father's council meeting in the junior college cafeteria.

Jules Markel, local contractor, will tell what is being undertaken in the rebuilding project on the school and also will explain the attitude of local contractors and architects.

Markel also plans to explain the new state building code. Other speakers will discuss possibilities of moving the junior college in the near future, and reasons there are for moving it.

W. D. Gutherie will be chairman of the meeting, and he urges all men in the community who have children in Santa Ana Junior college or High school to attend.

CIRCUS THRILLS IN KEN MAYNARD FILM

In "King of the Arena," which is now playing at Walker's State theater, Ken Maynard portrays a role which is almost a parallel of his own life-story. He plays the part of a Texas ranger who is travelling and performing with a circus in order to capture his man. The locale of the story shifts from Texas across the border in Mexico, and here Maynard is on familiar ground, for he was born in southern Texas and spent most of his childhood and youth in Mexico.

Tarzan, the white-maned Palamino horse who has gained fame by his performances in previous Maynard pictures, has a prominent part in "King of the Arena," performing stunts in the circus arena as well as hard, daring work in the pursuit of the criminals whom his master is out to round up, in the film.

Blue Gum Stumps Will Be Removed

Six hundred stumps of blue gum trees on 101 highway near Irvine are being removed this week by the S. E. Talbert firm of Talbert. The trees were cut down last year during work on the highway.

BOTH PARTIES SCORE DURING COURT CONTEST

Attorneys for both sides scored telling blows yesterday in the trial of W. Carl Spencer's suit for annulment of his marriage to Mrs. Katherine McKenzie Spencer, former Costa Mesa real estate operator. The trial was continued by Superior Judge H. G. Ames until 9:30 a. m. Monday when it is expected that Mrs. Spencer will be recalled to the stand to testify on her own behalf.

Spencer scored when two witnesses testified that they heard Mrs. Spencer say "I never did intend to live with him." The score was evened up however when a former housekeeper at the Spencer ranch testified as to alleged relation of the husband of the late Mrs. Fanny Bixby Spencer with two little Japanese girls.

When Attorney Franklin West rested his case for Spencer, James Tucker, counsel for Mrs. Spencer, moved for a non-suit which was denied and then called the plaintiff to the witness stand, under Section 2055 of the Civil code, as the first defense witness. Spencer was soon withdrawn with the understanding that he would be recalled later in the proceeding. Mrs. Spencer was the next witness but was called from the stand when it was evident that the hearing could not be completed.

Tucker was granted permission to call Mrs. Calla Smith of Strathmore, a former housekeeper of Spencer's, to the witness stand. Mrs. Smith testified over the vigorous objection of West to alleged relations Spencer had with two little Japanese girls who lived at the Spencer ranch. This testimony was introduced after Judge Ames had ruled that Mrs. Spencer's answers to the annulment complaint could be amended to include conditions at the ranch which allegedly made it impossible for her to live there. In his complaint Spencer charged that his wife never lived with him and had no intention of living with him as his wife at the time of their marriage in Yuma, Ariz.

Spencer's testimony, when called as a witness for his wife, was almost exclusively in connection with his wedding night which was spent in a Yuma hotel and was given over the strenuous objections of his attorney.

Julian Brown, beneficiary under the will of the late Mrs. Spencer, and a friend of his, Monroe Burdsall, gave damaging evidence against the present Mrs. Spencer. Brown testified that one night, at the home of a Mrs. Youell, where he lived in Costa Mesa he heard a conversation between Mrs. Youell and Mrs. Spencer in which Mrs. Spencer is alleged to have said "I never did intend to live with him." Burdsall, who was with Brown at the time corroborated this testimony.

During the few minutes that she was on the stand Mrs. Spencer said that because of the unsettled state of the affairs of both Spencer and herself they had agreed to keep the marriage a secret. She also testified that Spencer had told her that he never expected her to live at the ranch as he too wanted to get away from old associations.

S. A. BOY WINNER OF NAVY HONORS

Word has been received here that another Santa Ana man is "making good" in the United States Navy. According to information received here from Commander F. J. Lowry, training officer at the Naval Training Station in San Diego, Gerald D. Adair was designated weekly honor man of his company at the station for the week ending January 26. Before enlistment in the Navy Adair lived with his father, Edwin Adair, at 322 West Eighteenth street.

The designation of "honor man" means that Adair's work was outstanding in a group of approximately 100 men in his company. Honor men are selected because of their neat personal appearance, initiative and their ability to profit from instruction received during their recruit training.

$3000 BAIL SET IN BURGLARY CASE

The preliminary hearing for Juan Ojeda, 23, charged with two counts of burglary, will be held in the justice court on February 7 at 9 a. m., following his arraignment by Santa Ana police. Bail was fixed at $3000.

Ojeda is alleged to have robbed the home of Mrs. Hilda Insley of Delhi on January 7 and again on January 27, taking a set of dishes the first time and house furnishings the second, including curtains, pillows, kitchenware and dresses. He was arrested after relatives of Mrs. Insley saw one of the stolen dresses being worn by the 17-year-old girl living with Ojeda. Police indicated that the Mexican would be deported by immigration authorities following disposition of his case.

$3000 BAIL SET IN BURGLARY CASE

The preliminary hearing for Juan Ojeda, 23, charged with two counts of burglary, will be held in the justice court on February 7 at 9 a. m., following his arraignment by Santa Ana police. Bail was fixed at $3000.

Ojeda is alleged to have robbed the home of Mrs. Hilda Insley of Delhi on January 7 and again on January 27, taking a set of dishes the first time and house furnishings the second, including curtains, pillows, kitchenware and dresses. He was arrested after relatives of Mrs. Insley saw one of the stolen dresses being worn by the 17-year-old girl living with Ojeda. Police indicated that the Mexican would be deported by immigration authorities following disposition of his case.

EXTENSION OF ALAMITOS BAY JETTY IS NEAR

SEAL BEACH, Feb. 2.—The Seal Beach city council last night gave approval to three projects to be built under the CWA program and authorized the city engineer to file applications with the district board.

The projects include the construction of a comfort station near the entrance to Anaheim bay, the construction or reconstruction of sidewalks and curbs throughout the city and the construction of a proposed crossing over the railway at Twelfth street. Application has been made with the state railroad commission for a crossing at Twelfth street and with the agreement of the Pacific Electric Railway company that it will not protest the action provided the crossing at Fourteenth street is abandoned, it is hoped that the project will soon be carried out.

Efforts of the city council to secure an extension of the Alamitos bay jeetty have at last been successful, the agreement for the extension of the jetty being returned to the council with the signatures of three engineers of the four parties in the agreement. It has been contended that the extension of the jetty would be necessary to build up the beach front to where it was before the flood control outlet was placed there. Efforts to have the jetty extended have up to this time been unsuccessful but with the required signatures of the city engineer of Seal Beach, the county engineer of Orange county, and the city engineer of the city of Long Beach already on the agreement, it is hoped that the work will be started soon.

Fifty people from East Seal Beach was present to express their views to the council in regard to the proposed openings to the beach in that section of the city. The original proposition of the council was to open two streets and to assess the costs to property immediately surrounding the openings. According to property owners affected, this would place undue burden upon some. After considerable discussion, the plan was adopted whereby the city attorney will start condemnation proceedings to open Twenty-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets. The assessment district was defined as including the whole of the tract on the east side of the Anaheim Bay bridge.

J. L. Burkhart, secretary of the Seal Beach planning commission, appeared before the council with the information that the body had proceeded as far as it was possible with the plan for zoning the city. The city attorney was instructed to determine the necessary proceedings to have the plan accepted and to draw up the required ordinance.

L. A. PROBATION HEAD IN TALK ON WANDERERS

NEWPORT HEIGHTS, Feb. 2.—According to statistics, approximately five per cent of the boys and girls of the country cause all the trouble, Kenyon J. Scudder, probation officer of Los Angeles county declared in a talk before the adult education group, at the high school auditorium yesterday. Scudder used as the subject of his address, "The Juvenile Wanderer Reaches Los Angeles."

"Approximately two per cent of the adult population commits all of the crimes," he said. "The big question is, how long are the 98 per cent of grown-ups going to tolerate the actions of the two per cent, and what are we going to do with the 95 per cent of good youngsters to save them from the bad five per cent?"

By showing a series of pictures and conducting an open forum, the speaker showed how Los Angeles county is creating camps, playgrounds and homes to take care of many of the juvenile wanderers. They are giving relief to about 300 boys and 40 girls who are coming into the county each day, he said. Mrs. J. R. McClure introduced the speaker.

Next Thursday Dr. Fredric P. Woellner, instructor in education in the University of California at Los Angeles, will speak on the topic, "Fair Play Between Men and Women." He will be followed on February 15 by Dr. Frank B. Reid of the Human Betterment Foundation.

The course of lectures has been arranged by the Parent-Teacher associations of Costa Mesa and Newport Beach. EXTENSION OF ALAMITOS BAY JETTY IS NEAR

SEAL BEACH, Feb. 2.—The Seal Beach city council last night gave approval to three projects to be built under the CWA program and authorized the city engineer to file applications with the district board.

The projects include the construction of a comfort station near the entrance to Anaheim bay, the construction or reconstruction of sidewalks and curbs throughout the city and the construction of a proposed crossing over the railway at Twelfth street. Application has been made with the state railroad commission for a crossing at Twelfth street and with the agreement of the Pacific Electric Railway company that it will not protest the action provided the crossing at Fourteenth street is abandoned, it is hoped that the project will soon be carried out.

Efforts of the city council to secure an extension of the Alamitos bay jeetty have at last been successful, the agreement for the extension of the jetty being returned to the council with the signatures of three engineers of the four parties in the agreement. It has been contended that the extension of the jetty would be necessary to build up the beach front to where it was before the flood control outlet was placed there. Efforts to have the jetty extended have up to this time been unsuccessful but with the required signatures of the city engineer of Seal Beach, the county engineer of Orange county, and the city engineer of the city of Long Beach already on the agreement, it is hoped that the work will be started soon.

Fifty people from East Seal Beach was present to express their views to the council in regard to the proposed openings to the beach in that section of the city. The original proposition of the council was to open two streets and to assess the costs to property immediately surrounding the openings. According to property owners affected, this would place undue burden upon some. After considerable discussion, the plan was adopted whereby the city attorney will start condemnation proceedings to open Twenty-first, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth streets. The assessment district was defined as including the whole of the tract on the east side of the Anaheim Bay bridge.

J. L. Burkhart, secretary of the Seal Beach planning commission, appeared before the council with the information that the body had proceeded as far as it was possible with the plan for zoning the city. The city attorney was instructed to determine the necessary proceedings to have the plan accepted and to draw up the required ordinance.

WEAKNESS

Even Mr. Roosevelt's most ardent admirers cannot quite stand the CWA.

Administration inner circles gently grasp their noses now when anyone mentions it. Their descriptions of it run from "bad" to "awful." It has become the common curbstone joke of the capital. Complaints continue to pour in on Mr. Roosevelt's desk. They concern the ridiculous manner in which the idea is being administered by underlings, rather than the graft angle. It is a foregone conclusion that the president will do something further about it.

This something will probably be an order confining CWA work to those who are in actual need of relief.

SYMPTOMS

The President's original plan was to establish the CWA only for those who were on relief rolls. Later, someone and everyone took part in it. That is where the trouble started.

The result is children are running away from high schools to get soft snaps under the CWA. Poor ones who really need the money do not seem to be as successful in getting jobs as those with letters from their senators or congressmen.

Negro cooks in the south left the kitchen and started quilting at home for the CWA at $12 per week.

A law school graduate passed his bar examination and got a job here as a PWA lawyer at $350 per month, looking over PWA contracts .

Irate citizens are writing that the CWA workers they observe in their local communities perform their tasks with slow motion picture speed; that persons and political favoritism are shown in selections for positions; that the CWA is becoming a haven for those who do not want to work, as well as those in need.

THEORY

One of the brain trust boys who thunders on the left recently made a trip to New England. He was approached by an irritated conservative who says he told the brain trustee:

"I am trying to be patient with all these newfangled ideas, but would you please tell me why it is necessary for CWA workers to rake up the leaves outside of factories that are closed?"

The brain trustee is supposed to have replied:

"We think it might inspire the employers to hire those men."

FARMING

Better yet is the yarn behind the delay in the homesteading plan.

A congressional representative from a western copper state was strong for the plan. This representative went to certain wealthy copper men in New York and painted a bright picture of what a nice thing it would be if they would contribute the land so that unemployed miners of the west could go to farming. The government would furnish the money for home construction and outfitting of the farms.

One of the wealthy copper men decided to chip in $5000 for land purchases. Several others were also persuaded.

Suddenly their western managers started calling on the long distance telephone, suggesting that western copper lands were hardly ideal for farming. In fact, the only crop in the particular region under discussion is alkali and dust and cactus.

The wealthy copper men decided to stop payment on their checks.

PARING?

Such stories have increased the agitation of alarmists who fear that the government is throwing away money beyond all reason. They suggest that quite as much good would be accomplished if Messrs. Ickes and Hopkins were permitted to toss away hundred dollar bills from the dome of the capitol.

The fact seems to be that the federal spending program is accomplishing an enormous amount of needed good. Purchasing power is being artificially created. But the spending is not being as carefully planned and limited as it should be.

You may expect to see Mr. Roosevelt start paring down shortly.

WAGES

It is now possible to estimate the results of the NRA from the government's own figures.

The codes generally started going into efefct last September. Statistics (by Secretary Perkins) show employment then was 74.3 per cent of normal. In October that figure slipped off to 73.9; in November to 72.4; in December to 71.8.

So under the codes employment was reduced 3 from 74.3 to 71.8 in the first four mnnths of operation.

The second idea of the codes was to improve wages. Statistics (also by Secretary Perkins) show the factory payrolls in September at 57.6; October 57.4; November 53.6; December 53.1.

So under the codes factory payrolls have dropped from 57.6 to 53.1 in four months of operation.

Those figures may be a little too hard on the NRA. They are adjusted for seasonal variations and cannot be denied, but the fact should also be pointed out that industrial production has fallen off in the four months cited.

Production was at a level of 84 per cent of normal in September and was off to 74 in December. You can readily see that the relative decline in employment and wages was less than the decline in production.

Therefore, the NRA seems to have safeguarded wages and employment in some measure during declining production. In other words, it cushioned the decline.

NOTES

If anyone is going to hold the expenditures within bounds, it will have to be Mr. Roosevelt. Congress and the politicians are enjoying the spree.

Some people are getting good out of the CWA. One is Linus Wilson, an ex-leader of the bonus army march on Washington. He is telling all his friends that he is getting "three square meals a day" for the first time in some years. Wilson stays at a fort near here where the following reading material is furnished by the Government: Various daily newspapers, Harper's, True Romances, Life and Judge, and a prize fight magazine. The selections were obviously made by a narrow-minded official who failed to include the Wall Street Journal.

One CWA man was cashiered for drunkenness, but reinstated on orders from Washington which suggested that relief workers should be punished for violations of the rules, but not fired.

An industrialist has been storming town recently calling General Johnson "a sheep in wool's clothing" because Johnson is not proceeding fast enough against code violators.

One Government official who dislikes the CWA has suggested privately a new type of employment for it. He would have the CWA make a survey of what bootleggers are doing now. Another idea: Organize a liquor tasting squad to ascertain if distilleries are putting water in their product or whether it is really as intoxicating as it should be. Considerable purchasing power could thus be created.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

UTILITIES

Interested New Yorkers claim that Governor Lehman's utility program is the most radical ever drafted. "Confiscation" is the kindest name they have for it. They insist that a five per cent return based on original cost less straight depreciation will sink them without a trace.

If and when the program is enacted by the Legislature the legal fur will fly. The utilities want to take the issue to the federal courts and if necessary will induce security holders living outside New York to bring suit. None of this State Court business for them.

Most utility old-timers had decided to swallow TVA and other federal encroachments without wincing. They figured TVA and other public-owned plants would flop in five years and then they could get back their cream. But this Lehman proposition has revived the old fighting spirit and they are out for a battle to the finish.

DEFENSE

One thing that grieves the utilities is the absence of zest among their security holders for their defense. The companies take care to do nothing about it officially but several security owners' organizations have been formed which fostered hopes. There are from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 owners of utility securities in the country and theoretically they should rally to the banner. But they just don't.

The skeleton organizations that do exist have a method all their own. They never protest a utility measure directly. Instead they flood their mailing lists with urgent requests to write Sentors, Congressmen, Assemblymen or what not and object to whatever nefarious scheme is afoot. There is no record that this system has accomplished anything to date.

CUBA

Insiders give Mendieta not more than sixty days unless he gets substantial cash before then to keep the wheels of army and government turning. If he falls, it looks like a shift much farther to the left than anything to date.

Ex-President Menocal is sulking in his tent in Florida. He didn't want Mendieta's job himself but he thought his son should have gotten farther ahead in the world. Menocal is specially irked because he believes he has much better financial contacts here than Mendieta. Therefore he thinks a regime which he sponsored would have a better chance of lasting.

SUGAR

Mendieta will send an ambassador to Washington soon to help in arranging credits. Sugar interests are anxious to go ahead in spite of low prices because a special tariff is in prospect which would give Cuba a better break in the American market. The sugar duty may be reduced from 2 cents to 1¼.

Beet sugar men are on their toes. They are expert lobbyists against concessions to Cuba.

Experts say a sugar import quota of 2,000,000 long tons is the best Cuba can possibly expect. Even at that figure one-third of the Cuban production and probably more than half the Cuban producers would be driven out of business.

MOVE

New York gets word from reliable sources that the German government seriously considers moving some of its important offices away from Berlin to a location somewhere in the Harz mountains.

One reason for the move would be easier defense against air raids and gas. Another is that Berlin would be a real danger point in case of an attempted counter-revolution because of its masses of radicals.

The following offices are most likely to leave Berlin: Federal Government, Nazi Storm Troops Staff, Central Staff of the Nazi Party, General Staff of the regular German Army.

State Secretary Fritz Reinhardt of the German Federal Finance Ministry recently announced the Nazi policy toward working women in a Berlin speech. It seems the object is to reduce the number of women gainfully employed in Germany from the present figure of six million to three million during 1934. Only one German newspaper came out with the news quick enough to escape the censor.

Industrial experts report a significant increase in chartering steamships to carry steel and iron scrap from the United States to Great Britain. Five ships have been engaged in the past month to carry 22,000 tons and more are yet to come. These are the first scrap iron imports into England for two years. The British steel business is booming and so is the war scare.

UNFAIR

A certain shipbuilding concern is plenty miffed at your Uncle Sam. It submitted a bid for four Coast Guard tugs. Government requirements included the 30-hour week at $1.10 an hour for labor to be used on the job. This company's bid was the lowest by 9 per cent.

Then the government handed over the contract to the Charleston Navy Yard where labor works 40 hours at 80 cents an hour—and the Navy Yard hadn't even submitted a bid. The private corporation is beefing lustily about unfair competition but its Washington audience shows a painful lack of interest.

SIDELIGHTS

A manufacturer of fever thermometers in Germany was sent to a concentration camp because he quoted prices below the current level. . . . That's code enforcement. . . . There were 46 plainclothesmen on the job at the New York dinner to Soviet Ambassador Troyanovsky. . . . They had nothing to do but eat.

One of the wealthy copper men decided to chip in $5000 for land purchases. Several others were also persuaded.

Suddenly their western managers started calling on the long distance telephone, suggesting that western copper lands were hardly ideal for farming. In fact, the only crop in the particular region under discussion is alkali and dust and cactus.

The wealthy copper men decided to stop payment on their checks.

PARING?

Such stories have increased the agitation of alarmists who fear that the government is throwing away money beyond all reason. They suggest that quite as much good would be accomplished if Messrs. Ickes and Hopkins were permitted to toss away hundred dollar bills from the dome of the capitol.

The fact seems to be that the federal spending program is accomplishing an enormous amount of needed good. Purchasing power is being artificially created. But the spending is not being as carefully planned and limited as it should be.

You may expect to see Mr. Roosevelt start paring down shortly.

WAGES

It is now possible to estimate the results of the NRA from the government's own figures.

The codes generally started going into efefct last September. Statistics (by Secretary Perkins) show employment then was 74.3 per cent of normal. In October that figure slipped off to 73.9; in November to 72.4; in December to 71.8.

So under the codes employment was reduced 3 from 74.3 to 71.8 in the first four mnnths of operation.

The second idea of the codes was to improve wages. Statistics (also by Secretary Perkins) show the factory payrolls in September at 57.6; October 57.4; November 53.6; December 53.1.

So under the codes factory payrolls have dropped from 57.6 to 53.1 in four months of operation.

Those figures may be a little too hard on the NRA. They are adjusted for seasonal variations and cannot be denied, but the fact should also be pointed out that industrial production has fallen off in the four months cited.

Production was at a level of 84 per cent of normal in September and was off to 74 in December. You can readily see that the relative decline in employment and wages was less than the decline in production.

Therefore, the NRA seems to have safeguarded wages and employment in some measure during declining production. In other words, it cushioned the decline.

NOTES

If anyone is going to hold the expenditures within bounds, it will have to be Mr. Roosevelt. Congress and the politicians are enjoying the spree.

Some people are getting good out of the CWA. One is Linus Wilson, an ex-leader of the bonus army march on Washington. He is telling all his friends that he is getting "three square meals a day" for the first time in some years. Wilson stays at a fort near here where the following reading material is furnished by the Government: Various daily newspapers, Harper's, True Romances, Life and Judge, and a prize fight magazine. The selections were obviously made by a narrow-minded official who failed to include the Wall Street Journal.

One CWA man was cashiered for drunkenness, but reinstated on orders from Washington which suggested that relief workers should be punished for violations of the rules, but not fired.

An industrialist has been storming town recently calling General Johnson "a sheep in wool's clothing" because Johnson is not proceeding fast enough against code violators.

One Government official who dislikes the CWA has suggested privately a new type of employment for it. He would have the CWA make a survey of what bootleggers are doing now. Another idea: Organize a liquor tasting squad to ascertain if distilleries are putting water in their product or whether it is really as intoxicating as it should be. Considerable purchasing power could thus be created.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

UTILITIES

Interested New Yorkers claim that Governor Lehman's utility program is the most radical ever drafted. "Confiscation" is the kindest name they have for it. They insist that a five per cent return based on original cost less straight depreciation will sink them without a trace.

If and when the program is enacted by the Legislature the legal fur will fly. The utilities want to take the issue to the federal courts and if necessary will induce security holders living outside New York to bring suit. None of this State Court business for them.

Most utility old-timers had decided to swallow TVA and other federal encroachments without wincing. They figured TVA and other public-owned plants would flop in five years and then they could get back their cream. But this Lehman proposition has revived the old fighting spirit and they are out for a battle to the finish.

DEFENSE

One thing that grieves the utilities is the absence of zest among their security holders for their defense. The companies take care to do nothing about it officially but several security owners' organizations have been formed which fostered hopes. There are from 2,500,000 to 3,000,000 owners of utility securities in the country and theoretically they should rally to the banner. But they just don't.

The skeleton organizations that do exist have a method all their own. They never protest a utility measure directly. Instead they flood their mailing lists with urgent requests to write Sentors, Congressmen, Assemblymen or what not and object to whatever nefarious scheme is afoot. There is no record that this system has accomplished anything to date.

CUBA

Insiders give Mendieta not more than sixty days unless he gets substantial cash before then to keep the wheels of army and government turning. If he falls, it looks like a shift much farther to the left than anything to date.

Ex-President Menocal is sulking in his tent in Florida. He didn't want Mendieta's job himself but he thought his son should have gotten farther ahead in the world. Menocal is specially irked because he believes he has much better financial contacts here than Mendieta. Therefore he thinks a regime which he sponsored would have a better chance of lasting.

SUGAR

Mendieta will send an ambassador to Washington soon to help in arranging credits. Sugar interests are anxious to go ahead in spite of low prices because a special tariff is in prospect which would give Cuba a better break in the American market. The sugar duty may be reduced from 2 cents to 1¼.

Beet sugar men are on their toes. They are expert lobbyists against concessions to Cuba.

Experts say a sugar import quota of 2,000,000 long tons is the best Cuba can possibly expect. Even at that figure one-third of the Cuban production and probably more than half the Cuban producers would be driven out of business.

MOVE

New York gets word from reliable sources that the German government seriously considers moving some of its important offices away from Berlin to a location somewhere in the Harz mountains.

One reason for the move would be easier defense against air raids and gas. Another is that Berlin would be a real danger point in case of an attempted counter-revolution because of its masses of radicals.

The following offices are most likely to leave Berlin: Federal Government, Nazi Storm Troops Staff, Central Staff of the Nazi Party, General Staff of the regular German Army.

WOMEN

State Secretary Fritz Reinhardt of the German Federal Finance Ministry recently announced the Nazi policy toward working women in a Berlin speech. It seems the object is to reduce the number of women gainfully employed in Germany from the present figure of six million to three million during 1934. Only one German newspaper came out with the news quick enough to escape the censor.

SCRAP

Industrial experts report a significant increase in chartering steamships to carry steel and iron scrap from the United States to Great Britain. Five ships have been engaged in the past month to carry 22,000 tons and more are yet to come. These are the first scrap iron imports into England for two years. The British steel business is booming and so is the war scare.

UNFAIR

A certain shipbuilding concern is plenty miffed at your Uncle Sam. It submitted a bid for four Coast Guard tugs. Government requirements included the 30-hour week at $1.10 an hour for labor to be used on the job. This company's bid was the lowest by 9 per cent.

Then the government handed over the contract to the Charleston Navy Yard where labor works 40 hours at 60 cents an hour—and the Navy Yard nadn't even submitted a bid. The private corporation is beefing lustily about unfair competition but its Washington audience shows a painful lack of interest.

SIDELIGHTS

A manufacturer of fever thermometers in Germany was sent to a concentration camp because he quoted prices below the current level. . . . That's code enforcement. . . . There were 46 plainclothesmen on the job at the New York dinner to Soviet Ambassador Troyanovsky. . . . They had nothing to do but eat.

ANOTHER MATTY?

Baseball history, slow, but sure, someday may relate that back in 29 Fullerton had the finest high school team of all time . . . Floyd Vaughan of the Pittsburgh Pirates, already No. 2 shortstop of his league, was a member. So was Willard Hershberger, recently "farmed" to Hollywood by the New York Yankees, still to establish greatness but a sterling catcher in the raw. And so was Big Bill" Peterson, a pitcher, unheralded and unsung, who ultimately may be better than either of them.

Up at Berkeley, where Peterson is first string pitcher for the University of California, they think Bill has everything.

"The debut of Clint Evans' team Saturday will reveal a 1934 edition of Christy Mathewson when Bill Peterson takes the mound," writes Phil Ray in an Oakland paper. "Those who have watched the Bears, including 'Red' Cross, Taylor Douthit and other major leaguers, claim Peterson is the image of the immortal Giant hurler, and that his pitching shows every indication of winning him fame in professional ball after graduation. His comeback this year will be a complete success, for Peterson has speed, control, curves and the proper temperament to become a great pitcher."

Peterson was out of the game all last year with a broken right wrist, sustained while cranking a flivver.

DOTS SO

Between courses:

Ben Slavin, who migrated to Tucson to play football for "Tex" Oliver at Arizona U., is backtracking to Santa Ana jaysee next week. Signals were mixed somewhere. . . . As related in this corner weeks ago, Paul Jacques is not going back to jump for Cal. His eyes are giving him trouble, though not enough to keep him from playing basketball for a city league team. Jacques tied for first place against Stanford last year, and tied for second in the Californian meet. . . . and although he reserves the right to change his mind at the last minute, Les Hall has practically decided to pass up his last year of track at U. S. C. Ball is a pharmacist for a local drug concern. He hates to miss the competition but also hesitates to give up a good job. Ball tied for second in the IC4A "hundred" in '33. . . . There's something about the climate—or the coaching—that helps Stanford freight slingers. "Rusty" Ledbetter, the big Brea football player, is out for the freshman track team. He couldn't shove a 12-pound shot better than 47 feet in high school, but already has bettered 44 feet with the 16-pound thing up north. . . . Canto Robleto, little fighter who used to be a crowd-pleaser at Delhi, has gone Hind. . . . Chet Smith, the pitcher, and his twin brother, "Swede," the shortstop, who led San Diego High to two Southern California prep baseball titles in succession, only to lose the second when the net was caught playing semi-pro ball under another name, have signed with Los Angeles. Since the '33 prep season, Chet has become a shortstop and "Swede" a pitcher, and they'll go up to the Angels that way.

COACHES ON THE MAKE

The great "bull" market is starting on the interscholastic athletic exchange.

"Stub" Allison and Frank Wickhorst, assistant football coaches at California, were here Wednesday, conferring with Santa Ana's prep celebrities and some of California's prominent alumni, including Bart Peck, captain of the Saints' famed 1921 team which produced Don Williams, Jeff Cravath and others . . . Southern California will be applying the pressure right strong, and "Tiny" Thornhill's aides will be along soon to look after Stanford interests. . . . "Tex" Oliver of Arizona protects himself in the clinches right well, and 'tis said that even the good A. A. Stagg of Pacific has his eye on one or two of the boys. . . . One of the most sought "catches" of the group is Ray Brown, all-Southern California tackle from Anaheim Hi.

SUCCESS IN VICTORY

According to unofficial reports, the University of New Mexico may come into the Coast Preparatory league for its next football coach—Harold (Hobbs) Adams of San Diego Hi.

Off-hand, there seems nothing exemplary in Adams' five-year record at San Diego. His teams lost a couple of important games they should have won, and the 1933 edition did a sour job of representing the conference in the Southern Cal. playoff with Inglewood.

Yet the records speak well for Coach Adams, and it's hard to dodge figures. The only Coast league coach with a better record is Santa Ana's Oliver, since graduated to Arizona, where his teams will meet Adams' again, if Adams "goes up."

Another candidate for the New Mexico job is Harry Shipkey, now at Salinas, an all-time tackle for Fullerton Hi. Shipkey's Salinas teams haven't lost a game in three years.

Coaching records since '29, the year Adams entered the conference:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Oliver (Santa Ana)	18	3	2	.857
Adams (San Diego)	18	6	3	.750
Landreth (Long Beach)	15	7	5	.682
Hobbs (Alhambra)	15	11	7	.577
Thurman (Pasadena)	8	16	4	.333
Wolfe-Gaines (Glendale)	3	24	1	.111

During that same period (1929-34) Brea-Olinda's "Shorty" Smith established the best football record in the Orange league, while Tustin's Bill Cole and Orange's "Hod" Chambers shared laurels in basketball.

Smith's team won 21, lost 7. Stewart White of Orange had 19 victories, 9 defeats. The Harry Sheue-Leon Miner regime at Huntington Beach finished third with 15 and 12.

Tustin, under Cole, and Orange, under Chambers, won 23 basketball games and lost 6 up to but not including the current season. Otis Hornaday of Brea-Olinda is third with 17 and 12.

CHICAGO BEARS TO PLAY IN S. F. AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears, National professional football champions, will play another game in San Francisco before disbanding for the season, George Helas, coach and owner, announced today.

The Bears face an all-star squad in Kezar stadium Sunday, Feb. 11, Halas said. The all-star squad will be made up mostly of former Bay City players who have not yet competed against the Bears.

The Bears left for San Diego today, where they will play Ernie Pinckert's all-stars Sunday.

Bowman, Olympic Athlete, Divorced

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Martha Ferguson Bowman today obtained a divorce from Sidney Bowman, Olympic jumper.

"He was a marvel as a broad jumper but a fizzle as a husband," Mrs. Bowman said in court.

Custody of a son, four months old, was awarded the mother.

SAINTS IN FINAL HOOP SERIES

ANAHEIM MAKES BID FOR TITLE AT CAPISTRANO

One of the crucial games of the Orange County league's 1934 basketball season arrives tonight when Anaheim lays its cards on the table at San Juan Capistrano.

This will be no idle gesture on Anaheim's part. The Colonists' hopes for the championship are strictly at stake. An Anaheim victory practically means first place; elimination follows defeat.

Other games tonight, none of them outstanding: Newport Harbor at Tustin; Huntington Beach at Orange; Garden Grove at Brea-Olinda. Tustin, Orange and Brea are heavily favored.

Strengthened by the return of Forward Ted Neja, who was not in the lineup when Anaheim lost its only game of the season to Brea, the Colonists are conceded an outside chance of heading off the undefeated Cougars.

Schedule Favors Anaheim

In the event of a victory, Anaheim would have a better chance for the championship than either Tustin or Capistrano, teams with which it would be tied. Anaheim easily defeated Tustin early in the season, and by beating Capistrano could insure itself of first place by winning subsequent starts against Garden Grove and Orange. Tustin still would have to play Capistrano and Garden Grove. Capistrano would oppose Tustin and Huntington Beach.

Comparative scores and the advantage of playing at home make San Juan Capistrano the favorite, however. Coach Stan Gould's men beat Brea, 22-14, and Brea defeated Anaheim, 26-23. Their scores with Newport Harbor were almost identical, Capistrano's margin being 26-7, Anaheim's 28-8.

Nearing the end of the conference race, Tustin will meet Coach Lee Trine's Newport Harbor Sailors in the Tustin gym at 8 o'clock. Tustin needs a win to stay in the pennant race, and having defeated the Sailors twice—once in practice and once in the Huntington Beach invitational tournament — should have little trouble downing their opponents. Remembering the upset Newport handed them in football, the Farmers will take no chances with the Sailors, however.

Spangler Returns to Lineup

After spending a week on the bench with an injured back, Howard Spangler will be back at center, Seacord and Francis handling the forward positions. On the bench due to exposure to the mumps, Ellsworth Teter, regular guard, will be replaced by Bob Forbes. "Chuck" Forbes starts at the other back position.

The Sailors will have Keithley, Stafford and Hadley, forwards; Greschner, center, Irwin and Johnston, guards.

In practice Wednesday, Tustin defeated the Huntington Beach Vandals, a team of Huntington Beach Hi alumni, 43-37. The Farmers used their regulars while the Vandals employed Lake and Klatz, forwards; Oliver, center; Jenkins and Van Horwitz, guards. Seacord and Lake were high with 16 and 10 points, respectively.

The standings:

ORANGE LEAGUE STANDINGS

	W.	L.	Pct.
San Juan Capistrano	4	0	1000
Tustin	3	1	.750
Anaheim	3	1	.750
Newport Harbor	2	2	.500
Brea-Olinda	2	2	.500
Garden Grove	1	3	.250
Orange	1	3	.250
Huntington Beach	0	4	.000

16,000 EXPECTED TO SEE MILLROSE MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A capacity house of more than 16,000 spectators is assured for tomorrow night's Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

The rush for tickets was caused by the quality of competing fields. Every National A. A. U. outdoor track champion on the flat from 100 to 10,000 meters, as well as assorted hurdles, steplechase, vaulting and jumping champions and most of the indoor title holders will compete.

Two of the feature events will be the Wanamaker mile race and the high-jumping. Glenn Cunningham, the Kansas flyer, was expected to arrive today to renew his track feud with Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania in the mile.

In the high jump, Walter Marty of Fresno State college, Cal., holder of the outdoor record of 6 feet 8 5-8 inches, clashes with George Spitz of New York university, who set the indoor mark of 6 feet 8 1-2 inches.

Herrman Talks Of Quitting Diamond

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—LeRoy Herrmann, right-handed pitcher acquired by the San Francisco Seals from the Chicago Cubs, intimated strongly today that he may forsake baseball for the motion pictures.

Dons Class Trackfest To Be Held Feb. 9

Freshmen and sophomores of Santa Ana junior college will engage in their annual interclass track meet at Poly field one week from today, prior to merging strength for three major events leading up to their Eastern conference schedule in March.

Nine new prospects have checked out equipment to increase Coach Reese Greene's roster to 31. These Dons are busily engaged in preparing not only for the interclass affair February 9, but for the tenth annual Orange Show relays at San Bernardino February 17, the Southern Conference Relays at Riverside February 24, and the Long Beach Relays March 3.

New members of the Don squad are Ray Allen, Ernest Butterworth, Al Clark, Dorsey Clayton, Jack Scheel, Kenneth Dills, Vincent Geren, John Griset and Ray Sides.

CANN OF N. Y. U. JOINS COMPANY OF EX-COACHES

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—New York university, the "lily white" football school, today announced the resignation of Howard Cann, head grid coach for two years.

Cann's withdrawal was interpreted in many quarters as not only emphasizing the increasing "morality rate" among the nations' coaches, but possibly serving as a stimulant to high pressure football.

Cann is the famous N. Y. U. athlete, who like a modern Sir Gallahad was sent onto the N. Y. U. gridiron to keep it pure and to carry out the sweeping reforms announced Dec. 14, 1931, when the university broke away from the successful but theatrical football policies of "Chick" Meehan. Meehan had been there seven years.

The conversion of N. Y. U. to the straight and narrow football path commanded national attention. Spring and autumn practice periods were shortened drastically, and organized recruiting and subsidizing were eliminated. Those were the reform highlights.

And today Cann, like so many other coaches this season, has resigned. The announcement by the N. F. U. board of athletic control was graciously worded. It expressed "deep regret" and pointed out that Cann would continue as basketball coach and director of physical training. But the fact remains that the Violet eleven in 1933 won only two games on its seven-game schedule. It tied one.

More than 20 coaches, chiefly in the East and South, have resigned since the close of the 1933 season. Most of them withdrew under pressure, although a few quit to take better jobs.

The increase in the "morality rate" so alarmed officials of the American Coaches' association at its December meeting in Chicago that a committee was decided on to investigate charges of unfair dismissal. It was increasingly apparent that many universities expected their coaches to turn out winning teams, although theri hands were tied by reform regulations.

No successor to Cann has been appointed.

REVEAL LIST OF COACHES RESIGNED SINCE '33

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Here are some of the head football coaches who resigned since the close of the 1933 season. A few quit to take better jobs, but most withdrew under pressure.

Heartly ("Hunk") Anderson, Notre Dame; Sam Willaman, Ohio State; Reggie Root, Yale; Jackson Cannell, Dartmouth; "Chuck" Collins, North Carolina; John Smith, North Carolina State; Austin Tate, Lehigh; James A. (Swede) Oberlander, Wesleyan; Dr. John M. Harmon, Boston U.; Harry Gamage, Kentucky; Clyde Littlefield, Texas; Howard Cann, N. F. U.

Matty Bell, Texas A. & M., Carl Snavely, Bucknell; Harry Robertson, Oglethorpe; John H. Burke, Vermont; Jack Meagher, Rice; Chet Wynne, Auburn; Tom Keady, Western Reserve; Elmer Layden, Duquesne; Elmer Lampe, Carleton college; Charley Riley, New Mexico.

Dr. Harold Parker of the College of the City of New York is expected to be succeeded shortly.

Gunther Back In Dons' Lineup For Fullerton Game

After several days absence due to scholastic difficulties, Walt Gunther, hero of three Don football games last fall, has returned to Santa Ana junior college's basketball squad.

Gunther may not be eligible for the Riverside game at Riverside tomorrow night, but should have his eligibility straightened out in time for the Fullerton contest next week, according to Coach Bill Cook.

CHAMPS GATHER IN CHICAGO

The citizen who used to dote on mah jongg, delight in doubling the opposition at five no trump, vulnerable, and pass in pinochle with 100 acres in his hand, now spends his time looking for a little white celluloid ball under the basement stairs or washing machine.

In other words, the great indoor sport of the nation now is table tennis.

Wherever you go you hear discussions concerning the merit of the penholder grip, finger-spin serve and the superiority of pebbled rubber paddles over the sandpaper style. And everywhere the populace, both rich and poor, is pasting that pellet across a net and shouting, "Change service."

The history of pee-wee tennis isn't lost in antiquity—but it's lost, just the same. Historians go back to about 1889, when one James Gibb, an Englishman, found he could have a lot of fun with a ball and a paddle in a game he named "gossima." After that people in England, France, Hungary and America discovered the fun, and when they all joined, it became known by various names, the latest and best fitted being table tennis.

Introduction of the celluloid ball was made in 1900, and from then on table tennis caught on. Today there are more than 2,000,000 devotees in the United States, organized and governed by an association that makes rules and conducts national and sectional tournaments.

More than 400 players from all parts of the country recently took part in a New York tournament, and at present players are on a tour through the Middle West. The tour will wind up in a national extravaganza at Chicago tomorrow.

Heading the parade are Jimmy Jacobson of New York, men's champion, and Jessie Purves of Des Plaines, Ill., women's champion. They will defend their titles against players from every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

As popular as it is in America, this indoor sport is more widespread in Hungary, considered the hot-bed of the game. There the kiddies cut their eye teeth on the spheroid, play right on through school, and may soon be given a diploma in the noble sport on graduation from college. Some of the greatest players in the world, notably G. Barna, come from that country.

Japan, too, must play its table tennis, and 200,000 of the little men and women are said to be up in paddles, whaling the ball across the net. England has succumbed to the game, there being more than 600 clubs in that country. Fred Perry, England's No. 1 ranking tennis player and winner of the U. S. National singles title in 1933, is an expert at the miniature game.

Up until a couple of years ago the game was looked upon as a "sissy's" sport. It was shunned by the manly devotees of golf, football and baseball because it was considered unworthy of the brawn and brain of a big he-man. But times have changed. Table tennis as it is played today, with cut-shots, accurate playing of the corners and twisting serves is a real test of a player's nerves, eye and footwork.

It is faster than tennis, because it is confined to a much smaller court—nine by five feet—and an expert can make a ball do tricks that make you think your eyes are deceiving you.

The game has progressed to a point where there is even competition similar to the Davis Cup contests in tennis. In 1932, ten nations competed for the Swathling Cup, which is similar to the tennis trophy.

WOMEN GOLFERS OF 3 CLUBS PLAY HERE

An "open day" for members of the Women's South Coast Public Links association will be held next Tuesday at the Willowick Golf club, with players from the Long Beach and Huntington Beach municipal clubs competing with the Santa Anans in a medal sweepstakes event.

No greens fee but a small entry fee for the tournament will be charged.

A ringer tournament has been started at Willowick, to be run until April 26. This competition may be played as often as the player wishes, her score being improved anytime a hole is bettered.

Maxine Smith and Edith Reyer tied with net 36's in Willowick's nine-hole play Wednesday, Mrs. Reyer winning the draw. The surprise score for blind hole was won by Clara Hooven.

Mrs. Robinson, Mrs. McFadden Win Best Ball

Mrs. L. H. Robinson and Mrs. J. L. McFadden scored an 81-5-76 for first place in Class A best-ball sweepstakes at the Santa Ana Country club Thursday. Mrs. L. J. Bushard and Miss Lolita Mead were second with 86-9-77.

U. S., Canada To Open Cup Tennis Play

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The United States Davis Cup team will meet Canada in the opening round of the North American zone this year, it was determined in the draw conducted today.

Mexico, the third nation challenging in the North American zone, drew a bye and will play the winner of the United States-Canada tie.

The European zone was drawn as follows: Byes—Czechoslovakia, New Zealand and Italy; first round—Switzerland vs. India, France vs. Austria; byes—Germany, Australia and Japan.

Peru and Brazil were the only nations listed for the South American zone. The winner will play the North American zone victor. That survivor meets the European zone champion to determine the challenger for the trophy now held by England.

TILDEN, VINES TO BE HELD ON BENCH WARRANT

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(UP)—William T. Tilden II and Ellsworth Vines, famous tennis stars, faced arrest today because of their failure to answer a court summons.

Superior Judge Frank Collier said he would issue bench warrants immediately for the arrest of the pair, now en route to Kansas City on their barnstorming tennis tour.

Tilden and Vines and William O'Brien, manager of the tennis tour, had been summoned to court in connection with a scheduled examination of Vines' financial condition.

Vines assertedly had failed to meet a $3500 judgment returned against him, his brother, George Vines, and his mother, Mrs. Caroline L. Vines, for injuries suffered by John Frank Albright in an automobile accident 18 months ago.

Attorney Wesley Nutten, representing Vines, presented an affidavit in which the court was informed that O'Brien, Tilden and Vines had departed for Kansas City last night, and that Vines would return here early in April.

O'Brien in the affidavit said that irreparable injury would have been done had Vines been forced to remain in Los Angeles and cancel part of his tennis tour.

Judge Collier said he would sign the warrants as soon as Attorney Tom L. Glen jr., representing Albright, presented the necessary affidavit.

CANZONERI FAVORED OVER ITALIAN STAR

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Tony Canzoneri, former lightweight champion, is a 9 to 5 favorite to beat Cleto Locatelli of Italy, champion of Europe, in their proposed return 12-round bout at Madison Square Garden tonight.

Canzoneri won a close 10-round decision over Locatelli at the Garden last month in the Italian's American debut. Since then Locatelli won an easy 10-round decision over Jackie ("Kid") Berg of England, and has become acclimated.

The winner will challenge Barney Ross for the lightweight crown.

Tonight's Games

Santa Ana at Long Beach; Alhambra at Glendale; Pasadena at San Diego.

With the outcome of both series having a direct bearing on the Coast Preparatory league championship, Santa Ana Hi plays Long Beach at Long Beach and Alhambra goes to Glendale for basketball games at 8 o'clock tonight. Pasadena and San Diego, cellar quintets, play at San Diego.

Long Beach comes here tomorrow evening for a contest that winds up the Saint casaba season.

Although Glendale, undefeated, and Long Beach, with only one setback, are the leading contenders, Alhambra has a remote chance for the title, all depending on the outcome of games tonight and tomorrow. Defeated three times, the Moors will drop from the race if they lose again, but a clean sweep of the Glendale series would give Alhambra a possible tie.

In all probability the championship will not be determined until Glendale and Long Beach meet in their doubleheader Feb. 9-10. Slated for Jan. 5-6, the games were postponed on account of flood conditions in the Glendale-Montrose area.

With six lettermen from the '33 team that won for Long Beach the Coast league title for the second time, Charley Church's Jackrabbits hold impressive non-conference victories over Hoover Hi of Glendale, defending Southland champions; Pasadena Muir Tech, the team that defeated Santa Ana in the finals of the Huntington Beach invitational tourney; and Los Angeles, powerful City league team. Their only upset came at Alhambra, 12-15, but the Jackrabbits swamped the Moors, 27-10, in the return engagement on their own floor.

Saints Out of Race

Coach Reese Greene's Saints, definitely out of the race with five defeats, shoved vast improvement in the second Alhambra game last week and may surprise the beach quintet. In league competition Santa Ana has earned 171 points to the opposition's 198. Long Beach scored 150 points, its opponents 101. Comparative records:

The Saint-Jackrabbit fray pairs two of the smoothest centers in the league—Fred Wiemer of Santa Ana, Joe Lunn of Long Beach. Both tower above six feet. Wiemer is playing his final year on the Saint varsity. Lunn, 180-pounder who stands 6:3, is in his second season for the Hares.

Class B teams meet in the customary curtain-raiser at 7 o'clock. Provided they win both at Long Beach tonight and here tomorrow, Clyde Cook's Santa Ana lightweights will finish their league season with a .500 percentage.

Kenneth Nisley, forward who has been bothered with an infected leg, probably will return to Santa Ana's regular combination

Smiles in SPORTS

The late Kid Gleason, in addition to being known for his iron hand, was one of the funniest guys in baseball.

The Giants were playing at the Polo Grounds one day, and the Kid was in his regular spot at second. Old Bob Emslie was umpiring bases.

The batter punched a terrific liner in the Kid's direction but too far away to get. It did, however, come close to Emslie, who ducked—but not soon enough.

The ball bounced off Bob's head, took a high jump over to Gleason, who caught it and yelled:

"What an assist, Bob, what an assist! Between you and me, we certainly can play that second sack."

ANOTHER MATTY?

Baseball history, slow, but sure, someday may relate that back in '29 Fullerton had the finest high school team of all time . . . Floyd Vaughan of the Pittsburgh Pirates, already No. 2 shortstop of his league, was a member. So was Willard Hershberger, recently "farmed" to Hollywood by the New York Yankees, still to establish greatness but a sterling catcher in the raw. And so was "Big Bill" Peterson, a pitcher, unheralded and unsung, who ultimately may be better than either of them.

Up at Berkeley, where Peterson is first string pitcher for the University of California, they think Bill has everything.

"The debut of Clint Evans' team Saturday will reveal a 1934 edition of Christy Mathewson when Bill Peterson takes the mound," writes Phil Ray in an Oakland paper. "Those who have watched the Bears, including 'Red' Dress, Taylor Douthit and other major leaguers, claim Peterson is the image of the immortal Giant hurler, and that his pitching shows every indication of winning him fame in professional ball after graduation. His comeback this year will be a complete success, for Peterson has speed, control, curves and the proper temperament to become a great pitcher."

Peterson was out of the game all last year with a broken right wrist, sustained while cranking his flivver.

DOTS SO

Between courses:

Ben Slavin, who migrated to Tucson to play football for "Tex" Oliver at Arizona U., is backtracking to Santa Ana jaysee next week. Signals were mixed somewhere. . . . As related in this corner weeks ago, Paul Jacques is not going back to jump for Cal. His eyes are giving him trouble, though not enough to keep him from playing basketball for a city league team. Jacques tied for first place against Stanford last year, and tied for second in the Californian meet. . . . and although he reserves the right to change his mind at the last minute, Les Hall has practically decided to pass up his last year of track at U. S. C. Ball is a pharmacist for a local drug concern. He hates to miss the competition but also hesitates to give up a good job. Ball tied for second in the IC4A "hundred" in '33. . . . There's something about the climate—or the coaching—that helps Stanford eight slingers. "Rusty" Ledbetter, the big Brea football player, is out for the freshman track team. He couldn't shove a 12-pound shot better than 47 feet in high school, but already has bettered 44 feet with the 16-pound slug up north. . . . Canto Robleto, little fighter who used to be a crowd-pleaser at Delhi, has gone kind. . . . Chet Smith, the pitcher, and his twin brother, "Swede," the shortstop, who led San Diego Hi to two Southern California prep baseball titles in succession, only to lose the second when he was caught playing semi-pro ball under another name, have signed with Los Angeles. Since the HS prep season, Chet has become a shortstop and "Swede" a pitcher, and they'll go up to the Angels that way.

COACHES ON THE MAKE

The great "bull" market is starting on the interscholastic athletic exchange.

"Stub" Allison and Frank Wickhorst, assistant football coaches at California, were here Wednesday, lunching with Santa Ana's prep celebrities and some of California's prominent alumni, including Bart Hoch, captain of the Saints' famed 1921 team which produced Don Williams, Jeff Cravath and others . . . Southern California will be applying the pressure right along, and "Tiny" Thornhill's aides will be along soon to look after Stanford interests. . . . "Tex" Oliver of Arizona protects himself in the clinches right well, and 'tis said that even the good A. A. Stagg of Pacific has his eye on one or two of the boys. . . . One of the most sought "catches" of the group is Ray Brown, all-Southern California tackle from Anaheim Hi.

SUCCESS IN VICTORY

According to unofficial reports, the University of New Mexico may come into the Coast Preparatory league for its next football coach—Harold (Hobbs) Adams of San Diego Hi.

Off-hand, there seems nothing exemplary in Adams' five-year record at San Diego. His teams lost a couple of important games they should have won, and the 1933 edition did a sour job of representing the conference in the Southern Cal. playoff with Inglewood.

Yet the records speak well for Coach Adams, and it's hard to dodge figures. The only Coast

league coach with a better record is Santa Ana's Oliver, since graduated to Arizona, where his teams will meet Adams' again, if Adams "goes up."

Another candidate for the New Mexico job is Harry Shipkey, now at Salinas, an all-time tackle for Fullerton Hi. Shipkey's Salinas teams haven't lost a game in three years.

Coaching records since '29, the year Adams entered the conference:

	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Oliver (Santa Ana)	18	3	2	.857
Adams (San Diego)	18	6	3	.750
Landreth (Long Beach)	15	7	5	.682
Hobbs (Alhambra)	15	11	7	.577
Thurman (Pasadena)	8	16	4	.333
Wolfe-Gaines (Glendale)	3	24	1	.111

During that same period (1929-34) Brea-Olinda's "Shorty" Smith established the best football record in the Orange league, while Tustin's Bill Cole and Orange's "Hod" Chambers shared laurels in basketball.

Smith's team won 21, lost 7. Stewart White of Orange had 19 victories, 9 defeats. The Harry Sheue-Leon Miner regime at Huntington Beach finished third with 15 and 12.

Tustin, under Cole, and Orange, under Chambers, won 23 basketball games and lost 6 up to but not including the current season. Otis Hornaday of Brea-Olinda is third with 17 and 12.

SAINTS IN FINAL HOOP SERIES

ANAHEIM MAKES BID FOR TITLE AT CAPISTRANO

One of the crucial games of the Orange County league's 1934 basketball season arrives tonight when Anaheim lays its cards on the table at San Juan Capistrano.

This will be no idle gesture on Anaheim's part. The Colonists' hopes for the championship are strictly at stake. An Anaheim victory practically means first place; elimination follows defeat.

Other games tonight, none of them outstanding: Newport Harbor at Tustin; Huntington Beach at Orange; Garden Grove at Brea-Olinda. Tustin, Orange and Brea are heavily favored.

Strengthened by the return of Forward Ted Neja, who was not in the lineup when Anaheim lost its only game of the season to Brea, the Colonists are conceded an outside chance of heading off the undefeated Cougars.

Schedule Favors Anaheim

In the event of a victory, Anaheim would have a better chance for the championship than either Tustin or Capistrano, teams with which it would be tied. Anaheim easily defeated Tustin early in the season, and by beating Capistrano could insure itself of first place by winning subsequent starts against Garden Grove and Orange. Tustin still would have to play Capistrano and Garden Grove. Capistrano would oppose Tustin and Huntington Beach.

Comparative scores and the advantage of playing at home make San Juan Capistrano the favorite, however. Coach Stan Gould's men beat Brea, 22-14, and Brea defeated Anaheim, 26-23. Their scores with Newport Harbor were almost identical, Capistrano's margin being 26-7, Anaheim's 28-8.

Nearing the end of the conference race, Tustin will meet Coach Lee Trine's Newport Harbor Sailors in the Tustin gym at 8 o'clock. Tustin needs a win to stay in the pennant race, and having defeated the Sailors twice—once in practice and once in the Huntington Beach invitational tournament — should have little trouble downing their opponents. Remembering the upset Newport handed them in football, the Farmers will take no chances with the Sailors, however.

Spangler Returns to Lineup

After spending a week on the bench with an injured back, Howard Spangler will be back at center, Seacord and Francis handling the forward positions. On the bench due to exposure to the mumps, Ellsworth Teter, regular guard, will be replaced by Bob Forbes. "Chuck" Forbes starts at the other back position.

The Sailors will have Keithley, Stafford and Hadley, forwards; Greschner, center, Irwin and Johnston, guards.

In practice Wednesday, Tustin defeated the Huntington Beach Vandals, a team of Huntington Beach Hi alumni, 43-37. The Farmers used their regulars while the Vandals employed Lake and Klatz, forwards; Oliver, center; Jenkins and Van Horwitz, guards. Seacord and Lake were high with 16 and 10 points, respectively.

The standings:

CANN OF N. Y. U. JOINS COMPANY OF EX-COACHES

By JACK CUDDY

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—New York university, the "lily white" football school, today announced the resignation of Howard Cann, head grid coach for two years.

Cann's withdrawal was interpreted in many quarters as not only emphasizing the increasing "morality rate" among the nations' coaches, but possibly serving as a stimulant to high pressure football.

Cann is the famous N. Y. U. athlete, who like a modern Sir Gallahad was sent onto the N. Y. U. gridiron to keep it pure and to carry out the sweeping reforms announced Dec. 14, 1931, when the university broke away from the successful but theatrical football policies of "Chick" Meehan. Meehan had been there seven years.

The conversion of N. Y. U. to the straight and narrow football path commanded national attention. Spring and autumn practice periods were shortened drastically, and organized recruiting and subsidizing were eliminated. Those were the reform highlights.

And today Cann, like so many other coaches this season, has resigned. The announcement by the N. F. U. board of athletic control was graciously worded. It expressed "deep regret" and pointed out that Cann would continue as basketball coach and director of physical training. But the fact remains that the Violet eleven in 1933 won only two games on its seven-game schedule. It tied one.

More than 20 coaches, chiefly in the East and South, have resigned since the close of the 1933 season. Most of them withdrew under pressure, although a few quit to take better jobs.

The increase in the "morality rate" so alarmed officials of the American Coaches' association at its December meeting in Chicago that a committee was decided on to investigate charges of unfair dismissal. It was increasingly apparent that many universities expected their coaches to turn out winning teams, although theri hands were tied by reform regulations.

No successor to Cann has been appointed.

REVEAL LIST OF COACHES RESIGNED SINCE '33

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Here are some of the head football coaches who resigned since the close of the 1933 season. A few quit to take better jobs, but most withdrew under pressure.

Heartly ("Hunk") Anderson, Notre Dame; Sam Willaman, Ohio State; Reggie Root, Yale; Jackson Cannell, Dartmouth; "Chuck" Collins, North Carolina; John Smith, North Carolina State; Austin Tate, Lehigh; James A. (Swede) Oberlander, Wesleyan; Dr. John M. Harmon, Boston U.; Harry Gamage, Kentucky; Clyde Littlefield, Texas; Howard Cann, N. F. U.

Matty Bell, Texas A. & M., Carl Snavely, Bucknell; Harry Robertson, Oglethorpe; John H. Burke, Vermont; Jack Meagher, Rice; Chet Wynne, Auburn; Tom Keady, Western Reserve; Elmer Layden, Duquesne; Elmer Lampe, Carleton college; Charley Riley, New Mexico.

Dr. Harold Parker of the College of the City of New York is expected to be succeeded shortly.

CHAMPS GATHER IN CHICAGO

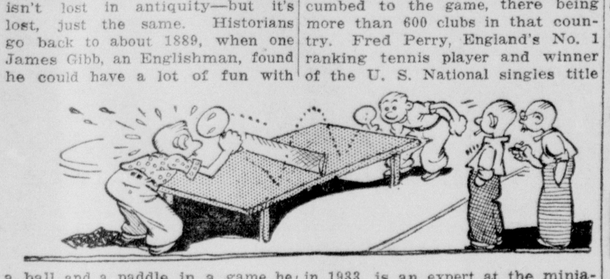

The citizen who used to dote on mah jongg, delight in doubling the opposition at five no trump, vulnerable, and pass in pinochle with 100 acres in his hand, now spends his time looking for a little white celluloid ball under the basement stairs or washing machine.

In other words, the great indoor sport of the nation now is table tennis.

Wherever you go you hear discussions concerning the merit of the penholder grip, finger-spin serve and the superiority of pebbled rubber paddles over the sandpaper style. And everywhere the populace, both rich and poor, is pasting that pellet across a net and shouting, "Change service."

The history of pee-wee tennis isn't lost in antiquity—but it's lost, just the same. Historians go back to about 1889, when one James Gibb, an Englishman, found he could have a lot of fun with a ball and a paddle in a game he named "gossima." After that people in England, France, Hungary and America discovered the fun, and when they all joined, it became known by various names, the latest and best fitted being table tennis.

Introduction of the celluloid ball was made in 1900, and from then on table tennis caught on. Today there are more than 2,000,000 devotees in the United States, organized and governed by an association that makes rules and conducts national and sectional tournaments.

More than 400 players from all parts of the country recently took part in a New York tournament, and at present players are on a tour through the Middle West. The tour will wind up in a national extravaganza at Chicago tomorrow.

Heading the parade are Jimmy Jacobson of New York, men's champion, and Jessie Purves of Des Plaines, Ill., women's champion. They will defend their titles against players from every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

As popular as it is in America, this indoor sport is more widespread in Hungary, considered the hot-bed of the game. There the kiddies cut their eye teeth on the spheroid, play right on through school, and may soon be given a diploma in the noble sport on graduation from college. Some of the greatest players in the world, notably G. Barna, come from that country.

Japan, too, must play its table tennis, and 200,000 of the little men and women are said to be up in paddles, whaling the ball across the net. England has succumbed to the game, there being more than 600 clubs in that country. Fred Perry, England's No. 1 ranking tennis player and winner of the U. S. National singles title in 1933, is an expert at the miniature game.

Up until a couple of years ago the game was looked upon as a "sissy's" sport. It was shunned by the manly devotees of golf, football and baseball because it was considered unworthy of the brawn and brain of a big he-man. But times have changed. Table tennis as it is played today, with cut-shots, accurate playing of the corners and twisting serves is a real test of a player's nerves, eye and footwork.

It is faster than tennis, because it is confined to a much smaller court—nine by five feet—and an expert can make a ball do tricks that make you think your eyes are deceiving you.

The game has progressed to a point where there is even competition similar to the Davis Cup contests in tennis. In 1932, ten nations competed for the Swathling Cup, which is similar to the tennis trophy.

U. S., Canada To Open Cup Tennis Play

LONDON, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The United States Davis Cup team will meet Canada in the opening round of the North American zone this year, it was determined in the draw conducted today.

The European zone was drawn as follows: Byes—Czechoslovakia, New Zealand and Italy; first round—Switzerland vs. India, France vs. Austria; byes—Germany, Australia and Japan.

Peru and Brazil were the only nations listed for the South American zone. The winner will play the North American zone victor. That survivor meets the European zone champion to determine the challenger for the trophy now held by England.

Saints Out of Race

Coach Reese Greene's Saints, definitely out of the race with five defeats, showed vast improvement in the second Alhambra game last week and may surprise the beach quintet. In league competition Santa Ana has earned 171 points to the opposition's 198. Long Beach scored 150 points, its opponents 101. Comparative records:

The Saint-Jackrabbit fray pairs two of the smoothest centers in the league—Fred Wiemer of Santa Ana, Joe Lunn of Long Beach. Both tower above six feet. Wiemer is playing his final year on the Saint varsity. Lunn, 180-pounder who stands 6:3, is in his second season for the Hares.

Class B teams meet in the customary curtain-raiser at 7 o'clock. Provided they win both at Long Beach tonight and here tomorrow, Clyde Cook's Santa Ana lightweights will finish their league season with a .500 percentage.

Kenneth Nisley, forward who has been bothered with an infected leg, probably will return to Santa Ana's regular combination

16,000 EXPECTED TO SEE MILLROSE MEET

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(UP)—A capacity house of more than 16,000 spectators is assured for tomorrow night's Millrose Games at Madison Square Garden.

The rush for tickets was caused by the quality of competing fields. Every National A. A. U. outdoor track champion on the flat from 100 to 10,000 meters, as well as assorted hurdles, steplechase, vaulting and jumping champions and most of the indoor title holders will compete.

Two of the feature events will be the Wanamaker mile race and the high-jumping. Glenn Cunningham, the Kansas flyer, was expected to arrive today to renew his track feud with Gene Venzke of Pennsylvania in the mile.

In the high jump, Walter Marty of Fresno State college, Cal., holder of the outdoor record of 6 feet 8 5-8 inches, clashes with George Spitz of New York university, who set the indoor mark of 6 feet 8 1-2 inches.

Herrman Talks Of Quitting Diamond

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 2. —(UP)—LeRoy Herrmann, right-handed pitcher acquired by the San Francisco Seals from the Chicago Cubs, intimated strongly today that he may forsake baseball for the motion pictures.

Gunther Back In Dons' Lineup For Fullerton Game

After several days absence due to scholastic difficulties, Walt Gunther, hero of three Don football games last fall, has returned to Santa Ana junior college's basketball squad.

Gunther may not be eligible for the Riverside game at Riverside tomorrow night, but should have his eligibility straightened out in time for the Fullerton contest next week, according to Coach Bill Cook.

CHICAGO BEARS TO PLAY IN S. F. AGAIN

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(UP)—The Chicago Bears, National professional football champions, will play another game in San Francisco before disbanding for the season, George Helas, coach and owner, announced today.

The Bears face an all-star squad in Kezar stadium Sunday, Feb. 11, Halas said. The all-star squad will be made up mostly of former Bay City players who have not yet competed against the Bears.

The Bears left for San Diego today, where they will play Ernie Pinckert's all-stars Sunday.

Bowman, Olympic Athlete, Divorced

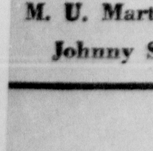

PORT ARTHUR, Tex., Feb. 2.—(UP)—Martha Ferguson Bowman today obtained a divorce from Sidney Bowman, Olympic jumper.

"He was a marvel as a broad jumper but a fizzle as a husband," Mrs. Bowman said in court.

Custody of a son, four months old, was awarded the mother.

The Bowmans were married in 1932 just before the Olympic games in Los Angeles, where Bowman finished seventh in the hop, step and jump.

Smiles in SPORTS

The late Kid Gleason, in addition to being known for his iron hand, was one of the funniest guys in baseball.

The Giants were playing at the Polo Grounds one day, and the Kid was in his regular spot at second. Old Bob Emslie was umpiring bases.

The batter punched a terrific liner in the Kid's direction but too far away to get. It did, however, come close to Emslie, who ducked—but not soon enough.

The ball bounced off Bob's head, took a high jump over to Gleason, who caught it and yelled:

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

"Your bellows," Duncy cried, "works neat. It blew me right off my feet. My clothes are dry, however, so I do not mind at all.

"Of course I didn't realize that you would catch me by surprise by blowing that thing very hard. That's why I took a fall."

"Gee," Dotty said, "I'm also dry. And now I think we ought to try and find what's on this island. Let's explore around a bit."

"Hey, wait! Don't be in such a rush! I'll cook you all some nice, hot mush," exclaimed their new-found friend. "Then you will all be feeling fit."

"Hurray for you! I'll eat my share," cried Scouty. "If you'll show me where the mush is, I will help you cook. I'm pretty good at that."

"Ha ha," laughed Goldy, "I'm afraid that, if by you the mush is made, we will not want so very much. 'Twill likely taste quite flat."

But little Scouty went ahead and did the cooking. Dotty said, "Well, Goldy dear, your guess was wrong. This much is simply grand.

"Let's wash the dishes right away. Then we can run right out to play. It will not take us long, if everybody lends a hand."

The old man said, "That's fine of you, and do you know what I will do? I'll take a little nap before the fire. I'm all tired out."

Soon Windy whispered, "Do not peep! Our gind old friend is sound asleep. hWen he wakes up he'll take us 'round this isle of his, no doubt."

Just then they heard a real strange sound, and Coppy, as he glanced around, said, "Look what's in the window. It's so funny, I could howl."

Then Dotty saw the strange sight, too. She promptly said, "Well, who are you-" She answer came in real deep voice, "Why, I'm the wise ol' owl!"

LECTURE SERIES BY DR. FENTON DISCONTINUED

Announcement was made today by Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education in the Santa Ana schools that the series of lectures being presented in the Frances Willard Junior High school by Dr. Norman C. Fenton has been cancelled. These lectures in the past have been presented the first Tuesdays of each month. The cancellation, Mrs. Weston said is due to conflicts in connection with his state-wide program in juvenile research.

The evening high school, Mrs. Weston said today is offering two classes in Spanish for the second semester. Both these classes are under direction of Miss Ruby Wright. The first year class meets in Room 105 at Willard Junior High school from 7 to 9 Monday evenings. This class is open to anyone who has had at least a semester of Spanish. The intermediate and advanced classes combined meet in the same room Thursday nights.

Beginners and advanced students in showcard writing have been combined for greater convenience and both classes will now meet Thursday nights in Room 116 at Willard Junior High school. The beginners formerly met Tuesday nights.

MILLS ENDORSES PLATFORM OF UPTON SINCLAIR; HOLDS BELIEF THAT IT WILL WORK

Endorsing the platform of Upton Sinclair for governor, especially in regard to relief for veterans, care for neglected children, work for the unemployed and pensions for people over 60 years of age, and declaring he believed it would prove workable, Walter Thomas Mills spoke last night at the People's Forum in the Temple theater.

Mills brought out that a militant one-tenth of the voters can prove to be the deciding factor in the coming election. He declared that the staunch Republicans and Democrats will offset the votes of each other and that a strong minority for Sinclair would put him on the ballot.

The history of the primary election, recall, initiative and referendum was traced by the speaker in his talk. The emancipation of the voter under the primary system and the abolishing of the vicious political rings in past generations were brought out.

"The governor holds the chief office of the state and has a position of influence and power. I believe that the program and suggestions of Upton Sinclair will end poverty in this state and clear-thinking citizens will hold the same view," Mills said.

"Upton Sinclair is more widely read in this country than any other living or dead American author," the lecturer said. "He has built up his reputation and is now entering public service. His constructive platform will end poverty and radically change conditions in this state if he is elected by the voters. Millions of people are oppressed by burdensome taxes and will be relieved from debts under the Sinclair regime."

Mills urged his listeners to break away from the partisan attitude on political parties. He brought out that party lines should be broken to vote for the right type of men and showed this trend in the last two presidential elections. He said that it was the forward-looking and progressive voter who controlled elections, not the lackadaisical voters of a certain party who votes solely as his father and grandfather did before him.

CURVE TO BE KILLED

Children's Shoe Style Show To Be Given Tomorrow

Children will have their own Shoe Style Show Saturday afternoon at Peterson's Shoe Store, between 2 and 4 o'clock, when little Beverly and Mary Jean Hendrickson will show off the new styles. They are the daughters of Clarence Hendrickson, the store's specialist in fitting children's shoes, who says that the show is as much for parents' benefit as for the children.

"I will show and explain how I have taken care of the shoe needs of my own little girls," said Hendrickson. "I haven't much money to spend on shoes; I must make the shoes last a long time; and I am responsible for the condition my daughter's feet will be in when they grow up. My problem is the same as any parent's. Saturday afternoon I will show how to solve these problems."

Hendrickson has been with Peterson's for 11 years, is said to be popular with his trade, and has made a scientific study of fitting shoes.

LECTURE SERIES BY DR. FENTON DISCONTINUED

Announcement was made today by Mrs. Golden Weston, director of adult education in the Santa Ana schools that the series of lectures being presented in the Frances Willard Junior High school by Dr. Norman C. Fenton has been cancelled. These lectures in the past have been presented the first Tuesdays of each month. The cancellation, Mrs. Weston said is due to conflicts in connection with his state-wide program in juvenile research.

The evening high school, Mrs. Weston said today is offering two classes in Spanish for the second semester. Both these classes are under direction of Miss Ruby Wright. The first year class meets in Room 105 at Willard Junior High school from 7 to 9 Monday evenings. This class is open to anyone who has had at least a semester of Spanish. The intermediate and advanced classes combined meet in the same room Thursday nights.

Beginners and advanced students in showcard writing have been combined for greater convenience and both classes will now meet Thursday nights in Room 116 at Willard Junior High school. The beginners formerly met Tuesday nights.

MILLS ENDORSES PLATFORM OF UPTON SINCLAIR; HOLDS BELIEF THAT IT WILL WORK

Endorsing the platform of Upton Sinclair for governor, especially in regard to relief for veterans, care for neglected children, work for the unemployed and pensions for people over 60 years of age, and declaring he believed it would prove workable, Walter Thomas Mills spoke last night at the People's Forum in the Temple theater.

Mills brought out that a militant one-tenth of the voters can prove to be the deciding factor in the coming election. He declared that the staunch Republicans and Democrats will offset the votes of each other and that a strong minority for Sinclair would put him on the ballot.

The history of the primary election, recall, initiative and referendum was traced by the speaker in his talk. The emancipation of the voter under the primary system and the abolishing of the vicious political rings in past generations were brought out.

"The governor holds the chief office of the state and has a position of influence and power. I believe that the program and suggestions of Upton Sinclair will end poverty in this state and clear-thinking citizens will hold the same view," Mills said.

"Upton Sinclair is more widely read in this country than any other living or dead' American author," the lecturer said. "He has built up his reputation and is now entering public service. His constructive platform will end poverty and radically change conditions in this state if he is elected by the voters. Millions of people are oppressed by burdensome taxes and will be relieved from debts under the Sinclair regime."

Mills urged his listeners to break away from the partisan attitude on political parties. He brought out that party lines should be broken to vote for the right type of men and showed this trend in the last two presidential elections. He said that it was the forward-looking and progressive voter who controlled elections, not the lackadaisical voters of a certain party who votes solely as his father and grandfather did before him.

Children's Shoe Style Show To Be Given Tomorrow

Children will have their own Shoe Style Show Saturday afternoon at Peterson's Shoe Store, between 2 and 4 o'clock, when little Beverly and Mary Jean Hendrickson will show off the new styles. They are the daughters of Clarence Hendrickson, the store's specialist in fitting children's shoes, who says that the show is as much for parents' benefit as for the children.

"I will show and explain how I have taken care of the shoe needs of my own little girls," said Hendrickson. "I haven't much money to spend on shoes; I must make the shoes last a long time; and I am responsible for the condition my daughter's feet will be in when they grow up. My problem is the same as any parent's. Saturday afternoon I will show how to solve these problems."

Hendrickson has been with Peterson's for 11 years, is said to be popular with his trade, and has made a scientific study of fitting shoes.

Celebration Held At First Valencia Orange Grove

MANY ATTEND DEDICATION AT PLACENTIA

A slim stone monument stood unveiled today on the Gilman ranch on Placentia avenue near Chapman avenue, offering a mute but enduring tribute to the vision and courage of R. H. Gilman, Orange county pioneer, who, with a few slips of a practically unknown variety of orange tree, started the original commercial valencia grove in California in 1880.

Woven around the romantic history of the young man who 61 years ago drove a travelstained covered wagon into Orange county, dedication ceremonies were conducted yesterday afternoon by Grace Chapter No. 242, Native Daughters of the Golden West, honoring Gilman, who, 88 years old, has lived to see his original plantings spread over the state until there are nearly 11,000,000 valencia orange trees in California.

Several hundred persons, besides a large group of Placentia school children, witnessed the dedication ceremonies. Mr. Gilman greeted his old friends with smiles and hearty handshakes.

Still Producing

Rich green foliage of the large orange trees laden with golden fruit offered a striking contrast with a background of blue-domed sky and snow-clad mountains as the crowd heard several speakers extole the courage of Gilman in planting the orchard and watched the unveiling of the monument to his vision. One of the original trees, still producing good fruit, is now five feet in circumference.

Mrs. Nellie Cline, chairman of the landmarks committee of the Native Daughters, introduced Mrs. Irma W. Laird, state president of the Native Daughters, who spoke of the pride of the organization in being able to record the achievements of the pioneer.

Mrs. Erna Watts, president of Grace chapter, in a simple ceremony, drew aside a large American flag, unveiling the stone monument, designed by Ralph Modjeska, great-grandson of Madame Helen Modjeska.

S. W. McColloch, manager of the Placentia Fruit company, originally known as the Semitropic Fruit company of Southern California, outlined in detail the history of Gilman in Orange county. He pointed out that in 1872 Gilman bought the property consisting of 110 acres, for $17.50 an acre, and began to develop it in January, 1873.

Hard Work

"Believing that the soil and climate here would make the growing of citrus fruit profitable," he said, "Mr. Gilman began to plant seedling orange trees early in the development of his property.

"He dug a well 80 feet deep and secured an abundance of water. From this well he drew water by hand and hauled it to his little trees for a time. Then he rigged up a horsepower pump and continued to haul water to these trees for seven years. By this time, through his own untiring efforts and those of his neighbors, he had succeeded in digging a ditch and bringing the water from the Santa Ana river for irrigation purposes."

McColloch told how Gilman had secured his then new orange buds from Judge A. B. Chapman, of San Gabriel, who imported them from England. Gilman planted five acres which constituted the first valencia orchard in California.

A. D. Shamel, head of the citrus plant department, United States Department of Agriculture, at Riverside, discussed history of citrus fruits in the United States.

Armstrong Speaks

Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, was the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies. He pointed out that the valencia orange production of California, amounting to 10,000 cars 20 years ago, has grown until 34,000 cars were shipped in 1933. The valencia orange now comprises 61 per cent of the California orange production and 46 per cent of total California citrus, he said.

"It has made Orange county the leading county in the United States in orange production," he declared. "California now has 107,000 acres of valencias in bearing and another 24,000 acres non-bearing, a total of 131,000 acres of which Orange county has 60,000 acres, or nearly half."

He called attention to the value of valencias in making it possible to make of the orange industry a year-around business, permitting continuous advertising and the uninterrupted use of oranges. He pointed out that 70 per cent of oranges now are consumed as juice.

The speaker recalled that the Exchange was born during the panic of 1893 and that Sunkist advertising was started during the panic of 1907 and that in spite of depressions, the citrus industry has grown to the second largest in the state, second only to the petroleum industry.

Celebration Held At First Valencia Orange Grove

MANY ATTEND DEDICATION AT PLACENTIA

A slim stone monument stood unveiled today on the Gilman ranch on Placentia avenue near Chapman avenue, offering a mute but enduring tribute to the vision and courage of R. H. Gilman, Orange county pioneer, who, with a few slips of a practically unknown variety of orange tree, started the original commercial valencia grove in California in 1880.

Woven around the romantic history of the young man who 61 years ago drove a travelstained covered wagon into Orange county, dedication ceremonies were conducted yesterday afternoon by Grace Chapter No. 242, Native Daughters of the Golden West, honoring Gilman, who, 88 years old, has lived to see his original plantings spread over the state until there are nearly 11,000,000 valencia orange trees in California.

Several hundred persons, besides a large group of Placentia school children, witnessed the dedication ceremonies. Mr. Gilman greeted his old friends with smiles and hearty handshakes.

Still Producing

Rich green foliage of the large orange trees laden with golden fruit offered a striking contrast with a background of blue-domed sky and snow-clad mountains as the crowd heard several speakers extole the courage of Gilman in planting the orchard and watched the unveiling of the monument to his vision. One of the original trees, still producing good fruit, is now five feet in circumference.

Mrs. Nellie Cline, chairman of the landmarks committee of the Native Daughters, introduced Mrs. Irma W. Laird, state president of the Native Daughters, who spoke of the pride of the organization in being able to record the achievements of the pioneer.

Mrs. Erna Watts, president of Grace chapter, in a simple ceremony, drew aside a large American flag, unveiling the stone monument, designed by Ralph Modjeska, great-grandson of Madame Helen Modjeska.

S. W. McColloch, manager of the Placentia Fruit company, originally known as the Semitropic Fruit company of Southern California, outlined in detail the history of Gilman in Orange county. He pointed out that in 1872 Gilman bought the property consisting of 110 acres, for $17.50 an acre, and began to develop it in January, 1873.

Hard Work

"Believing that the soil and climate here would make the growing of citrus fruit profitable," he said, "Mr. Gilman began to plant seedling orange trees early in the development of his property.

"He dug a well 80 feet deep and secured an abundance of water. From this well he drew water by hand and hauled it to his little trees for a time. Then he rigged up a horsepower pump and continued to haul water to these trees for seven years. By this time, through his own untiring efforts and those of his neighbors, he had succeeded in digging a ditch and bringing the water from the Santa Ana river for irrigation purposes."

McColloch told how Gilman had secured his then new orange buds from Judge A. B. Chapman, of San Gabriel, who imported them from England. Gilman planted five acres which constituted the first valencia orchard in California.

A. D. Shamel, head of the citrus plant department, United States Department of Agriculture, at Riverside, discussed history of citrus fruits in the United States.

Armstrong Speaks

Paul S. Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, was the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies. He pointed out that the valencia orange production of California, amounting to 10,000 cars 20 years ago, has grown until 34,000 cars were shipped in 1933. The valencia orange now comprises 61 per cent of the California orange production and 46 per cent of total California citrus, he said.

"It has made Orange county the leading county in the United States in orange production," he declared. "California now has 107,000 acres of valencias in bearing and another 24,000 acres non-bearing, a total of 131,000 acres of which Orange county has 60,000 acres, or nearly half."

He called attention to the value of valencias in making it possible to make of the orange industry a year-around business, permitting continuous advertising and the uninterrupted use of oranges. He pointed out that 70 per cent of oranges now are consumed as juice.

The speaker recalled that the Exchange was born during the panic of 1893 and that Sunkist advertising was started during the panic of 1907 and that in spite of depressions, the citrus industry has grown to the second largest in the state, second only to the petroleum industry.

Neighborhood Club of Long Standing Has Friendly Session

Assembling Tuesday for one of their monthly luncheons, Amistad club members, enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Frank Was, 617 Orange avenue, realized that the meeting was practically an anniversary of the founding of this friendly neighborhood seven years ago.

The luncheon hour as arranged by Mrs. Was, sounded the keynote of the day's pleasant features. For guests found that they were invited to partake of a French menu in a setting which embodied features of a little sidewalk cafe on the bank of the Seine. "Le Chat et La Reine" was the ambitious name of this cafe, and its artistic character was deftly established by the charcoal drawings which covered the walls, and the small tables with their checked covers, their guttering candles thrust into bottles, and the china and cutlery employed. Cleverly decorated menu cards were all in French.

The customary afternoon of needlework, knitting and of course, conversation, followed, with lively anticipations of the date in February when Mrs. John McAuley will welcome the same group to her home.

Amistad members enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Was were Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Charles Fuller, Mrs. Richard Cribaro, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. G. F. Munro, Mrs. Frank Lansdown, Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. Harry A. Havely, Mrs. John McAuley and Mrs. Charles E. Bressler.

Rose Motif Charmingly Applied to Shower For Bride-elect

A lovely pre-nuptial affair was that given Wednesday night in the Orange home of Mrs. F. R. Valentine when Mrs. Fred Hobbs was co-hostess with Mrs. Valentine at a kitchen shower given in honor of Miss Josephine Griffith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Griffith, West Chapman avenue. Miss Griffith is to become the bride of Vernon Valentine, son of the F. R. Valentines, on February 7.

Bridge and 500 were diversions of the evening with high score at the former made by Mrs. James Pearson and at the latter by Mrs. Donald Burnette. Gifts fo Miss Griffith were placed on a table attractively centered with a bouquet of pink and orchid sweet peas and forget-me-nots, and spread with a beautiful lace cover.

Refreshments were served at the card tables which were centered with pink candles set in rose holders. The table at which the bride-to-be was seated was centered with a pink rose in the heart of which was placed a miniature bride and groom. Tiny pink hearts fell in a shower from the petals of the rose. Nut cups were in pink and were sheltered with little pink umbrellas.

Bon Voyage Dinner is Courtesy Extended Traveler

Among several delightful parties planned as courtesies to Mrs. Loyal K. King, who is sailing tomorrow for the Good Will tour to Mexico, the latest was a bon voyage dinner tendered her last night by Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Glenn in their home, 2331 Bonnie Brae.

Mrs. Glenn's originality found full play in a decorative effect which suggested the voyage upon which Mrs. King will embark. Centering the dining table was a ship in full sail upon a sea of flowers, and above the table in Spanish suggesting the ultimate destination of the voyagers, were the words "La Mesa del Capitan Reservado," suggesting that honor accorded special travelers of dining at the captain's table. The hostess herself suggested the ship's master in her costume.

Luggage labels served as place cards, while for the succeeding contract session of the after-dinner hours, partners were denoted by clever little traveling bag tallies.

The dessert course was reserved for serving late in the evening, at which time the bridge tables, linen spread and flag decorated, were employed. The rich cake which was served with other dainties, bore small silken flags of both Mexico and the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn ha asked to share the friendly gesture with Mr. and Mrs. King, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Smith, Mr. and Mrs. D. K. Hammond, Mrs. E. W. Spruance, Mr. and Mrs. M. Burr Wellington, and Mr. and Mrs. William H. Spurgeon.

Varied Entertainment Offered Members of Community Players

An unusually large crowd of Community Players' association members met last night at The Barn on Mabury street, to be rewarded with one of the best programs of the year, according to those privileged to hear the varied features presented.

Music, drama, a play review, and the more prosaic pleasures of the social hour, were happily blended so that there was something to appeal to every taste. Mrs. Maurice Enderle (Harriet Owens Enderle), chairman, Miss Katherine Barr and John Colwell had planned the evening's features. These opened with a masterly review of "End and Beginning," by John Masefield, presented by Mrs. Enderle and continued with music and a one act comedy.

The clever little play was interpreted with remarkable finesse and understanding by a cast directed by Mrs. Enderle. Arthur Collins took the role of "Uncle James," with Miss Katherine Barr as "Aunt Emily;" John Colwell as "Phillip," the nephew; Miss June Arnold as "Mrs. Higgins," the cook, and Miss Barbara Rowland as "Mary," the parlor maid.

Separating the review and the dramatic offering was a musical interlude featuring Miss Emmalena Richards, violinist. Her artistry and fine technique were apparent in "Le Deluge" (Saint-Saens) and "Berceuse from Jocelyn," (Gounod). Miss Charlotte Davis was at the piano for the two numbers, arrangements for which had been made by Victor Rees, music chairman.

Mrs. Northrup Ellis as Barn chairman, conducted the customary business session which included reports on the progress of the next play of the association program, "Bill of Divorcement" to be given February 16 and 17 in Ebell clubhouse. Rehearsals by a finely assembled cast are now under way with Gladys Simpson Shafer, director.

The Barn was in festive appearance for the evening, decorations having been arranged by the Misses Marian Bruner and Eva Deane Caskey. Refreshments during the social hour were planned and served by Miss Lillian L. Dickson, Miss Mary Safley, Mrs. Robert Northcross and Miss Dorothy Forgy.

From the church, where the short session was conducted by Mrs. Lela Lawrence, president, members of the group embarked on a search which took them to various points within Santa Ana city limits.

After the treasure in question had been found in a vacant lot, the class adjourned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Linthicum, 809 North Garnsey for the remainder of the evening. The impending marriage of Miss Elma McBride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McBride, to George Bradley on February 23 has been heralded with a sequence of pleasant courtesies for the young bride to be, but none was more appropriately given than the shower last evening in the home of Miss Helen Stauffer, 1800 Bush street.

Miss Stauffer and Miss Betty Hewitt in entertaining, chose the heart theme inspired by St. Valentine, and were assisted by their mothers, Mrs. C. R. Stauffer and Mrs. R. G. Hewitt. Distribution of heart-decked tallies brought the attention of the guests to bridge, for which prizes were awarded Miss Virginia Bailey, high, and Miss Dorothy Lewis, low. The former received a Yardley bath set, and the latter a quaint Mexican hand-painted wooded bowl.

The honoree was then presented with a sparkling array of Fostoria glass in etched topaz, as the gift of the group. Tables were centered with fragrant nosegays of red and white sweet peas, and moulded ices in the form of a red and white bride and groom were served with petit fours.

Card Party Series is Launched by Men of St. Ann's Parish

Success attended plans of the Holy Name society of St. Ann's Catholic church to give the first of a series of card parties and start a fund for the new church edifice which is the present hope of the parish. For the party series was launched Wednesday night, and the evening was a thoroughly enjoyable one attended by some 250 guests.

Knights of Columbus hall was the party setting, and Roy Flanagan, assisted by Holy Name members, had arranged a most interesting evening. Both bridge and 500 were played and 60 tables were required for the games. A decorative effect was given by the arrangement of prizes on the stage, for many of the gifts were bright colored pottery and in their midst was a remarkable cake baked by Mrs. Herman Vardy, a famous cake baker of the parish. This particular confection was decorated to present a true copy of the church of St. Ann's, and was the subject of much lively bidding among the party guests. Mrs. C. A. Webb finally secured the cake, while other prizes went to Mrs. Harry Gaspar, Mrs. George Young and Mrs. Stella Engelman and Messrs. Harry Edwards, J. P. Murphy and C. A. Webb in bridge, and Mrs. Charles E. Borchard, Miss Rose Colombini and Mrs. Bernie Casperson, and Messrs. Erhardt Hagermann, Bernard Haupert and Tony Kneip in 500. Mrs. Carl M. Heim was awarded the door prize.

Mrs. Roy Flanagan and members of the Altar society took charge in the kitchen and a friendly gesture of assistance, and members of the Holy Name society aided in serving sandwiches, cake and coffee as the evening drew to a close. Everyone expressed appreciation of the pleasant hospitality and the opportunity to aid in starting the building fund. The Rev. Father Thomas Noonan was especially pleased at the response shown to his talk Sunday on facing the depression with cheerfulness and a determination to overcome it by thinking and living prosperity rather than gloom and adversity. He besought a similar interest for the succeeding card parties which will be announced nearer the date of each in succession.

Patrons will retain their scores for each night's entertainment, and at the close of the series grand prizes will be awarded in both bridge and 500 divisions.

Neighborhood Club of Long Standing Has Friendly Session

Assembling Tuesday for one of their monthly luncheons, Amistad club members, enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Frank Was, 617 Orange avenue, realized that the meeting was practically an anniversary of the founding of this friendly neighborhood seven years ago.

The luncheon hour as arranged by Mrs. Was, sounded the keynote of the day's pleasant features. For guests found that they were invited to partake of a French menu in a setting which embodied features of a little sidewalk cafe on the bank of the Seine. "Le Chat et La Reine" was the ambitious name of this cafe, and its artistic character was deftly established by the charcoal drawings which covered the walls, and the small tables with their checked covers, their guttering candles thrust into bottles, and the china and cutlery employed. Cleverly decorated menu cards were all in French.

The customary afternoon of needlework, knitting and of course, conversation, followed, with lively anticipations of the date in February when Mrs. John McAuley will welcome the same group to her home.

Amistad members enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. Was were Mrs. George Bond, Mrs. Charles Fuller, Mrs. Richard Cribaro, Mrs. Clarence Bond, Mrs. G. F. Munro, Mrs. Frank Lansdown, Mrs. G. E. Bruns, Mrs. Harry A. Havely, Mrs. John McAuley and Mrs. Charles E. Bressler.

Card Party Series is Launched by Men of St. Ann's Parish

Success attended plans of the Holy Name society of St. Ann's Catholic church to give the first of a series of card parties and start a fund for the new church edifice which is the present hope of the parish. For the party series was launched Wednesday night, and the evening was a thoroughly enjoyable one attended by some 250 guests.

Knights of Columbus hall was the party setting, and Roy Flanagan, assisted by Holy Name members, had arranged a most interesting evening. Both bridge and 500 were played and 60 tables were required for the games. A decorative effect was given by the arrangement of prizes on the stage, for many of the gifts were bright colored pottery and in their midst was a remarkable cake baked by Mrs. Herman Vardy, a famous cake baker of the parish. This particular confection was decorated to present a true copy of the church of St. Ann's, and was the subject of much lively bidding among the party guests. Mrs. C. A. Webb finally secured the cake, while other prizes went to Mrs. Harry Gaspar, Mrs. George Young and Mrs. Stella Engelman and Messrs. Harry Edwards, J. P. Murphy and C. A. Webb in bridge, and Mrs. Charles E. Borchard, Miss Rose Colombini and Mrs. Bernie Casperson, and Messrs. Erhardt Hagermann, Bernard Haupert and Tony Kneip in 500. Mrs. Carl M. Heim was awarded the door prize.

Mrs. Roy Flanagan and members of the Altar society took charge in the kitchen and a friendly gesture of assistance, and members of the Holy Name society aided in serving sandwiches, cake and coffee as the evening drew to a close. Everyone expressed appreciation of the pleasant hospitality and the opportunity to aid in starting the building fund. The Rev. Father Thomas Noonan was especially pleased at the response shown to his talk Sunday on facing the depression with cheerfulness and a determination to overcome it by thinking and living prosperity rather than gloom and adversity. He besought a similar interest for the succeeding card parties which will be announced nearer the date of each in succession.

Patrons will retain their scores for each night's entertainment, and at the close of the series grand prizes will be awarded in both bridge and 500 divisions.

CLUB TOLD OF CITRUS FRUIT AUCTION SALES

ORANGE, Feb. 2.—With W. H. Flippen as the program chairman a talk of more than usual interest was given at the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday by Henry D. Greene, special representative of the American Fruit and Produce Auction association, New York. Greene showed a number of reels of pictures of the auctions where oranges are sold to retailers and wholesalers and eventually into the hands of eastern and middlewestern consumers.

"Nearly 50 per cent of California's citrus fruit shipments are sold by the fruit auction companies," said Greene. "The auction unfortunately suggests too many distress goods or a foreclosure sale, and many growers do not realize that the fruit and produce auctions are one of the largest channels of distribution in the country. The auctions are looked to by the trade for daily supplies of the best fruits and brands. Some of the auctions have been handling fruit for the past 100 years.

"Another service rendered by the auction of which many are not aware is the auction guarantee of all credits. The auction companies extend credits to their buyers, thus encouraging and broadening market distribution. For the grower or shipper, however, a sale on the auction means cash as the company remits a check for the sale within 48 hours of the time the fruit is sold.

"If you have good fruit, it always pays to consign it in an attractive pack. One need not, however, expect to dress up inferior fruit and expect to get top prices for it."

Greene's pictures showed buyers in the 60 auctions maintained in New York City and the auction rooms in Chicago where buyers make a thorough inspection of fruit before it is sold. He told of the part played by the jobber and wholesaler in disposing of fruit and explained the important part played in distribution by the push cart men, who sell quantities of fruit in congested districts.

CLUB TOLD OF CITRUS FRUIT AUCTION SALES

ORANGE, Feb. 2.—With W. H. Flippen as the program chairman a talk of more than usual interest was given at the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday by Henry D. Greene, special representative of the American Fruit and Produce Auction association, New York. Greene showed a number of reels of pictures of the auctions where oranges are sold to retailers and wholesalers and eventually into the hands of eastern and middlewestern consumers.

"Nearly 50 per cent of California's citrus fruit shipments are sold by the fruit auction companies," said Greene. "The auction unfortunately suggests too many distress goods or a foreclosure sale, and many growers do not realize that the fruit and produce auctions are one of the largest channels of distribution in the country. The auctions are looked to by the trade for daily supplies of the best fruits and brands. Some of the auctions have been handling fruit for the past 100 years.

"Another service rendered by the auction of which many are not aware is the auction guarantee of all credits. The auction companies extend credits to their buyers, thus encouraging and broadening market distribution. For the grower or shipper, however, a sale on the auction means cash as the company remits a check for the sale within 48 hours of the time the fruit is sold.

"If you have good fruit, it always pays to consign it in an attractive pack. One need not, however, expect to dress up inferior fruit and expect to get top prices for it."

Greene's pictures showed buyers in the 60 auctions maintained in New York City and the auction rooms in Chicago where buyers make a thorough inspection of fruit before it is sold. He told of the part played by the jobber and wholesaler in disposing of fruit and explained the important part played in distribution by the push cart men, who sell quantities of fruit in congested districts.

THE WEEKLY PANTRY SHELF

GLOBE MILLS TO OPEN SALES DRIVE

Increased consumer demand is confidently anticipated by the makers of Globe "A1" "double-tested" products as a result of a new advertising campaign to acquaint the public with methods employed by the concern to insure the absolute uniformity of products essential to best results.

In addition to its maintenance of a fully equipped laboratory and testing kitchen, Globe Mills announces the establishment of another kitchen built to reproduce actual conditions in the average home. Products which are tested in laboratory kitchen are again tested in the "home" kitchen to make sure that they meet the requirements of the average housewife. An experienced and widely known home economist, Ruth Adams, is in charge of the unique "double-test" kitchen. Winona Peterson and Helen Farquhar, both trained domestic science workers, are her assistants.

EAT AND GROW SLIM

Luncheon

2 thin slices whole wheat bread
2 Tbsps. mineral oil mayonnaise

TODAY'S RECIPE

Sherbets

Pineapple-Lemon Sherbet
2 cups pineapple juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon and Juice of two
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg white beaten stiff

Combine fruit juices, sugar, and grated peal, freeze to a mush, turn into the beaten white and whip until the whole is well frothed, return to ice chamber and finish freezing. Turn bottom to top once, but do not stir in doing so.

Raspberry Sherbet
1 quart can raspberries
1/2 cup sugar unless berries are very sweet
Juice of 1 lemon
1 egg white, beaten stiff

Drain the juice from the can of berries, add lemon and what sugar seems needed, start freezing, when the mush stage is reached, add the whipped egg white, beat well, and return to freezing chamber.

Cranberry Ice
1 quart cranberries
1 pint water
1 pound sugar
Juice of 2 lemons

Cook cranberries with water until they burst. Cool and strain. Add the sugar and let stand until dissolved, then add lemon juice, and freeze to the consistency of a water ice. Serve with meats. Whipping the ice when it reaches the mush stage will make it a little fluffier.

And, of course, there is the delicious apple-mint sherbet which has been described in this column so many times.

Speaking of calories—have you tried the trick of figuring out your own calories? Easy to do when you have a list half as long as your arm to pick from, and this list you may have by sending me a stamped, self-addressed envelope and one of your pet recipes...no recipe...no calory list ...see!

This list carries 330 food items worked out so that a ten-year old child can find what it wants and understand the value of the article.

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Feb. 2.—Sanford Davis, father of Mrs. Marion Spear, is a visitor here from Ft. Lupton, Colo., a family reunion being held in his honor at Beaumont this week. Attending from here were Mr. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Marion Spear and daughter, Mr. Spear's mother, Mr. and Mrs. Beck, Mrs. Davis, Pauline Lamont and Mr. Jeremeiassen, while others in the party included Mrs. Spear's two sisters and two cousins from Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stinson entertained cousins from Los Angeles at dinner Sunday.

Miss Nella Onson attended a dance at Balboa given by a Long Beach group.

First come the rice, old shoes, and your own version of a trip to Niagara. Then—the serious business of living not too seriously and sadly. When you must be your own cook and maid for two—with friend husband doubling as chief bottle washer—you'll find steaming, fragrant cups of Hills Bros. Coffee do miracles helping two live as easily as one. Hills Bros. Coffee is made for those who like good coffee—for families of two or twenty-two who like to count the pennies. It may cost a few cents more than "bargain counter" brands, but its richer flavor and strength make more satisfactory cups of unvarying coffee delight. And you drink coffee by the cup—not by the pound. Always ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab on the can.

REGAINED APPETITE AND WEIGHT WITH KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

If you are a sufferer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. McIntyre:

"For a long time my system was not in very good working order. But since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I have regained my appetite and my lost weight. And my system is in good working order. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sure does the trick."—Mr. J. A. McIntyre, 160 Ruscomb St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the "bulk" needed to relieve ordinary constipation. It also contains vitamin B and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Sherbets

Pineapple-Lemon Sherbet
2 cups pineapple juice
Grated rind of 1 lemon and Juice of two
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg white beaten stiff

Combine fruit juices, sugar, and grated peal, freeze to a mush, turn into the beaten white and whip until the whole is well frothed, return to ice chamber and finish freezing. Turn bottom to top once, but do not stir in doing so.

Raspberry Sherbet
1 quart can raspberries
1/2 cup sugar unless berries are very sweet
Juice of 1 lemon
1 egg white, beaten stiff

Drain the juice from the can of berries, add lemon and what sugar seems needed, start freezing, when the mush stage is reached, add the whipped egg white, beat well, and return to freezing chamber.

Cranberry Ice
1 quart cranberries
1 pint water
1 pound sugar
Juice of 2 lemons

Cook cranberries with water until they burst. Cool and strain. Add the sugar and let stand until dissolved, then add lemon juice, and freeze to the consistency of a water ice. Serve with meats. Whipping the ice when it reaches the mush stage will make it a little fluffier.

And, of course, there is the delicious apple-mint sherbet which has been described in this column so many times.

maid for two

First come the rice, old shoes, and your own version of a trip to Niagara. Then—the serious business of living not too seriously and sadly. When you must be your own cook and maid for two—with friend husband doubling as chief bottle washer—you'll find steaming, fragrant cups of Hills Bros. Coffee do miracles helping two live as easily as one. Hills Bros. Coffee is made for those who like good coffee—for families of two or twenty-two who like to count the pennies. It may cost a few cents more than "bargain counter" brands, but its richer flavor and strength make more satisfactory cups of unvarying coffee delight. And you drink coffee by the cup—not by the pound. Always ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab on the can.

REGAINED APPETITE AND WEIGHT WITH KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN

Cereal Relieved His Constipation

If you are a sufferer from headaches, loss of appetite and energy, sleeplessness, or any other of the frequent effects of constipation, read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. McIntyre:

"For a long time my system was not in very good working order. But since eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, I have regained my appetite and my lost weight. And my system is in good working order. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sure does the trick."—Mr. J. A. McIntyre, 160 Ruscomb St., Philadelphia, Pa.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides the "bulk" needed to relieve ordinary constipation. It also contains vitamin B and iron for the blood.

You'll enjoy this delicious and healthful ready-to-eat cereal. Serve it with milk or cream—or use often in cooking.

Just eat two tablespoonfuls daily. Chronic cases, with each meal. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is all bran with only necessary flavoring added. It contains much more needed "bulk" than part-bran products. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TEXANS TO BE BACK AGAIN ON KREG TONIGHT

The Texas Ramblers, "cowboys de luxe from the wide, open spaces," will be heard at 7 o'clock tonight on KREG and Tuesday night at the same time, holding "open house" to visitors in the studio during their programs.

The Ramblers were previously scheduled Thursday and Saturday nights.

Studio officials stated that this group has proved to be one of the most popular of its kind with local audiences and that they always fill the studio to capacity with enthusiastic visitors who have heard them and want to see what they look like.

Tonight's broadcast of "People Who Make News" from KREG at 7:30 will consider a cheese-maker in Congress, Bertrand Hollis Snell, Republican Representative from Potsdam, New York and minority leader in the House. He happens to manufacture and sell cheese, even as the minority leader of the Senate was a raiser of prunes.

Ice hockey will find a place in the broadcast with an acount of "Ching" Johnson, "one of the toughest hombres" in the game, "a combination of fighting, wrestling and war," according to "News Week."

Other personalities to be described are Colonel Carlos Mendieta, the fifth president of Cuba in as many months; and Lord Rothermere, a man who can make the headlines whenever he wishes, as he controls the London Daily Mail, the Daily Mirror, the London Evening News and several other newspapers. The News-Quiz of three questions concerning recent events will conclude the broadcast.

ROBERT SPEED TO SPEAK OVER KREG

A new adult education broadcast has been added to the series of radio instruction now scheduled on KREG at 5:30 daily except Saturday and Sunday, it was announced by station officials, who stated that Robert Speed, instructor in creative writing, advertisement writing and publicity, will speak on these subjects and "Writing for Money" each Friday, starting this evening.

Mr. Speed's classes meet Mondays and Wednesdays as instructors in the Adult Education Department, Santa Ana city schools.

This evening he will speak on all three subjects, outlining the courses offered, and he said he would also explain the opportunities offered by the adult education classes inasmuch as it is "never too late to learn."

KREG NOTES

A story of a conspiracy among a ship's crew to steal a cargo of silver and use the stolen funds to defray the expenses of a search for a huge treasure will be enacted tonight under the title of "The Silver Siren," the fifth of a series of "Front Page Dramas" being presented each Friday at 8:45 p. m. on KREG.

Atmospheric irregularities are hampering the technical staff of the C. B. S. for the broadcast of the Agua Caliente Golf Handicap, but every effort is being made to make the broadcast possible, according to officials of the chain.

Forty-five minutes of concert music by the C. B. S. orchestra, under the direction of Salvatore Santaella, is programmed to start at 8 o'clock tonight on KREG.

Julia Jordan's program tonight, 6:15, KREG, will be of outstanding excellence as indicated by the titles of the songs she will sing. They include: "I Hear You Calling Me," Marshall; "I Passed by Your Window," Brahe; "Absent," Metcalfe; "A Kiss in the Dark," Herbert; "La Golondrina," Yradier, and "In the Luxembourg Gardens," Manning.

GOVERNOR TO OPEN STREET FEBRUARY 14

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2. — Because Governor James Rolph jr. will pay an official visit to Orange county on February 14, the celebration for the opening of the recently completed improvement on North Los Angeles street has been postponed until that date, it was decided yesterday afternoon when the committee in charge met in the chamber of commerce office.

As the highway was opened to traffic Tuesday it was formerly planned to hold the celebration sometime next week.

The celebration will be held on the grounds of the Elks' clubhouse at Sycamore and Los Angeles streets at 7:30 p. m.

Invitations are being extended Governor Rolph and Harry A. Hopkins, chairman of the board of highway commissioners and state engineers.

While the program has not yet been completed, George W. Reid, secretary of the chamber of commerce, announced this morning that the Elk's glee club of 40 voices will sing and the American Legion Drum corps will provide martial music. The Harmonica Chorus, including 250 boys and girls from all parts of Southern California will also be present as a feature of the program.

JUNIOR EBELL PLAYS REVIEW HUGE SUCCESS

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—The energy and tireless effort shown on the part of the members of the Junior Ebell was responsible for the splendid manner in which the first of a series of the play reviews was given last night by Mrs. Daphne Goss Hellerman of Los Angeles at the Pickwick hotel.

Because of the popularity of Mrs. Hellerman, who has entertained Anaheim audiences before, the club had a limited amount of season tickets for outsiders who wished to participate in these programs and Mrs. Gilbert Kuenzle, chairman, reported this morning that all 55 season tickets were sold while many additional guests came in on individual performance tickets.

Mrs. Hellerman, appearing in an attractive black and white gown, gave a splendid interpretation of characters in O'Neill's latest play and only comedy. In her presentation of drama in February Mrs. Hellerman will discuss "Mary Queen of Scotland" by Anderson. At present this play is the popular subject of the English Coronets over the radio.

Members of the drama study group were welcomed by Mrs. Richard Glover, president of the Junior Ebell who in turn presented Mrs. Kuenzli, general chairman of arrangements The latter introduced Mrs. Hellerman.

Members of the committee working with Mrs. Kuenzli to bring the five months series of reviews here were Miss Florence Backs, Miss Catherine Wells, Miss Helen Grafton, Mrs. Glover and Miss Dora Gene Golder.

SHOPPING DAYS ARE PROPOSED BY M. & M. BODY

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—Three big sales days will be a part of the 1934 program the Merchants and Manufacturers association decided yesterday noon at a meeting held at the Marigold cafe following a report of the business promotion committee that was made by Oscar Renner, chairman.

The first of these sales days will be held on February 14, this to open the spring season. The second event will be on June 21 and the third in October at the time of the Harvest festival.

Dollar Day sales will continue on the third Thursday of each month. The committee working with Renner were Victor Loly, Reginald Taylor and William Payne.

The principal speaker for the meeting was L. H. Buisch of the National Cash Register company who spoke on "Merchandising In a New Era." He stressed that cutthroat competition is now a thing of the past and that in the future sales will depend upon superior salesmanship and goods.

C. M. Gilbert, president of the Orange County Builder's Exchange, presented a plan for the Renovize county campaign to give employment throughout the county and put added money in circulation. The association took no action of plan.

WILLIAM K. DUTTON ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—An erroneous statement in yesterday's paper resulted in the report that Jack Dutton of Anaheim was the victim of an accidental shooting Wednesday afternoon while cleaning a gun. It was his brother, William K. Dutton, 26, of Anaheim who met death in this manner.

Funeral services for the latter will be held at the chapel of Backs, Terry and Campbell tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Anaheim Police Notes

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2. — Kenney Huffman, 20, of Ontario and Nolan Hooten, 19, of Anaheim, were arrested yesterday afternoon on charges of intoxication when police officers answered a call to the Pay n' Takit store that two men were attempting to tow a car away. They were booked and locked up.

William South, 21, transient, was fined $25 or 12 1-2 days in the county jail yesterday morning on a charge of intoxication. Judge Frank Tausch later gave him a six months suspended sentence providing he leave Anaheim at once.

MRS. MORGAN WILL HEAD GIRL SCOUTS

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Thomas F. Morgan was elected chairman of the community committee of the Girl Scouts yesterday morning when a special meeting was held at the Girl Scout house.

Plans were made for Tag Day that will be held downtown on Saturday, February 10 as a means of raising money for the Girl Scouts in place of the annual financial drive. While the tags will be sold by members of the community committee and volunteer workers members of the Girl Scouts will be present in uniform to assist. Mrs. F. H. Bastian has been appointed general chairman of the affair.

Swimming meets for the Girl Scouts will be held at the St. Catherine's plunge on the first Thursdays and second Wednesdays of each month.

SALVATION ARMY TO HOLD MEETING HERE

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Traders in the wheat pit took time out today to digest the monetary situation and the consequent light interes made for narrow and aimless price movements, with the closes lightly lower. Corn and oats were little changed.

At the close wheat was ⅜ to ⅝ cent lower, corn was unchanged and oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Bullish crop news failed to stir up any interest. Fluctuations were limited, however, with May wheat closing at 91¼ cents, July at 90⅛ and September at 90⅞. Cash wheat was steady.

TEXANS TO BE BACK AGAIN ON KREG TONIGHT

The Texas Ramblers, "cowboys de luxe from the wide, open spaces," will be heard at 7 o'clock tonight on KREG and Tuesday night at the same time, holding "open house" to visitors in the studio during their programs.

The Ramblers were previously scheduled Thursday and Saturday nights.

Studio officials stated that this group has proved to be one of the most popular of its kind with local audiences and that they always fill the studio to capacity with enthusiastic visitors who have heard them and want to see what they look like.

Tonight's broadcast of "People Who Make News" from KREG at 7:30 will consider a cheese-maker in Congress, Bertrand Hollis Snell, Republican Representative from Potsdam, New York and minority leader in the House. He happens to manufacture and sell cheese, even as the minority leader of the Senate was a raiser of prunes.

Ice hockey will find a place in the broadcast with an acount of "Ching" Johnson, "one of the toughest hombres" in the game, "a combination of fighting, wrestling and war," according to "News Week."

Other personalities to be described are Colonel Carlos Mendieta, the fifth president of Cuba in as many months; and Lord Rothermere, a man who can make the headlines whenever he wishes, as he controls the London Daily Mail, the Daily Mirror, the London Evening News and several other newspapers. The News-Quiz of three questions concerning recent events will conclude the broadcast.

ROBERT SPEED TO SPEAK OVER KREG

A new adult education broadcast has been added to the series of radio instruction now scheduled on KREG at 5:30 daily except Saturday and Sunday, it was announced by station officials, who stated that Robert Speed, instructor in creative writing, advertisement writing and publicity, will speak on these subjects and "Writing for Money" each Friday, starting this evening.

Mr. Speed's classes meet Mondays and Wednesdays as units in the Adult Education Department, Santa Ana city schools.

This evening he will speak on all three subjects, outlining the courses offered, and he said he would also explain the opportunities offered by the adult education classes inasmuch as it is "never too late to learn."

KREG NOTES

A story of a conspiracy among a ship's crew to steal a cargo of silver and use the stolen funds to defray the expenses of a search for a huge treasure will be enacted tonight under the title of "The Silver Siren," the fifth of a series of "Front Page Dramas" being presented each Friday at 8:45 p. m. on KREG.

Atmospheric irregularities are hampering the technical staff of the C. B. S. for the broadcast of the Agua Caliente Golf Handicap, but every effort is being made to make the broadcast possible, according to officials of the chain.

Forty-five minutes of concert music by the C. B. S. orchestra, under the direction of Salvatore Santaella, is programmed to start at 8 o'clock tonight on KREG.

Julia Jordan's program tonight, 6:15, KREG, will be of outstanding excellence as indicated by the titles of the songs she will sing. They include: "I Hear You Calling Me," Marshall; "I Passed by Your Window," Brahe; "Absent," Metcalfe; "A Kiss in the Dark," Herbert; "La Golondrina," Yradier, and "In the Luxembourg Gardens," Manning.

GOVERNOR TO OPEN STREET FEBRUARY 14

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2. — Because Governor James Rolph jr. will pay an official visit to Orange county on February 14, the celebration for the opening of the recently completed improvement on North Los Angeles street has been postponed until that date, it was decided yesterday afternoon when the committee in charge met in the chamber of commerce office.

As the highway was opened to traffic Tuesday it was formerly planned to hold the celebration sometime next week.

The celebration will be held on the grounds of the Elks' clubhouse at Sycamore and Los Angeles streets at 7:30 p. m.

Invitations are being extended Governor Rolph and Harry A. Hopkins, chairman of the board of highway commissioners and state engineers.

While the program has not yet been completed, George W. Reid, secretary of the chamber of commerce, announced this morning that the Elk's glee club of 40 voices will sing and the American Legion Drum corps will provide martial music. The Harmonica Chorus, including 250 boys and girls from all parts of Southern California will also be present as a feature of the program.

JUNIOR EBELL PLAYS REVIEW HUGE SUCCESS

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—The energy and tireless effort shown on the part of the members of the Junior Ebell was responsible for the splendid manner in which the first of a series of the play reviews was given last night by Mrs. Daphne Goss Hellerman of Los Angeles at the Pickwick hotel.

Because of the popularity of Mrs. Hellerman, who has entertained Anaheim audiences before, the club had a limited amount of season tickets for outsiders who wished to participate in these programs and Mrs. Gilbert Kuenzle, chairman, reported this morning that all 55 season tickets were sold while many additional guests came in on individual performance tickets.

Mrs. Hellerman, appearing in an attractive black and white gown, gave a splendid interpretation of characters in O'Neill's latest play and only comedy. In her presentation of drama in February Mrs. Hellerman will discuss "Mary Queen of Scotland" by Anderson. At present this play is the popular subject of the English Coronets over the radio.

Members of the drama study group were welcomed by Mrs. Richard Glover, president of the Junior Ebell who in turn presented Mrs. Kuenzli, general chairman of arrangements The latter introduced Mrs. Hellerman.

Members of the committee working with Mrs. Kuenzli to bring the five months series of reviews here were Miss Florence Backs, Miss Catherine Wells, Miss Helen Grafton, Mrs. Glover and Miss Dora Gene Golder.

SHOPPING DAYS ARE PROPOSED BY M. & M. BODY

ANAHEIM, Feb. 2.—Three big sales days will be a part of the 1934 program the Merchants and Manufacturers association decided yesterday noon at a meeting held at the Marigold cafe following a report of the business promotion committee that was made by Oscar Renner, chairman.

The first of these sales days will be held on February 14, this to open the spring season. The second event will be on June 21 and the third in October at the time of the Harvest festival.

Dollar Day sales will continue on the third Thursday of each month. The committee working with Renner were Victor Loly, Reginald Taylor and William Payne.

The principal speaker for the meeting was L. H. Buisch of the National Cash Register company who spoke on "Merchandising In a New Era." He stressed that cutthroat competition is now a thing of the past and that in the future sales will depend upon superior salesmanship and goods.

C. M. Gilbert, president of the Orange County Builder's Exchange, presented a plan for the Renovize county campaign to give employment throughout the county and put added money in circulation. The association took no action of plan.

PLANS BEING MADE FOR EASTER DANCE

Chicago Bd. of Trade

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(UP)—Traders in the wheat pit took time out today to digest the monetary situation and the consequent light interes made for narrow and aimless price movements, with the closes lightly lower. Corn and oats were little changed.

At the close wheat was ⅝ to ⅝ cent lower, corn was unchanged and oats were unchanged to ⅛ cent lower.

Bullish crop news failed to stir up any interest. Fluctuations were limited, however, with May wheat closing at 91¼ cents, July at 90⅛ and September at 90⅞. Cash wheat was steady.

THE BASTANCHURY ACRES, FLOOD CONTROL AND PRICES

A project involving the question of delinquent taxes on the Bastanchury ranch and the purchase by the county of some land from the ranch, enabling the owners of the ranch to meet their delinquent taxes, received general news notice yesterday. The whole matter was thoroughly prepared for newspapers, under a general program to carry the plan out.

We would like to call attention to a few matters in respect to this. This property was purchased by those representing the bondholders for a very small sum per acre. This was $235 an acre, we believe.

It is now proposed to sell to the county 115 acres for the taxes that are due, at the rate of about four times or more the amount that these people paid for it. If they could succeed in finding a buyer for 400 or 500 more acres at this same price, they could pay off their bonds, as well as their taxes, and have the balance of 2000 acres in their hands, without cost.

We can hardly believe that this acreage is as valuable as it was at the time it was purchased. If they are going to sell acreage to the county for taxes, certainly the county should not pay more per acre, than was paid for it by the present owners, who bought it with the full knowledge of the taxes due. If the purpose is to buy acreage to meet the delinquency, let the county get enough acreage to meet it at a fair price.

It may be urged then that some of the land that the county would get could not be used for the flood control. But, as a matter of fact, some of the land, which it is proposed to buy, is not to be used for flood control, in any case, for some of it is to be turned over, ostensibly, for a junior college, and the other for a park for the city of Fullerton. So that if it is being bought for other purposes than flood control, let it be bought at a price certainly not greater than what was paid for it when the tract was purchased. If this land is of value, 100 or 200 acres of the 400 or 500 coming from this tax might well be utilized for the unemployed, and profitably for the county.

In the second place, it is very questionable whether it is ever profitable for a county, or any other political unit, to buy property, except for specific uses, which are a part of the program that is agreed upon by the tax-making body. As far as the county is concerned, it is entirely possible that this program will never be carried out. It is in part in harmony with the recommendation made by an engineer.

But the only manner in which the county could, in justice, assume the financial responsibility for a flood control dam in Brea canyon, would be for those who are benefitted there, to join in some program that would be equally beneficial to those sections of Orange county, that would not be benefitted at all by the flood control in Brea canyon. The reason why some bond issues have been defeated has been because it was proposed to bond sections of the county for enterprises for which those sections had no benefit.

The initial step must be taken by the board of supervisors. If it is going to carry on this Elliott project, bonds would have to be voted. The next step should be the presentation of it to the people of the county. With that carried, such land as is necessary to be purchased is one of the later steps, but that land should be purchased at a reasonable price, so that the taxpayers are protected, and are profited.

There is probably no delinquent tax owner of property in this county but who would be willing to sell a portion of his land for four times what he paid for it, in order to meet his taxes. But a business group would not so purchase it.

It should be borne in mind that this land which is in discussion, does not constitute all the land that is necessary to be bought for this flood control plan in Brea canyon.

We are rather afraid that those who are interested in making a good deal for the ranch, and those whom they employ to help them do it, are rather presenting a set-up for the purpose of enhancing the value of the land, and ridding themselves of debt, without proposing to even sell the land for what they paid for it.

In noting the list of those who are owners of it, we should judge that they are not even residents of Orange county. They are quite well-to-do citizens, and they, if the county does not meet their desires, will pay their taxes. The county, the city of Fullerton and the school district can then carry out such a program, and its determination can be in the interest of each, without being forced to do it along a certain line, as this plan would necessitate.

PUTTING WAR PICTURES TO A STRANGE USE

It would be amusing, if it were not so tragic, to notice the "uncensored" war pictures that are being published in the Hearst newspapers. These pictures are horrifying to the extreme. To see the pictures of men cut down in the prime of life, corded like wood in the wagon, for interment in an unmarked and unknown grave, makes war horrible in the extreme.

Then to realize that these young men not only had no ill will against those who killed them, but didn't even know what the war was about, again argues against the whole damnable, murderous traffic.

The publisher of these pictures is endeavoring to use them as evidence of need of greater preparation. But when we note that these "cord-wood" bodies, are the bodies of the youth of the nations best prepared for war in the world's history, Germany and France, we then are convinced that being prepared for war was the main thing that produced the war. And the preparations through which nations are now going are the most absolute assurance and compelling power to produce war itself.

No, "preparation" did not protect the millions of German youth. You will have to look elsewhere, in such places as Switzerland, where they had no army, to see peace and quietness, and young men active, and doing their wonted work, and living a life of usefulness to the natural end. The biggest fraud and deception that is attempted to be perpetrated upon the people anywhere, is the idea that to make a man of peace and to walk in the ways of peace, you must have a walking arsenal.

The nations which were prepared for war are the nations of the world that are most depopulated of their youth. The nations that were least prepared, and were driven into it, at least did not suffer as the prepared nations did.

In proportion as the attention of the world and the people of the nations is directed to war, and armament being the method, just in that same proportion is interest withdrawn from the only way that settlements finally will be made after death and destruction, namely, around the conference table.

THE NEW STYLES IN AUTOMOBILES

Some one remarked recently that many people have developed the same emotional differences concerning automobiles as they have concerning their religion and their politics. This is an indication of how deeply the automobile has become a factor in everyday life.

We have discovered that it does not take much to provoke a redhot argument between two men who have acquired different cars in a similar price class. Each appears to be thoroughly convinced that his car has it all over the other. It goes faster, it takes less gas per mile, it has this gadget or that one, it rides more comfortably. And he is quite as positive that the other car is an oil burner, has nothing under the hood, and will be a tin can after the first 5000 miles.

How fine it is that every man is satisfied with his own car, as he is with his own religion and his own political party. But why can the most of us not enjoy our automobile, our religion, and our political party without running down the other fellow's brand? It is to be taken for granted that each man's automobile, or religion, or political party gives him real service or comfort, otherwise he would make a change.

It is just as well that we all differ somewhat in taste and likes. We forget that the same kind of a man who prefers a violent colored suit of clothes or a brown derby will prefer a loud-looking automobile. The Indian was glad that everybody was not alike; otherwise, he said, everyone else would want his squaw.

The world is full of different people, one liking one thing, another liking something else. Variety is the spice of life. And the different styles of automobiles on the market offer that variety. Each to his taste, and success to every salesman that he may find the right customer.

"Indians at Work"

Washington Star

Among the most interesting of Government publications is the mimeographed periodical, "Indians at Work," which John Collier established when he assumed office as Commissioner of Indian Affairs. It is an unpretending presentation, but it serves its purpose effectively enough, and it may be hoped that it will become an institution, a permanent feature of the office's work. The public surely desires to know what is being done by and for the Indian community, and a paper of this type can be a valuable medium for the dissemination of useful information on the subject.

Mr. Collier appears to have grappled with the problems of his position with his accustomed ardor and enthusiasm. Curious combination of dreamer and crusader that he is by birth and training, he has seized the opportunity to accomplish the reforms which many years of study have suggested to his mind. His present philosophy he outlines in the words:

"Indians want self-government. This indian administration wants it for them as strongly as any Indian wants it for himself. Let the Indian begin now, by examining their own problem of land legislation and self-government legislation.

"Let them think these questions down into operative detail as applied to their own local lands and lives. Let them organize for study of these matters and for action upon them. Let them register their judgments and their wills with the department and with Congress.

"Hard and persevering factual thinking by Indian tribes is called for, if self-government is to become a reality. Such hard and factual thinking is first of all needed in the shaping of the enabling legislation for self-government. Equally is this true if lands are to be safeguarded, and new land acquisitions provided for, and new business capital acquired, by means of new legislation.

"It is not meant that only the Indians must think steadfastly, boldly and yet cautiously. We at the Washington office must think hard, as likewise must the committees of Congress, and the field forces of the Indian Service must join with the Indians in finding light and supplying to Washington the needed light.

"An unrolling, cumulative achievement, stage succeeding stage, across years: such, if it be destined to succeed, must this self-government and this land regeneration, program be . . . Let us work together."

There is a novel note in this appeal, and it has the attraction of its difference from traditional concepts of the revelation between the Government and the Indians. First viewed as enemies, then as wards, the surviving remnants of the Indian race successively were persecuted and vicariously coddled. But now under a phase of the New Deal Mr. Collier is attempting to place Indian men and women on a par with other Americans of a similar cultural and social status. He is neither fighting them nor catering to them. He is reassuring an unreserved confidence in their essential humanity, and is calling upon them to solve their own problems by the exercise of their own genius, granting them guidance and help as needed, but remaining faithful to the ideal of self-determination throughout.

Thousands deeply interested in Indian welfare will pray that the experiment may succeed. Its key, perhaps, is the word "work."

More Truth Than Poetry

TO A THERMOMETER

I should not mind the falling snow
Nor yet the blizzard's biting blizz
Were you not there to let me know
Each passing hour how cold it is.
But when I watch your column sink
Through fast diminishing degrees,
I shudder with dismay; I think
I'm going to freeze.
I wrap a scarf about my throat
And don a winter overcoat.

I should not mind mid-summer heat
Nor deem too sultry was the air
To take a stroll along the street
Were you not dourly hanging there.
But when I cast a glance at you,
Leaves seem to wither on the bough
And perspiration beads with dew
My fevered brow.
I hasten to some shady spot
And murmur, "Golly! Ain't it hot?"

The Eskimo pursues the seals
With his keen, crudely fashioned spear;
The lucky creature never feels
The keen and frigid atmosphere.
The Hottentots in sunshine bask
And on the tepid breakers gaze,
And none of them would ever ask
For cooler days.
How happier they are than we
Who broil or freeze, as you decree!

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper, me asking hard questions such as why your hands dont seem to get so derty after you grow up and if a berd gets mad when her eggs dont hatch after she's sat on them about a month, and would it be wrong for childern to smoke if they were growing too fast anyways and it would be a good thing if their growth was stumped a little, and pop said, I think if I had a cigar perhaps I could give more intelligible ansers to some of your unintelligible questions.

And we went in Pawl's cigar store and some lady was buying a box of cigars, saying, Are you sure my husband will like these?

Yes indeed I'm quite sure, Mr. Pawl said, and the lady said, But what makes you so sure? and Mr. Pawl said, My deer madam, any man with the good taist to select you for a wife is bound to have the discrimination to injoy a good box of Flora Superba cigars.

Making the lady giggle and buy the cigars, and she went out with them, being a lady that mite of been prettier if her nose hadn't of been so pointy, and Mr. Pawl said to pop, Good evening, Mr. Potts, what would you like?

I'd like a box of a hundred finest Havanas made especially for me by the order of the president of Cuba with each cigar rapped in a 10 doller bill by a ravishing dark eyed senyorita, but inasmuch as I have a very small chance of getting what I like, how about some Lord Pinkeys, 10 cent size? You keep them, dont you? he said.

No, we don't keep them, we sell them, Mr. Pawl said, and pop said, That makes us even, sell me 3.

Wich Mr. Pawl did, and me and pop kept on wawking, me asking more questions and pop ansering some and not listening to the rest until we went home for supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WILL WEALTH HAVE WISDOM?

That the organized drive against the Roosevelt program which seemed in the immediate offing a few months ago has not proceeded with much momentum raises some interesting questions in which the national destiny is involved.

Is this but the watchful waiting of a political opposition and a traditional business leadership that consider it too early to strike openly? Or does it mean that as the months pass men generally are beginning to realize that, in its main objective, the Roosevelt program is not so much a dynamiting of the American economic order as a defense of it through honest readjustment?

I hope it is the latter.

There are, as I have said so often, many details of the Roosevelt program that seem to me to fly in the face of sound economics, if it is to be more than an emergency measure; but, in its main objective, I am convinced that the Roosevelt program represents the sort of experimental readjustment of an old economic order to a new world that the business leadership of the country should have been fostering on its own account for the last decade or more.

Of two things I am full convinced:

(1) Millions of Americans had fundamentally lost faith in the inherent soundness of the system under which they were living when they marched to the voting booth last November. In other periods of stress and strain public opinion had been enraged at this or that leader or group but, in the main, there had been general confidence in the good faith and soundness of the political and economic system. Last November a new mood was on the people. I do not mean that they were consciously revolutionary in their ideas. I mean only that they were disillusioned. Another winter devoid of bold and imaginative attack upon the obvious sins of the political and economic system would, in my judgment, have made unleashed and utterly irresponsible radicalism the order of the day. Roosevelt—even if half his specific measures prove ultimately unworkable—worked the miracle of stopping an imminent mood of dangerous radicalism.

(2) If the political opposition and traditional business leadership should succeed in sabotaging the present process of readjustment, its failure will, in my opinion, mark the end of capitalism and democracy in the United States, for it is not in the cards to preserve either if an intelligently directed process of sweeping readjustment to new needs proves impossible.

Never has there been greater need of a nation-wide collaboration of all persons and all parties.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

HOME WORK

It would be fine to hope that this school term would bring no trouble to children, teachers and parents about home work. Home work is always a troublesome affair. Some children insist upon having it in plenty and some insist upon having none of it whatever. Some teachers like to assign reams of it, and some do not like to give any. A few parents ask that no homework be given the children while others think that the school is failing in its duty when the children are not occupied with lessons for the entire evening.

"Give him something to do. Then he won't bother the whole family all evening." "Please give Ellen homework in arithmetic. She doesn't seem to get it at all and we think she ought to have extra homework to bring her up." "Robert isn't getting any homework. Please see that he gets some in every lesson every night so we can keep him busy."

Maybe if we fixed on a reason for home work we might do better. My notion of it is that in the first three grades or so, no homework ought to be given the children. Five hours of school is a long period for little children to be held to silence and stillnes and mental effort. For some children it is too much. They all should be free in the afternoon for play, home chores and leisured occupations of their own choosing.

In the next three grades, fourth, fifth, and sixth, I would give the children who needed an extra period on a lesson, a homework lesson in the subject requiring it. I would not give every child a lesson in every subject every night. Distribute the work according to the needs o fthe children, over the course of study. I would not ask these children to do more than forty-five minutes of such work.

The children of the upper grades need homework. It should be a varied form of something that has already been taught in the class room, and it ought to be short. Two problems instead of five or seven or ten. Five new words that have been taught in class, can be assigned for further study at home, and their use shown in sentence form, or in a definition that actually defines. One paragraph on a sharp and valuable point will be enough of written English. A few pointed questions in geography and history rather than a series of pages. "Prepare answers to these questions for tomorrow. They cover the lesson we have just been over. Do not write them. Be prepared with oral answers," is a sound idea of a home lesson.

The whole course of study ought not to be represented in one evening's work. Teachers should consult before lessons are assigend so that the load is well distributed. A wise teacher never assigns home lessons that she cannot correct personally. And the wisest teacher does not use her strength in correcting hundreds of papers by lamp light. Homework, to be valuable, should strengthen the pupil's knowledge and inform the teacher of the condition of his mind in her subject.

Homework should be given in conservative amount, according to the needs of the individual child, and to the time and energy that the teacher has to devote to its correction and criticism. It ought never be given just for busy work.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)

THE BASTANCHURY ACRES, FLOOD CONTROL AND PRICES

A project involving the question of delinquent taxes on the Bastanchury ranch and the purchase by the county of some land from the ranch, enabling the owners of the ranch to meet their delinquent taxes, received general news notice yesterday. The whole matter was thoroughly prepared for newspapers, under a general program to carry the plan out.

We would like to call attention to a few matters in respect to this. This property was purchased by those representing the bondholders for a very small sum per acre. This was $235 an acre, we believe.

It is now proposed to sell to the county 115 acres for the taxes that are due, at the rate of about four times or more the amount that these people paid for it. If they could succeed in finding a buyer for 400 or 500 more acres at this same price, they could pay off their bonds, as well as their taxes, and have the balance of 2000 acres in their hands, without cost.

We can hardly believe that this acreage is as valuable as it was at the time it was purchased. If they are going to sell acreage to the county for taxes, certainly the county should not pay more per acre, than was paid for it by the present owners, who bought it with the full knowledge of the taxes due. If the purpose is to buy acreage to meet the delinquency, let the county get enough acreage to meet it at a fair price.

It may be urged then that some of the land that the county would get could not be used for the flood control. But, as a matter of fact, some of the land, which it is proposed to buy, is not to be used for flood control, in any case, for some of it is to be turned over, ostensibly, for a junior college, and the other for a park for the city of Fullerton. So that if it is being bought for other purposes than flood control, let it be bought at a price certainly not greater than what was paid for it when the tract was purchased. If this land is of value, 100 or 200 acres of the 400 or 500 coming from this tax might well be utilized for the unemployed, and profitably for the county.

In the second place, it is very questionable whether it is ever profitable for a county, or any other political unit, to buy property, except for specific uses, which are a part of the program that is agreed upon by the tax-making body. As far as the county is concerned, it is entirely possible that this program will never be carried out. It is in part in harmony with the recommendation made by an engineer.

But the only manner in which the county could, in justice, assume the financial responsibility for a flood control dam in Brea canyon, would be for those who are benefitted there, to join in some program that would be equally beneficial to those sections of Orange county, that would not be benefitted at all by the flood control in Brea canyon. The reason why some bond issues have been defeated has been because it was proposed to bond sections of the county for enterprises for which those sections had no benefit.

The initial step must be taken by the board of supervisors. If it is going to carry on this Elliott project, bonds would have to be voted. The next step should be the presentation of it to the people of the county. With that carried, such land as is necessary to be purchased is one of the later steps, but that land should be purchased at a reasonable price, so that the taxpayers are protected, and are profited.

There is probably no delinquent tax owner of property in this county but who would be willing to sell a portion of his land for four times what he paid for it, in order to meet his taxes. But a business group would not so purchase it.

It should be borne in mind that this land which is in discussion, does not constitute all the land that is necessary to be bought for this flood control plan in Brea canyon.

We are rather afraid that those who are interested in making a good deal for the ranch, and those whom they employ to help them do it, are rather presenting a set-up for the purpose of enhancing the value of the land, and ridding themselves of debt, without proposing to even sell the land for what they paid for it.

In noting the list of those who are owners of it, we should judge that they are not even residents of Orange county. They are quite well-to-do citizens, and they, if the county does not meet their desires, will pay their taxes. The county, the city of Fullerton and the school district can then carry out such a program, and its determination can be in the interest of each, without being forced to do it along a certain line, as this plan would necessitate.

PUTTING WAR PICTURES TO A STRANGE USE

It would be amusing, if it were not so tragic, to notice the "uncensored" war pictures that are being published in the Hearst newspapers. These pictures are horrifying to the extreme. To see the pictures of men cut down in the prime of life, corded like wood in the wagon, for interment in an unmarked and unknown grave, makes war horrible in the extreme.

Then to realize that these young men not only had no ill will against those who killed them, but didn't even know what the war was about, again argues against the whole damnable, murderous traffic.

The publisher of these pictures is endeavoring to use them as evidence of need of greater preparation. But when we note that these "cord-wood" bodies, are the bodies of the youth of the nations best prepared for war in the world's history, Germany and France, we then are convinced that being prepared for war was the main thing that produced the war. And the preparations through which nations are now going are the most absolute assurance and compelling power to produce war itself.

No, "preparation" did not protect the millions of German youth. You will have to look elsewhere, in such places as Switzerland, where they had no army, to see peace and quietness, and young men active, and doing their wonted work, and living a life of usefulness to the natural end. The biggest fraud and deception that is attempted to be perpetrated upon the people anywhere, is the idea that to make a man of peace and to walk in the ways of peace, you must have a walking arsenal.

The nations which were prepared for war are the nations of the world that are most depopulated of their youth. The nations that were least prepared, and were driven into it, at least did not suffer as the prepared nations did.

In proportion as the attention of the world and the people of the nations is directed to war, and armament being the method, just in that same proportion is interest withdrawn from the only way that settlements finally will be made after death and destruction, namely, around the conference table.

THE NEW STYLES IN AUTOMOBILES

Some one remarked recently that many people have developed the same emotional differences concerning automobiles as they have concerning their religion and their politics. This is an indication of how deeply the automobile has become a factor in everyday life.

We have discovered that it does not take much to provoke a redhot argument between two men who have acquired different cars in a similar price class. Each appears to be thoroughly convinced that his car has it all over the other. It goes faster, it takes less gas per mile, it has this gadget or that one, it rides more comfortably. And he is quite as positive that the other car is an oil burner, has nothing under the hood, and will be a tin can after the first 5000 miles.

How fine it is that every man is satisfied with his own car, as he is with his own religion and his own political party. But why can the most of us not enjoy our automobile, our religion, and our political party without running down the other fellow's brand? It is to be taken for granted that each man's automobile, or religion, or political party gives him real service or comfort, otherwise he would make a change.

It is just as well that we all differ somewhat in taste and likes. We forget that the same kind of a man who prefers a violent colored suit of clothes or a brown derby will prefer a loud-looking automobile. The Indian was glad that everybody was not alike; otherwise, he said, everyone else would want his squaw.

The world is full of different people, one liking one thing, another liking something else. Variety is the spice of life. And the different styles of automobiles on the market offer that variety. Each to his taste, and success to every salesman that he may find the right customer.

"Indians at Work"

Washington Star

Among the most interesting of Government publications is the mimeographed periodical, "Indians at Work," which John Collier established when he assumed office as Commissioner of Indian Affairs. It is an unpretending presentation, but it serves its purpose effectively enough, and it may be hoped that it will become an institution, a permanent feature of the office's work. The public surely desires to know what is being done by and for the Indian community, and a paper of this type can be a valuable medium for the dissemination of useful information on the subject.

Mr. Collier appears to have grappled with the problems of his position with his accustomed ardor and enthusiasm. Curious combination of dreamer and crusader that he is by birth and training, he has seized the opportunity to accomplish the reforms which many years of study have suggested to his mind. His present philosophy he outlines in the words:

"Indians want self-government. This indian administration wants it for them as strongly as any Indian wants it for himself. Let the Indian begin now, by examining their own problem of land legislation and self-government legislation.

"Let them think these questions down into operative detail as applied to their own local lands and lives. Let them organize for study of these matters and for action upon them. Let them register their judgments and their wills with the department and with Congress.

"Hard and persevering factual thinking by Indian tribes is called for, if self-government is to become a reality. Such hard and factual thinking is first of all needed in the shaping of the enabling legislation for self-government. Equally is this true if lands are to be safeguarded, and new land acquisitions provided for, and new business capital acquired, by means of new legislation.

"It is not meant that only the Indians must think steadfastly, boldly and yet cautiously. We at the Washington office must think hard, as likewise must the committees of Congress, and the field forces of the Indian Service must join with the Indians in finding light and supplying to Washington the needed light.

"An unrolling, cumulative achievement, stage succeeding stage, across years: such, if it be destined to succeed, must this self-government and this land regeneration, program be . . . Let us work together."

There is a novel note in this appeal, and it has the attraction of its difference from traditional concepts of the revelation between the Government and the Indians. First viewed as enemies, then as wards, the surviving remnants of the Indian race successively were persecuted and vicariously coddled. But now under a phase of the New Deal Mr. Collier is attempting to place Indian men and women on a par with other Americans of a similar cultural and social status. He is neither fighting them nor catering to them. He is reassuring an unreserved confidence in their essential humanity, and is calling upon them to solve their own problems by the exercise of their own genius, granting them guidance and help as needed, but remaining faithful to the ideal of self-determination throughout.

Thousands deeply interested in Indian welfare will pray that the experiment may succeed. Its key, perhaps, is the word "work."

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TO A THERMOMETER

I should not mind the falling snow
Nor yet the blizzard's biting blizz
Were you not there to let me know
Each passing hour how cold it is.
But when I watch your column sink
Through fast diminishing degrees,
I shudder with dismay; I think
I'm going to freeze.
I wrap a scarf about my throat
And don a winter overcoat.

I should not mind mid-summer heat
Nor deem too sultry was the air
To take a stroll along the street
Were you not dourly hanging there.
But when I cast a glance at you,
Leaves seem to wither on the bough
And perspiration beads with dew
My fevered brow.
I hasten to some shady spot
And murmur, "Golly! Ain't it hot?"

The Eskimo pursues the seals
With his keen, crudely fashioned spear;
The lucky creature never feels
The keen and frigid atmosphere.
The Hottentots in sunshine bask
And on the tepid breakers gaze,
And none of them would ever ask
For cooler days.
How happier they are than we
Who broil or freeze, as you decree!

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Me and pop was taking a wawk before supper, me asking hard questions such as why your hands dont seem to get so derty after you grow up and if a berd gets mad when her eggs dont hatch after she's sat on them about a month, and would it be wrong for childern to smoke if they were growing too fast anyways and it would be a good thing if their growth was stumped a little, and pop said, I think if I had a cigar perhaps I could give more intelligible ansers to some of your unintelligible questions.

And we went in Pawl's cigar store and some lady was buying a box of cigars, saying, Are you sure my husband will like these?

Yes indeed I'm quite sure, Mr. Pawl said, and the lady said, But what makes you so sure? and Mr. Pawl said, My deer madam, any man with the good taist to select you for a wife is bound to have the discrimination to injoy a good box of Flora Superba cigars.

Making the lady giggle and buy the cigars, and she went out with them, being a lady that mite of been prettier if her nose hadn't of been so pointy, and Mr. Pawl said to pop, Good evening, Mr. Potts, what would you like?

I'd like a box of a hundred finest Havanas made especially for me by the order of the president of Cuba with each cigar rapped in a 10 doller bill by a ravishing dark eyed senyorita, but inasmuch as I have a very small chance of getting what I like, how about some Lord Pinkeys, 10 cent size? You keep them, dont you? he said.

No, we don't keep them, we sell them, Mr. Pawl said, and pop said, That makes us even, sell me 3.

Wich Mr. Pawl did, and me and pop kept on wawking, me asking more questions and pop ansering some and not listening to the rest until we went home for supper, being liver and onions in pop's honor.

Thoughts On Modern Life

By GLENN FRANK

WILL WEALTH HAVE WISDOM?

That the organized drive against the Roosevelt program which seemed in the immediate offing a few months ago has not proceeded with much momentum raises some interesting questions in which the national destiny is involved.

Is this but the watchful waiting of a political opposition and a traditional business leadership that consider it too early to strike openly? Or does it mean that as the months pass men generally are beginning to realize that, in its main objective, the Roosevelt program is not so much a dynamiting of the American economic order as a defense of it through honest readjustment?

I hope it is the latter.

There are, as I have said so often, many details of the Roosevelt program that seem to me to fly in the face of sound economics, if it is to be more than an emergency measure; but; in its main objective, I am convinced that the Roosevelt program represents the sort of experimental readjustment of an old economic order to a new world that the business leadership of the country should have been fostering on its own account for the last decade or more.

Of two things I am full convinced:

(1) Millions of Americans had fundamentally lost faith in the inherent soundness of the system under which they were living when they marched to the voting booth last November. In other periods of stress and strain public opinion had been enraged at this or that leader or group but, in the main, there had been general confidence in the good faith and soundness of the political and economic system. Last November a new mood was on the people. I do not mean that they were consciously revolutionary in their ideas. I mean only that they were disillusioned. Another winter devoid of bold and imaginative attack upon the obvious sins of the political and economic system would, in my judgment, have made unleashed and utterly irresponsible radicalism the order of the day. Roosevelt—even if half his specific measures prove ultimately unworkable—worked the miracle of stopping an imminent mood of dangerous radicalism.

(2) If the political opposition and traditional business leadership should succeed in sabotaging the present process of readjustment, its failure will, in my opinion, mark the end of capitalism and democracy in the United States, for it is not in the cards to preserve either if an intelligently directed process of sweeping readjustment to new needs proves impossible.

Never has there been greater need of a nation-wide collaboration of all persons and all parties.

Our Children

By Angelo Patri

HOME WORK

It would be fine to hope that this school term would bring no trouble to children, teachers and parents about home work. Home work is always a troublesome affair. Some children insist upon having it in plenty and some insist upon having none of it whatever. Some teachers like to assign reams of it, and some do not like to give any. A few parents ask that no homework be given the children while others think that the school is failing in its duty when the children are not occupied with lessons for the entire evening.

"Give him something to do. Then he won't bother the whole family all evening." "Please give Ellen homework in arithmetic. She doesn't seem to get it at all and we think she ought to have extra homework to bring her up." "Robert isn't getting any homework. Please see that he gets some in every lesson every night so we can keep him busy."

Maybe if we fixed on a reason for home work we might do better. My notion of it is that in the first three grades or so, no homework ought to be given the children. Five hours of school is a long period for little children to be held to silence and stillnes and mental effort. For some children it is too much. They all should be free in the afternoon for play, home chores and leisured occupations of their own choosing.

In the next three grades, fourth, fifth, and sixth, I would give the children who needed an extra period on a lesson, a homework lesson in the subject requiring it. I would not give every child a lesson in every subject every night. Distribute the work according to the needs o fthe children, over the course of study. I would not ask these children to do more than forty-five minutes of such work.

The children of the upper grades need homework. It should be a varied form of something that has already been taught in the class room, and it ought to be short. Two problems instead of five or seven or ten. Five new words that have been taught in class, can be assigned for further study at home, and their use shown in sentence form, or in a definition that actually defines. One paragraph on a sharp and valuable point will be enough of written English. A few pointed questions in geography and history rather than a series of pages. "Prepare answers to these questions for tomorrow. They cover the lesson we have just been over. Do not write them. Be prepared with oral answers," is a sound idea of a home lesson.

The whole course of study ought not to be represented in one evening's work. Teachers should consult before lessons are assigend so that the load is well distributed. A wise teacher never assigns home lessons that she cannot correct personally. And the wisest teacher does not use her strength in correcting hundreds of papers by lamp light. Homework, to be valuable, should strengthen the pupil's knowledge and inform the teacher of the condition of his mind in her subject.

Homework should be given in conservative amount, according to the needs of the individual child, and to the time and energy that the teacher has to devote to its correction and criticism. It ought never be given just for busy work.

(Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply.)
